HINDENBURG GREETS FLYERS

Today

Number 2 Arrives.

In Luther's Town.
Two Kinds of Starving.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

TWICE in succession, American flyers have crossed the Atlantic at one "hop," Lindbergh flying to Paris, Chamberlin, with Levine, almost to Berlin.

What will military and naval gentlemen say now about their theory that "the airplane is no real menace to this country?"

Out of two attempts to fly across the ocean by American flyers, both succeed.

WHAT would be the probable percentage of success if 5,000 foreign aviators, with full government backing and unlimited expenditure of money, should fly the other way on a hostile errand?

IT'S a little late for government officials to realize that men actually do fly and that so far as defense goes, the ocean of water no longer exists.

Battleships and coast defense guns are a joke. What could the German navy have done against Chamberlin, flying toward Berlin, 20,000 feet up? Nobody knew he was near until he flew down and made himself known.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will devote earnest attention to this plain fact.

A hostile European nation could send a thousand or two thousand bomb dropping air machines westward across the Atlantic today and within 48 hours New York, Boston and Washington could be wiped out.

GOLF, according to accident insurance companies, comes third among "dangerous sports." Victims of 451 golf accidents collected insurance last year. Twelve for "cuts with sharp instruments." The instruments were bottles, on the "19th hole." However, for one man injured at golf, one hundred die for lack of exercise, so play golf.

CHAMBERLIN and Levine ended the longest non-stop flight on record, in Saxony, Prussia, in the town of Eisleben, where Martin Luther was born and died.

What would Luther have thought could he have seen that bird from the air land in his town?

MRS. ADA SAWYER GARRETT, aged 74, is taken to a hospital, half starved. She had been economizing on food "to avoid poverty in my old age," lived on 37 cents a day, and owns $6,000,000 worth of property, including $1,500,000 cash, as shown in court. She is declared incompetent.

If SHE had been an old man, starving his brain and his spirit instead of starving his stomach, in pursuit of more wealth, she would have been "quite normal," and nobobdy would have interfered.

CHEVROLET CAR REPORTED STOLEN

Wife, Doubting Story Her Husband Told, Kills Him

NEW YORK, June 8.—Mrs. Margaret Thompkinson, 30, of Coney Island, didn't believe her husband, George Thompkinson, also 30, a cook, when he returned home at 3:30 this morning, saying he had been working.

She accused him of "cheating." She became so furious she seized an eight-inch bread knife and plunged it into his side, severing an artery. Within five minutes he was dead.

The woman, mother of two children, was arrested. The police investigated and found that the story the husband told his wife was true.

Authorities Investigate Deaths of Michael A. McIltrot, 41, and Mrs. R. S. Bryan, 30.

MURDER, SUICIDE, POLICE THEORY

Slain Newspaper Worker is Father of Seven Children While Companion is Mother of Three.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 8.—Lawrence county authorities today were investigating the deaths of Michael A. McIltrot, 41, circulation manager of the Elwood City, Pa., Ledger, and Mrs. R. S. Bryan, 30, also of Elwood City, whose bodies were found in an automobile, said to belong to Mrs. Bryan, late last night, three miles east of New Castle.

Gun in Woman's Hand.

McIltrot had been shot through the heart and Mrs. Bryan through the temple. Mrs. Bryan's lifeless hand clutched a revolver, leading authorities to express the belief that the woman had killed McIltrot and then committed suicide.

The bodies were discovered by Sheriff W. H. Reynolds, after Isaac Anderson, a farmer, had notified him that a "petting party" had caused him to drive into a ditch to get around their car, parked in the middle of the road.

McIltrot is said to be the father of seven children while Mrs. Bryan is the mother of three.

Identification was established by Coroner J. P. Caldwell and the body of Mrs. Bryan was later identified by her husband, the sheriff said.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—President Coolidge will call congress to meet in extra session between October 1 and 15.

This was announced today by Senator Smoot (R.), of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, after a long conference with the president at the White House.

Program Outlined.

Flood control and rehabilitation of the stricken areas of the south will be the chief work of congress, Smoot declared. Tax reduction, farm relief and the Smith-Vare election fights also will be considered, Smoot said.

In addition, Smoot added, congress will have to overcome the "technical blunders caused by the failure to pass th deficiency bill at the last session."

The budget bureau is working on the government's financial program and will have it ready for submission as soon as congress returns, Smoot stated.

He predicted that congress would cut the nation's tax bill by at least $300,000,000.

By meeting in October congress will get to work two months ahead of the regular time for convening in December.

BELLANCA LOST DURING LAST LAP OF FLIGHT, GERMAN TOLD

Crowds Cheer as Chamberlin and Levine go to Mansion.

SOLDIERS SALUTE

U. S. Ambassador Gives Dinner, Stresemann Will Entertain.

BERLIN, June 8.—For the first time since he landed in Germany, Clarence Chamberlin revealed today that the Bellanca plane was lost over Europe during the last lap of the transocean flight with both compasses out of order.

Story of Aerial Adventure.

Chamberlin told the story of the great aerial adventure to President Hindenburg, who received Chamberlin and his companion, Charles A. Levine, in audience.

"We ran into a heavy snow storm over the ocean," Chamberlin told the German president, "and tried to avoid it by rising above it, but it was hard to get up because of the heavy load of gasoline.

"We didn't get to Ireland, as we had expected, but came in [illegible] to the south of [illegible]

"When we were over the continent again we again hit a heavy storm and we tried to dodge it by zig-zagging north and south. That is how we began to lose our bearings.

Why They Missed Berlin.

"Towards dawn we saw a large city [illegible] the ground to orient ourselves. It was Dortmund but we thought it was Bremerhaven. For that reason we flew considerably to the south and that is why we missed Berlin and finally landed at Cottbus. Once we had lost our orientation it was impossible to pick up our direction because, though we had taken two compases, both got out of order. One went out of commission over the ocean and the other one after we were over the continent, so that we were finally without any compass at all and the skies were too hazy for us to find our way."

Chamberlin and his flying companion, were received by the German chieftain at the presidental mansion.

FIVE-MAN RACE FORECAST FOR REPUBLICAN MAYORALTY NOMINATION AT PRIMARIES ON AUGUST 9

Race for the Republican nomination for mayor at the August 9 primaries will be a five-man affair with two members of city council, two business men and a former mayor, participating, it was indicated today. Candidates have until midnight Friday in which to qualify.

Former Mayor Charles Brown, who retired from office two years ago following his defeat for renomination in the primary election, tossed his hat in the ring today, when he applied for candidacy declaration papers at the election board office.

A. U. Richardson, cooperage company official, former clerk of court and ex-service director, will also qualify.

Charles W. "Heimie" Davis, owner of a cigar store at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets, filed his declaration of candidacy yesterday. N. P. Kerr, president of city council, and Thomas Farrall, councilman-at-large, had previously entered the race.

Paul Allison, who operated a grocery store on St. Clair avenue several years ago, took out paper several weeks ago, stating that he intended to enter the mayoralty race but has not yet qualified. Should he file six candidates will be in the field.

A. Earl Edwards, former member of city council and city treasurer for the last two terms, filed yesterday for clerk of the municipal court. Papers have also been taken out by Mrs. Alice Birch, incumbent, who was appointed to succeed the late Miss Ruth Finnie, and Mrs. Florence Moss Bowers, who ran as an independent candidate two years ago.

Although no declarations had been filed up to noon today, a large councilmanic field is expected.

Arthur L. Wallover, it is reported, will seek the Republican nomination in First ward. W. H. Kelly, filling out the unexpired term of Edgar H. Heddleston as second ward representativve, will seek re-nomination. Others mentioned as possible candidates are H. S. Lindell, William Barlow and M. W. Thompson. The latter two are residents of the territory recently annexed by the city.

Solon L. M. Poole has already entered the race for a second term at Third ward representative. The name of A. E. Harris has also been mentioned for this place.

George A. Hughes, who has served two terms in council as the Fourth ward member, has thrown his hat in the ring for re-nomination. Friends of Clyde Hall are seeking to enter his name in the Fourth ward race, it is said.

Otto Kommel, who is serving the unexpired term of O. J. Herrington, will be a candidate to succeed himself. Grant Myler has also taken out a paper, indicating he will be a candidate for council-at-large.

Joseph Strauss, assistant ticket agent at the Cleveland & Pittsburgh passenger station, is the only aspirant for city treasurer. However, Ray T. Adam may enter this race, according to reports.

John Stamm, former city treasurer, it is reported, will oppose William McGraw, seeking his fourth term, for city aduitor.

Frank H. Hoover will have no opposition, it is believed, for a second term as city solicitor.

Democratic leaders assert they will place a complete ticket in the field, although it is not likely that there will be any contests.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum will seek a second term. C. A. Goodballet will probably file for First ward council, while Ross Dor[illegible] reported to be a council aspir[illegible] the Second ward. Party [illegible] will meet in the city hall building tonight to name candidates for other offices.

BELLANCA LOST DURING LAST LAP OF FLIGHT, GERMAN TOLD

Crowds Cheer as Chamberlin and Levine go to Mansion.

SOLDIERS SALUTE

U. S. Ambassador Gives Dinner, Stresemann Will Entertain.

BERLIN, June 8.—For the first time since he landed in Germany, Clarence Chamberlin revealed today that the Bellanca plane was lost over Europe during the last lap of the transocean flight with both compasses out of order.

Story of Aerial Adventure.

Chamberlin told the story of the great aerial adventure to President Hindenburg, who received Chamberlin and his companion, Charles A. Levine, in audience.

"We ran into a heavy snow storm over the ocean," Chamberlin told the German president, "and tried to avoid it by rising above it, but it was hard to get up because of the heavy load of gasoline.

"We didn't get to Ireland, as we had expected, but came to Europe rather to the south of Ireland, over the Irish channel.

"When we were over the continent again we again hit a heavy storm and we tried to dodge it by zig-zagging north and south. That is how we began to lose our bearings.

Why They Missed Berlin.

"Towards dawn we saw a large city [illegible] the ground to orient ourselves. It was Dortmund but we thought it was Bremerhaven. For that reason we flew considerably to the south and that is why we missed Berlin and finally landed at Cottbus. Once we had lost our orientation it was impossible to pick up our direction because, though we had taken two compases, both got out of order. One went out of commission over the ocean and the other one after we were over the continent, so that we were finally without any compass at all and the skies were too hazy for us to find our way."

Chamberlin and his flying companion, were received by the German chieftain at the presidental mansion.

FIVE-MAN RACE FORECAST FOR REPUBLICAN MAYORALTY NOMINATION AT PRIMARIES ON AUGUST 9

Race for the Republican nomination for mayor at the August 9 primaries will be a five-man affair with two members of city council, two business men and a former mayor, participating, it was indicated today. Candidates have until midnight Friday in which to qualify.

Former Mayor Charles Brown, who retired from office two years ago following his defeat for renomination in the primary election, tossed his hat in the ring today, when he applied for candidacy declaration papers at the election board office.

A. U. Richardson, cooperage company official, former clerk of court and ex-service director, will also qualify.

Charles W. "Heimie" Davis, owner of a cigar store at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets, filed his declaration of candidacy yesterday. N. P. Kerr, president of city council, and Thomas Farrall, councilman-at-large, had previously entered the race.

Paul Allison, who operated a grocery store on St. Clair avenue several years ago, took out paper several weeks ago, stating that he intended to enter the mayoralty race but has not yet qualified. Should he file six candidates will be in the field.

A. Earl Edwards, former member of city council and city treasurer for the last two terms, filed yesterday for clerk of the municipal court. Papers have also been taken out by Mrs. Alice Birch, incumbent, who was appointed to succeed the late Miss Ruth Finnie, and Mrs. Florence Moss Bowers, who ran as an independent candidate two years ago.

Although no declarations had been filed up to noon today, a large councilmanic field is expected.

Arthur L. Wallover, it is reported, will seek the Republican nomination in First ward. W. H. Kelly, filling out the unexpired term of Edgar H. Heddleston as second ward representativve, will seek re-nomination. Others mentioned as possible candidates are H. S. Lindell, William Barlow and M. W. Thompson. The latter two are residents of the territory recently annexed by the city.

Solon L. M. Poole has already entered the race for a second term at Third ward representative. The name of A. E. Harris has also been mentioned for this place.

George A. Hughes, who has served two terms in council as the Fourth ward member, has thrown his hat in the ring for re-nomination. Friends of Clyde Hall are seeking to enter his name in the Fourth ward race, it is said.

Otto Kommel, who is serving the unexpired term of O. J. Herrington, will be a candidate to succeed himself. Grant Myler has also taken out a paper, indicating he will be a candidate for council-at-large.

Joseph Strauss, assistant ticket agent at the Cleveland & Pittsburgh passenger station, is the only aspirant for city treasurer. However, Ray T. Adam may enter this race, according to reports.

John Stamm, former city treasurer, it is reported, will oppose William McGraw, seeking his fourth term, for city aduitor.

Frank H. Hoover will have no opposition, it is believed, for a second term as city solicitor.

Democratic leaders assert they will place a complete ticket in the field, although it is not likely that there will be any contests.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum will seek a second term. C. A. Goodballet will probably file for First ward council, while Ross Dorf is reported to be a council aspirant [illegible] the Second ward. Party [illegible] will meet in the city hall building tonight to name candidates [illegible] other offices.

TREPOD CASE BEING PROBED

Italian Consul Takes Up Defense of Alleged Murderer.

Cavalier Valerio Caleriani, Italian consul stationed at Cleveland, was in Wellsburg and Steubenville yesterday in conference with attorneys for James Trepod, now being held in jail for the alleged murder of Dr. Diego Delfino, Steubenville and Follansbee physician, whose body was found in his automobile, the engine of which was still running, parked along the roadway near Follansbee, last November.

The consul and his attorney, Louis R. Lanza, of Cleveland, spent most of the day in Wellsburg in conference with former Prosecutor Robert L. Ramsay, who is representing Trepod, the defendant, in the Brooke county action. Present at the conference were Attorney R. B. Cohen, one of the attorneys who represented Trepod recently in Steubenville when he was acquitted after a week's trial for the murder of Dominic Spinetti, South Sixth street confectioner, Attorney Thomas S. Rock, who also helped defend Trepod here and R. D. Mantica, Steubenville correspondent for the Italian consulate at Cleveland.

According to Mr. Rock, Chavalier was told point blank that Trepod is being persecuted rather than prosecuted. Review of his trial in Steubenville was given at length along with a review of the action of the Brooke county authorities soon after Dr. Delfino's murder when another man, other than Trepod, one Nick Martolo, by name, was indicted for Dr. Delfino's death, was reported in custody and later announcement was made that he had not been apprehended.

Attorney Ramsay stated at the conference that Trepod could not possibly have been the man that murdered Delfino, in that Trepod was married November 15 and was on his honeymoon when Defino was killed and that hotel records were in his hands showing that Trepod was many miles away from Brooke county at the time of the murder.

The presence of Chavalier Valteriani in Wellsburg during the time of the Brooke county grand jury was deliberating Trepod's case indicated that the case is attracting international prominence. Once the requested affidavits are forthcoming, Valeriani stated he would return to Wellsburg, possibly within the next two weeks.

BROOKE COUNTY COURT UPHELD

A decision of the state supreme court of West Virginia, received in Wellsburg Tuesday gives the Brooke county court the authority to lay a special levy for the purpose of purchasing property and thereon erecting public buildings, that the court deems necessary.

This decision overrules a permanent injunction granted a certain group of Brooke county citizens by Judge J. H. Brennan, in the circuit court of Ohio county, which restrained the county court from purchasing the Loggie and Carmichael properties on Main and Fourteenth streets, for the erection of a new court house, sheriff's residence and county jail.

The county court so it is authentically understood will make preparations immediately for having plans and specifications for a new court house, sheriff's residence and jail, drawn. The court will seek bids for the erection of the public buildings on a unit building program basis. A jail will be constructed first, and as the extra levy money is available the court house building and sheriff's residence will be constructed.

The county court expects the new building to cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Lindy's Flight Eclipses Cottbus Jump, Says Bertaud

CLEVELAND, June 8. — The flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris eclipsed that of Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, from New York to Cottbus, Germany, in the opinion of Lloyd W. Bertaud, Cleveland air mail pilot, once booked to make the trip in the Bellanca plane.

"Lindbergh's plans were perfect," Bertaud declared, "and despite the greater distance covered by Chamberlain, it took no glory away from Lindbergh."

CHAMBERLIN SURE FLIGHT WOULD SUCCEED

Wife Says Columbia Pilot Never Thought of Failure.

TELLS OF YOUTH

Mrs. Chamberlin is Pianist; May Resume Concert Playing.

By Ruby Weil.

NEW YORK, June 8.—So sure was Clarence D. Chamberlin of the success of his trans-Atlantic non-stop flight that he and his wife never even discussed the possibility of failure.

"He wouldn't have started had we not both been sure he would make it," explained his wife, who almost made the trip. Charming and youthful in a flowered silk dress, Mrs. Chamberlin, refreshed after hearing husband was safely across ocean, and in Germany, chatted gaily, turning constantly to anecdotes about the flyers.

"He must have flown lower than planned so he would be seen and word could be sent back that he was safe," she asserted.

Mrs. Chamberlin tells of her husband's early interest in mechanics. "He used to take a one-cylinder Oldsmobile apart," she says laughingly. "I suppose that was one of the first automobiles built. He was so small, that when he drove it he had to stand up to touch the gas."

Jumping back to his youth, she proudly told how he worked his way through Iowa State College, where he studied electrical engineering. "He used to go every day from Ames, where the college is, to Des Moines to work in the electrical section of railroad shops there," she said. "At the end of the first year, he had $700 to his credit. I think that part of his career ought to be known."

Mrs. Chamberlin May Resume Concert Playing.

Mrs. Chamberlin is a pianist of ability. It is the ambition of the flyer and his wife that she resume concert playing, she said.

A story is told that Chamberlin did much hazardous flying in winter, sometimes replacing his landing gear with skiis, to help pay for his wife's musical education. Questioned about the story, Mrs. Chamberlin merely replied modestly but proudly, "Clarence HAS deprived himself for me."

The Chamberlins were married January 13, 1919, at Independence, Ia., with the temperature 23 below zero. Mrs. Chamberlin, who was Wilda Van Debegort, smiling, admitted she is "not quite thirty." She looks several years younger.

Chamberlin, whose home town is Denison, Ia., is 32. He not only had the first motorcycle in town but the first auto in his county. Of English and American stock—his mother having been born in London and his father in Iowa,—he has ever been known for the daring and the determination that has culminated in his record-breaking flight—the longest non-stop flight on record.

A story is told that Chamberlin did much hazardous flying in winter, sometimes replacing his landing gear with skiis, to help pay for his wife's musical education. Questioned about the story, Mrs. Chamberlin merely replied modestly but proudly, "Clarence HAS deprived himself for me."

The Chamberlins were married January 13, 1919, at Independence, Ia., with the temperature 23 below zero. Mrs. Chamberlin, who was Wilda Van Debegort, smiling, admitted she is "not quite thirty." She looks several years younger.

Chamberlin, whose home town is Denison, Ia., is 32. He not only had the first motorcycle in town but the first auto in his county. Of English and American stock—his mother having been born in London and his father in Iowa,—he has ever been known for the daring and the determination that has culminated in his record-breaking flight—the longest non-stop flight on record.

LINDY'S FATHER FOUGHT FOR BELIEFS IN CONGRESS

CAPITAL CITY RECALLS TALL SCANDINAVIAN

Non-stop Aviator's Parent Described as Viking Type.

WAS INSURGENT

He Was One of Most Respected Men in Washington.

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Not an old timer in congress who still lingers in Washington but has been asked scores of times in the last fortnight, did you know Charlie Lindbergh's father?

And not one whose first coming to Capital Hill antedates 1917, when Congressman Lindbergh's career here ended, but remembers the father of the New York-Paris non-stop aviator.

One met he was not a man to be forgotten. A tall, big boned Scandinavian, with huge hands and feet, Clerk William Tyler Page of the house of representatives, described him as the viking type in a strongly masculine way and very handsome.

But as to his personality, versions differ widely.

Of Insurgent Group.

Lindbergh came to Washington from Minnesota as a Republican. It was soon apparent, however, that he was of the Insurgent Group and a singularly irreconcilable one. His specialty was monetary reform. He was for government banks and exclusive governmental control of the issue of currency.

His views were not such as to commend him to the "money power." But for a while he was not taken very seriously. A "nut," the old line regulars called him.

A rude awakening was in store for them. In 1910, about forty insurgent Republicans, under the leadership of Representative, now Senator, Norris, combined with Democrats and overthrew Speaker Cannon's power. Lindbergh was conspicuous among these insurrectos. Insurgency had ceased to be funny.

The Independents, originally disregarded, became unpopular. Some of them lived it down. "A radical," as one old timer expressed it in recalling Lindbergh's career, "frequently mellows with successive terms in congress and sometimes develops into quite an ultra conservative, but Lindbergh never did.

Congress presently passed under Democratic control. Then war broke out.

As it progressed, Lindbergh protested that "commercilization" of the struggle was breeding belligerent sentiment in this country. With the strengthening of the tendency the harder he fought it.

Retired Prior to War.

Retiring from congress in 1917 he missed the vote on America's declaration of hostlities, though he made no secret of the fact that he would have been against it.

One of his last acts in Washington was to attempt impeachment proceedings against the Federal Reserve Board.

His subsequent campaign for governor of Minnesota was watched with the keenest interest in Washington, for it was evident that he was running strongly and pro-war sentiment in congress was violently exercised at the thought of victory by a candidate who was by that time openly denounced as a Pacifist.

All for Father Now.

Conservative sentiment on Capital Hill has undergone a remarkable change in the last three weeks. Today the late Congressman Lindbergh is Lindy's father. No, maybe he wasn't so popular, but he was one of the most respected men in Washington for his inflexible honesty and viking courage.

That's the conservative version.

But there is another story. Ask one of the Liberal group—and he'll say Congressman Lindbergh was a crusader, a man who fought for what he believed was right and never weighed the consequences, and at the same time the most lovable who ever served in congress. That's the alternative account.

A speech maker? No, they all agree. Lindbergh talked little but sawed more wood than any champion in insurgent history.

D. FRANK WHITE INSTITUTES SUIT

D. Frank White, East End, has brought suit in municipal court to collect $300 from Ervin Tice, 918 Riley avenue, for damages alleged to have been done to White's automobile when struck by a car driven by Tice along the River road last July.

White claims that he and Tice entered into an agreement on August 2, 1926, whereby the latter was to pay $8 bi-weekly until $300 had been paid. White alleges that he spent $365.50 in repairing his car, but that he agreed to settle for $300.

No part of the money has been paid by Tice, the plaintiff, who is represented by the law firm of Brookes & Thompson, claims.

Everybody Loves Clear, White Skin

You might fail to notice most anything else, but never the woman who keeps herself irresistible by preserving her skin's rosy clearness, free from even the tiniest speck of discoloration. Her presence is felt instantly whereever she goes.

This charm is not impossible for you. Most of the women you admire so for their youthful complexion will tell you it is easy to keep your skin clear and as soft as the petals of a rose.

Just squeeze the juice of two lemons into a three-ounce bottle of Orchard White and massage this entrancingly fragrant lotion into your skin. It is marvelous how quickly it clears away all freckles, tan and discolorations. It is simple and so inexpensive. Two lemons, and a bottle of Orchard White which you can get from any dealer.

SHERMAN ROHR APPEALS CASE

Case of Sherman Rohr against the National Drawn Steel company of East End, recently tried in municipal court, has been carried to common pleas court on error by Rohr as plaintiff in error. In the lower court the plaintiff sought to recover $69.85 claimed to be due on a pay check, and when the case was tried, judgment was returned in favor of the defendant, and against the plaintiff in error for $7.40 costs. The transcript in the case has been filed by Attorney Charles Boyd, as counsel for the plaintiff.

Wasted Life

The League of Conservation of Public Health says there are 8,000,000 persons seriously ill in the United States every day. That means about one in every 14.

If this were necessary, it could be endured with more or less patience. But most of it is declared to be unnecessary.

The economic loss is tremendous. The league says American industry loses $1,800,000,000 a year through the absence of workmen caused by preventable disease. If this is true, imagine the total loss from incapacity of all economic classes. It must be two or three times that much.

Still more important, however, is the suffering caused directly by illness. Life itself is more than salary or wages or output, and the sick person is not really living.

A leading physician says there is only $5,000,000 a year spent on "pure medical research," to get at the cause of disease and suggest ways for its eradication. What a pitiful contribution, in the light of the figures given above!

The nation could well afford to spend a billion a year for a few years. The resulting improvement in health and productiveness would soon pay back the cost manyfold, and add inconceivably to the nation's sense of well-being and joy of life.

As The Water's Recede

As the horror of the flood itself abates in the Mississippi valley, with the passing of the crest to the Gulf of Mexico, the horrors which must be faced by homeward-turning refugees call for attention.

A description of the situation tells of Negroes pushing seeds into the ground with bare toes where the water is still some inches deep; of farmers ploughing in the wet mud before the summer sun bakes it into brick-like hardness; of families moving back into the upper stories of their houses while the lower parts are still filled with the slowly sinking water; of stagnant pools producing unprecedented swarms of mosquitoes; of the rank odor of decaying animal and vegetable matter; of the areas where the water obviously will linger too long for the planting and harvesting of any crop at all.

Disease has been remarkably kept in check in the refugee camps. Can it still be held back when people scatter again to their soggy, mud-coated farms and homes?

It is well for the millions of Americans in regions wholly untouched by the flood to think of those things. Building new and higher levees is a vital problem, but it is only one of several vital problems. The task of restoring the region back of the levees to productivity and habitableness is tremendous and immediate.

Think it over! And then send some more money to help along that work.

Air-Cooled Engines

With the demonstration given by Charles Lindbergh's airplane, the air-cooled airplane engine has obviously arrived.

It has been tested now for 10 years, and has been usued lately on a rapidly increasing number of planes in this country, including most of those that were lined up for the New York-to-Paris flight. The perfect performance of Lindbergh's plane has doubtless put it over to the satisfaction of airmen generally. The air-cooling principle will doubtless be adopted by various other engines, because of the big saving in dead weight and inconvenience made possible by eliminating the water radiator.

While this is being done for airplanes, how about automobiles? Only one or two motor cars so far are using the air-cooling principle. It is probably easier to apply on airplane engines because, in action, they operate mostly in air of lower temperature than is found on the ground below, to which the motor cars are confined. Yet the thing has been proved feasible for automobile engines. It would be a blessing for millions of motorists if they were freed from the use of heavy radiators, leaking, boiling over and freezing.

Peach Trees On Ice

There's more than one way to skin a cat, or save a crop. A peach grower in St. Joseph, Ark., have a novel plan to save peaches from late spring frost. It is a homeopathic remedy. Instead of fighting the frost with fire, in the usual form of a smudge on frosty nights, he proposes to fight frost with ice.

He will bury a cake of ice at the foot of every tree in February. That, he thinks, will keep the tree from budding in March and then having the blossoms nipped. It amounts to putting the trees in cold storage until the spring freezes are over. He hopes to save a crop every year, instead of every three or four years.

If the plan woks, it might be applied elsewhere to advantage, for various crops, where ice doesn't cost too much. Eventually an orchard may be kept cool during the dangerous period by means of pipes buried in the soil, carrying a freezing fluid, on the principle of the iceless refrigerator.

When "Big Bill" Thompson, mayor Chicago, declares that American boys shall not be cannon fodder for European battlefields, is he trying to protect a home industry?

Judging from the condition of Louisiana's "Sugar Bowl," the cane sugar prospects this year are all wet.

THE EASIEST THING HE DID

Sounds betokening intense infantile grief caused the passing lady to halt in front of a simple cottage. On the uppermost step of the house sat a small boy. Tears coursed down his cheeks and from him issued a series of broken-hearted howls.

"Oh, dear me," said the lady, "poor little fellow! What's the matter?"

"Oh-h-h!"—the youngster broke a longdrawn wail off short and sniffled deeply and checked his sobbing. 'Daddy and Maw won't take me to the movies tonight. And I want to go to the movies tonight. O-h-h,wow-w-w!"

"But don't cry so," advised the sympathetic one. "Do they ever take you when you cry like that?"

"Sometimes they do and sometimes they don't," explained the child. "But it ain't no trouble to yell!"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 8.—Manhattan is not intentionally snooty about the rest of the world. But the city is so big itself that many of its people become geographically indifferent. In a store this morning a clerk asked me if Havana wasn't in Texas.

It is not an exaggeration that there are those who believe the residents of San Francisco are sitting out in front of their log cabins gnawing frozen buffalo meat wondering who is president. Any place west of Jersey City is camping out.

There is the story of a night club fracas when a nicotine stained habitue whispered to the proprietor: "That bird is liable to get rough and pull a gun—he's a westerner from Buffalo." Most native New Yorkers know more about Europe than America.

Either they have crossed the ocean or their parents have. They get an idea of European hand kissing and rather unconsciously they acquire the impression that men from the hinterland are those with the manners of stable men trying to be John Drews.

This attitude frequently creeps into theatrical criticism when a play hit comes from Chicago. It will be called "a typical Chicago play" as though meant to be derisive. As a matter of fact one sees more cotton umbrellas, gum chewing and celluloid collars in New York than in Indianaoplis.

There is a section of New York unable to realize that more than 50 per cent of the men in evening clothes and the ladies flowering in chic Parisian frocks at the theatre, in the cafes and supper clubs are people from out of town.

Underneath all this distorted smugness there is a heartening side. New Yorkers warm to Western people and western manners. They love Will Rogers and his breezy suggestion of the pampas. Also Tom Mix. Almost anyone who can ride a horse to them is a god.

Down at Atlantic City the other day I asked one of those tatterdemalion chair pushers to speed up. "Can't do it boss. They'll nab me for speedin'," he replied. And he pointed to a confrere who had just spent a session in goal for hitting the high spots. There's a life for those of us approaching gouty isolation—joy riding in a wheel chair.

The shuffling, rachitic chair pushers are outcasts blown to the seaside from all corners of the world. They seem to find a place to hide for, like waiters, no one ever sees a chair pusher's face. Many are those who have seen far better days and have drifted to this rather lowly calling through drink or drugs.

I am told that next season there is to be a great revival of stars of a few years ago or even further back. They are needed. Theater goers have grown a little tired of that stardom encompassed in a lustrous leg and a prop smile. Many of the old timers—such as David Warfield, John Drew, William Gillette, Joe Weber and Lew Fields—are difficult to sign on the dotted line. They have all the money they need and know all about fame. William Collier is an actor seen too little hereabouts. Also George M. Cohan. They, too, are well heeled.

Cohan is seldom seen in the Broadway haunts these days. When he comes to town he has a hideaway in the Hotel Astor but rarely visits the cafes. Most of his time is spent in the country. He more than any other actor has heard the din of the Broadway tom-toms. But the roar apparently no longer interests him. His hair today is almost snow white and yet it seems but yesterday his enthusiastic press clip sheet was hearalding, "Boys, I'm on my first million!"

Paring Down Our Currency.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—It would be difficult to find any one not interested in money. What every one really means by the expression of such an interest relates to the commodities and services which money will buy, but, nevertheless, the shape, size, and appearance of the tokens themselves have a primary fascination. So then the action of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in ordering a reduction in the size of American paper money is going to keep a lot of people curious until the new currency makes its appearance.

Unlike the currency of European countries, the paper money of the United States has always followed almost exactly the same dimensions. For a brief period, many years ago, fractional paper money was issued, but those shinplasters, as they were called, now can be found only in the hands of collectors. The new bills will, at first, give our currency a little of European variety, for only the one dollar bill will be reduced in size.

When this work is under way, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will begin on higher denominations. Eventually all but the national bank notes will be reduced in size. The latter will not be reduced because the smaller note will not provide sufficient space for the name of the issuing bank and the appearance of the name and signatures of the officers is essential under teh law.

The present standard size of all American currency is 7 7-16 by 3 1-8 inches. The new one dollar notes will be 6 1-8 by 2 5-8 inches. That is, the new notes will be 1 5-16 inches shorter and 1-2 inch narrower. Ultimately all of the money will be reduced to this size.

The notable difference in the physical aspect of United States and European paper money is the variety in the European issues.

French Notes Vary in Size.

The French 5-franc note—approximately equivalent to our dollar in normal value—measures only 4 7-8 inches long but is the same width as our dollar bill, that is, 3 1-8 inches. This gives it more nearly a square appearance. The 50-franc note is 7 4-8 inches long and 4 7-8 inches wide. The 100 franc note is 7 1-8 inches long and 4 1-2 inches wide. The 100-franc note is 9 1-8 inches long and 5 1-8 inches wide. The latter, it will be seen, is quite a fair-sized sheet of paper.

The French notes are beautifully engraved but on a flimsier paper than ours. Each has a curious watermark. On each note is what appears to be a plain round white blank. When held to the light a watermark is revealed. It is the emblematic woman's head, wearing the tricolor can of the republic. The reverse side of these notes bears a highly artistic design in colors instead of the rather dull even green of American money. It is a rather difficult thing to imagine a lavender $5 bill, but for Paris the color schemes employed seem quite in keeping.

The British 10-shilling note is a little fellow, 5 3-8 inches by 3 1-8 inches. The 1-pound note is 5 7-8 inches by 3 1-4 inches and the 5-pound note is 8 1-4 inches by 5 1-8 inches. The British notes of denominations higher than 5 pounds are the same size. They are much simpler in design than the French, especially those of 5 pounds and over. In fact, at first glance, they look like just a few lines of printing on very flimsy paper. As a matter of fact the paper is quite durable, difficult to tear and not so brittle as that used in the United States. Thus it stands much folding and creasing without the texture cracking. On account of the large size all of the larger denomination notes of both France and England have to be folded to fit in a wallet or pocket book.

The Italian currency follows the same general scheme; in fact, all the European currencies do. The advantage of this system is that a man may know in many cases by the size and shape of a note what denomination it is without looking at the figures.

A similar idea of differentiation at a glance, excepting in the matter of size, will be adopted in the new American currency. All $5 bills, whether greenbacks or Federal Reserve notes, will bear the same portrait and adornment. All $10 bills, whether silver certificates, gold certificates, Federal Reserve notes, or what not, will have the same picture on them and the same reverse design. This will be followed throughout, a different designs being definitely allocated to a definite denomination. This will displace from our currency many a portrait, for under present practice quite a number of men have been honored. Washington and Lincoln, of course, are sure of their places—probably one being used for the $5 and the other for the $10 bills.

Economy the Object.

The government's major purpose in bringing about this change is one of economy. The estimates show that there will be a saving of one-third in the cost of production. One-third less of the highly expensive and distinctive paper, will be required and one third less ink, and the shipping weight will be reduced by a third. A 50 per cent saving will be effected in the actual process. Notes are printed in large sheets and afterwards cut into single notes. The size bill now in use can be printed 8 to the sheet. The new size will make 12 to the sheet.

What the lengthened life of the smaller notes will be, as the result of less folding, creasing, and cracking, must be determined by experience.

Wasted Life

The League of Conservation of Public Health says there are 3,000,000 persons seriously ill in the United States every day. That means about one in every 14.

If this were necessary, it could be endured with more or less patience. But most of it is declared to be unnecessary.

The economic loss is tremendous. The league says American industry loses $1,800,000,000 a year through the absence of workmen caused by preventable disease. If this is true, imagine the total loss from incapacity of all economic classes. It must be two or three times that much.

Still more important, however, is the suffering caused directly by illness. Life itself is more than salary or wages or output, and the sick person is not really living.

A leading physician says there is only $5,000,000 a year spent on "pure medical research," to get at the cause of disease and suggest ways for its eradication. What a pitiful contribution, in the light of the figures given above!

The nation could well afford to spend a billion a year for a few years. The resulting improvement in health and productiveness would soon pay back the cost manyfold, and add inconceivably to the nation's sense of well-being and joy of life.

As The Water's Recede

As the horror of the flood itself abates in the Mississippi valley, with the passing of the crest to the Gulf of Mexico, the horrors which must be faced by homeward-turning refugees call for attention.

A description of the situation tells of Negroes pushing seeds into the ground with bare toes where the water is still some inches deep; of farmers ploughing in the wet mud before the summer sun bakes it into brick-like hardness; of families moving back into the upper stories of their houses while the lower parts are still filled with the slowly sinking water; of stagnant pools producing unprecedented swarms of mosquitoes; of the rank odor of decaying animal and vegetable matter; of the areas where the water obviously will linger too long for the planting and harvesting of any crop at all.

Disease has been remarkably kept in check in the refugee camps. Can it still be held back when people scatter again to their soggy, mud-coated farms and homes?

It is well for the millions of Americans in regions wholly untouched by the flood to think of those things. Building new and higher levees is a vital problem, but it is only one of several vital problems. The task of restoring the region back of the levees to productivity and habitableness is tremendous and immediate.

Think it over! And then send some more money to help along that work.

TEN MEN ENTER WELLSVILLE REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

FOGO FILES FOR ANOTHER TERM AS MAYOR

D. A. Bunting Will Oppose Executive in August 9 Race.

OTHERS QUALIFY

Candidates' Entry Time Limit Expires Late Friday Night.

Referring to accomplishments of the present administration and asserting that he will "stand upon its record of service," Mayor W. L. Fogo climaxed last night's council meeting with the announcement that he will seek re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries on August 9.

He said he would file his petition with the election board officials today.

The mayor's announcement came as the solons were preparing to adjourn after a two-hours conference. Prefacing his actual declaration, Fogo pointed out that council and city officials had worked in harmony during this period he had vetoed only one the administration and that during measure sent to his desk by the solons.

He concluded his remarks with the assertion that "anyone else who desires to file petitions should do so by Friday night."

Ten candidates, all Republicans, have lined up for the primary derby.

Other petitions are expected as the time limit for filing of petitions draws near.

The present mayor will have at least one opponent for the Republican nomination. D. A. Bunting, of Riverside avenue, was among the first to declare his candidacy.

Nine other petitions have been filed to date, including Clarence Scott and Wilbert Dales, for city treasurer; Raymond Knepper, for city solicitor; Clyde Baker, president of council; Fred Heldman and John Reil, councilmen-at-large; C. C. Heitman, first ward; Charles Peters, second ward; Ted Swearingen, third ward.

Until today, there have been no Democratic petitions. However, it is expected that practically a full slate will be prepared at a meeting of local party leaders which will be held on Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms in city hall.

PUSH PLANS FOR ROAD REPAIRING

Resolution authorizing the resurfacing of the Lisbon road from the city limits to a point a short distance from the county bridge becomes a law without the signature of Mayor W. L. Fogo.

The measure failed to get the mayor's signature, however, only because of what the chief executive termed objectionable wording in several places.

Mayor Fogo asserts that he is anxious to have the work done as soon as possible and announces that every effort will be made to push the operations which will be largely under the supervision of Service-Safety Director George Ashley.

MORE TRUCKS AT 'NARROWS'

Improvement Project Being Rushed by State.

Increased efforts in the grading of the "Narrows" of the River Road is forecast in the purchase of five additional Ford dump trucks which are to be delivered there by N. E. Ellis on order of the State Highway department.

Work has been going forward rapidly since started this spring. The grading was completed up to the Pennsylvania overhead bridge near the Children's Home, and the fill at this end of the bridge made.

Another cut back through the "Narrows" was started recently and the shovel is now several hundred feet along the job.

When the grading is completed a surface such as that on the road up to Port Homer, is to be placed.

WATER PROBLEM MEET ARRANGED

Conference With Hineman Planned by Solons.

City council last night began preparations for a conference with A. W. Hineman, water system contractor; tabled the telephone franchise ordinance and instructed the phone company to bring one in; ordered supplementary appropriations and fund transfers, authorized repairs to the city hall tower, and discussed streets, sewers and lights in a two-hour conference during which a large amount of legislative business was transacted.

Clerk George Hardman read a letter from Contractor Hineman in which the latter acknowledged receipt of the city communication stating that an amicable adjustment was still desired. Hardman then was instructed to notify Hineman that city officials, including all members of council, would hold a conference in the future in the auditor's office here at which time differences with Hineman would be discussed and, if possible, means of effecting an adjustment reached.

An ordinance to grant the telephone company a franchise was read to solons but, failing to meet with general approval, was tabled. The lawmakers finally reached an agreement that the company be asked to bring in an ordinance for the city's approval and that such action be taken by June 20.

Supplementary appropriation to the fire department was approved as an emergency measure, as were transfers from the service to the general and library funds, the latter being depleted.

City Solicitor S. C. Luccock was instructed, in accordance with requirements, to defend the city in the Sarah Thomas damage suit, the latter having filed a $10,000 claim against the city for injuries she is alleged to have received when she fell on a sidewalk in Fifth street.

Ordinances providing equipment for police and fire department employes were passed as emergencies. The employes are already equipped but the legislation was enacted in order that city books may meet requirements of state examiners.

Nicholson brought attention of council to the fact that Eighteenth street was badly washed out as a result of recent heavy rains and the solons discussed possible methods for repairs. It was agreed that ashes or other loose material would fail to serve the purpose.

Director Ashley was instructed to have stones removed from the sidewalk in Buckeye avenue near Eleventh. According to councilmen, property owners had placed the stones there to turn water away from their properties.

Heldman suggested the improvement of the old breaker in McQueen's Run Hollow and pointed to the possibility of another washout menace in the event the city is visited by heavy rains similar to those of last fall. Officials agreed that the repair of the breaker is necessary.

To Service Director Ashley was assigned the task of disposing of the city hall tower problem. Bricks from the tower fell off last week and the possibility of more descending into Fifth street below has prompted city officials to hasten action. It was the consensus of opinion that Ashley should engage the services of a competent mechanic or contractor who would inspect the tower and report back to city officials with recommendations as to the best means of repairing.

Director Ashley and City Engineer McGill were instructed to confer with Pennsylvania Railroad officials in Cleveland this week in regard to obtaining a right of way for the Seventeenth street sewer beneath the railroad tracks at Seventeenth street.

A light at Fifth and Washington street was recommended by Baker. Solons decided to move a light in Clover and Twelfth street further south in order that the light would cover a greater area.

SCHOLARSHIP IS DECLINED

Miss Dora Lewis, of Clark avenue, whose application for one of the two Wooster scholarships available here through the will of the late William McCullough, has declined the scholarship.

In notifying city council of her action, Miss Lewis explained that the amount of the scholarship would not be sufficient to warrant acceptance. The other scholarship also passed into the hands of the county commissioners for lack of candidates.

Haskin's Letter

but it is expected a substantial saving will result. The cost of new engraved plates need not be considered. Plates are constantly wearing out and new ones being engraved. As they wear out, they can be engraved in the new size. Most of the machinery can be readjusted by the skilled mechanicians of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at relatively slight cost. The saving in storage space, not only to the government but to the banks, will be no small item. The demands of the American public for currency have increased so substantially that extensive additions to the Bureau's plant were imminent. In 1917 deliveries by the Bureau amounted to 128,672,045 sheets, while in 1926 this figure had risen to 227,566,949 sheets. The Bureau not only has been working to full capacity, but certain sections have been compelled to work double shifts.

WILL VOTE ON LIGHT LEVY

One-half Mill to be Asked for Five-year Period.

Wellsville citizens will vote again at the general election on a half-mill levy, sought by the city to provide funds with which to finance its electrical illumination system.

The fund is necessary, city officials point out, to maintain the system that has been placed in operation throughout the entire city within recent months.

Citizens voted on the half-mill levy once before, approved it substantially.

At athe next election, however, the levy will be placed on the ballots with a request that it be approved for a five-year period, instead of just a year, in order to avoid recurrence of legislation yearly that would be necessary to maintain the source of revenue.

Attend Ball Game.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT CONNOR HOME

Miss Dorothy Connor entertained a number of her friends last evening at her home in Center street, the affair honoring her ninth birthday anniversary.

Guests included June Simpson and Laverne Betteridge of East Liverpool, Betty and Becky Savage, Virginia Campbell, Dorothy Grafton, Betty Rice and Dorothy and Betty Connor.

The honor guest received a number of gifts.

COTERIE PLANS GUEST NIGHT

"Guest Night" will be observed by members of the Calendar Coterie of the Second Presbyterian church with a special program on Thursday evening in the church parlors.

A coverdish supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Members and their families will be invited to attend.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Bruce Weaver, Mrs. W. H. Morrison, Mrs. H. C. Johnson, Mrs. Mabel Young and Mrs. H. C. West.

The entertainment will be provided by a committee of which Mrs. Anna McLean is chairman.

ELKS PLANNING FLAG DAY HERE

State Senator Earl Lewis to be Principal Speaker.

Plans were announced today for the annual flag day exercises to be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Wellsville lodge, No. 1049, B. P. O. Elks, on the lawn of the Elks' home in Riverside avenue and Eighth street.

Attorney Earl Lewis, of St. Clairsville, state senator, will be the principal speaker.

An appropriate musical program will be furnished by the Wellsville Music club.

LOVE INTEREST IS ELEMENT IN LEVINE EPIC

Record Flight Marks Climax of Romantic Life.

DAUGHTER PROUD

Levines, Typical Jewish Family, Prove Sportsmanship.

By Alexander C. Herman.

BELLE HARBOR, New York, June 8.—Love interest, the one element missing in the Lindbergh epic, is contained aplenty in the life of Charles A. Levine. His record flight with Clarence D. Chamberlin to Germany marked the climax of a romantic life dreamed of by so many—and lived by so few. No matter what decorations abroad or receptions at home, the kiss that will be his when his wife meets him in Berlin and the hugs when his daughter, Eloise, gets her arms around his neck will eclipse all other plaudits.

The Levines are a typical Jewish family with all its depth of devotion, love and sensitiveness for feelings. That is why he hopped off so hastily, with scarcely any preparation, to answer aspersions regarding his sportsmanship, born of controversy with Bertaud, originally slated for the trip.

That is why, to spare his wife's feelings, he had to fool her rather cruelly at the departure. But she has forgiven him proudly, and his daughter's happiness knows no bounds. With aviator's helmet in hand and on head she bounces about her home, the proudest youngster in the land. "My daddy has flown across the Atlantic," she says, "Clear across the ocean." And, if any other youngster dare belittle this feat, he had better watch out. For Eloise is no mean scrapper.

As a matter of fact, Eloise assures us that she is a good flyer herself, having been up three times.

Her last trip almost ended in tragedy when the landing gear of the Columbia snapped after the child had christened it. But Chamberlin, who guided the father to safety across the Atlantic, did as well by the child. In a remarkable landing, he returned her safe to her parents.

While the youngster is effervescent, her mother is suppressed. Still showing marks of her emotional strain, she can but smile through tears. Within earshot of the Levine home roars the "Dark Sea." "It used to frighten me terrifically," says the wife quietly, "but no more."

She soon will be with her husband in Berlin for she is not accustomed to being away from him long.

A School-Day Romance That Continues.

Theirs was a schoolday romance that has lost none of its charm in after life.

But school interests, aside from his sweetheart, were not of Charles' primary concern. He always was tinkering around with things mechanical. At fifteen he owned a motorcycle. Some of the money earned tending stable at a race track helped pay for it.

But the machine was too slow. He got an auto. And then began hankering for something faster. One day he got a chance to go up in one of the old Moissant company airplanes, which were novelties in those days, even on Long Island. He was king that day and resolved to have more of it.

When Grace A. Nova finished high school, Charles decided that it was time to get married. She was 18, he was 19. To avoid family objections or suggestions the youngsters eloped to Atlantic City and were married.

Faced with the problem of making a living, the young man went into the junk business. His wife was his secretary. Together they made it a go.

But his mechanical interest and speed deviltries never abated. He would race along the speedway at an 80-mile-an-hour clip in a trick auto without windshields or running board.

He would swim out so far that the life guards were driven ragged chasing him. Taking chances gave him a thrill in sport and business.

As with increased affluence he took greater interest in sports, he helped Christy Mathewson get control of the Boston Braves, and he helped many others. In turn his wife helped him in his activities, and the Levine family was as happy as any hereabouts.

He is only 30.

A few days before his trip, Mrs. Levine heard the men talking about provisions. She suggested that the sandwiches should be toasted, for toast, she reasoned, takes longer to stale than ordinary bread. But she didn't realize that the suggestions were for her husband.

Now that she does she is happy she made it. And so is Eloise, who promises to care for her baby sister, Ardith, while mother fetches father home. "Maybe that helped him get across," Mrs. Levine says, "that and Mr. Chamberlin."

Mr. Ford, according to announcements, has at last decided to begin making automobiles.—Zanesville Signal.

I'm Most Grateful Every Month

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered pain. Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is Science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows midol.

Your druggist has midol for 50 cents, in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

FOGO FILES FOR ANOTHER TERM AS MAYOR

D. A. Bunting Will Oppose Executive in August 9 Race.

OTHERS QUALIFY

Candidates' Entry Time Limit Expires Late Friday Night.

Referring to accomplishments of the present administration and asserting that he will "stand upon its record of service," Mayor W. L. Fogo climaxed last night's council meeting with the announcement that he will seek re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries on August 9.

He said he would file his petition with the election board officials today.

The mayor's announcement came as the solons were preparing to adjourn after a two-hours conference. Prefacing his actual declaration, Fogo pointed out that council and city officials had worked in harmony during this period he had vetoed only one the administration and that during measure sent to his desk by the solons.

He concluded his remarks with the assertion that "anyone else who desires to file petitions should do so by Friday night."

Ten candidates, all Republicans, have lined up for the primary derby.

Other petitions are expected as the time limit for filing of petitions draws near.

The present mayor will have at least one opponent for the Republican nomination. D. A. Bunting, of Riverside avenue, was among the first to declare his candidacy.

Nine other petitions have been filed to date, including Clarence Scott and Wilbert Dales, for city treasurer; Raymond Knepper, for city solicitor; Clyde Baker, president of council; Fred Heldman and John Reil, councilmen-at-large; C. C. Heitman, first ward; Charles Peters, second ward; Ted Swearingen, third ward.

Until today, there have been no Democratic petitions. However, it is expected that practically a full slate will be prepared at a meeting of local party leaders which will be held on Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms in city hall.

PUSH PLANS FOR ROAD REPAIRING

Resolution authorizing the resurfacing of the Lisbon road from the city limits to a point a short distance from the county bridge becomes a law without the signature of Mayor W. L. Fogo.

The measure failed to get the mayor's signature, however, only because of what the chief executive termed objectionable wording in several places.

Mayor Fogo asserts that he is anxious to have the work done as soon as possible and announces that every effort will be made to push the operations which will be largely under the supervision of Service-Safety Director George Ashley.

MORE TRUCKS AT 'NARROWS'

Improvement Project Being Rushed by State.

Increased efforts in the grading of the "Narrows" of the River Road is forecast in the purchase of five additional Ford dump trucks which are to be delivered there by N. E. Ellis on order of the State Highway department.

Work has been going forward rapidly since started this spring. The grading was completed up to the Pennsylvania overhead bridge near the Children's Home, and the fill at this end of the bridge made.

Another cut back through the "Narrows" was started recently and the shovel is now several hundred feet along the job.

When the grading is completed a surface such as that on the road up to Port Homer, is to be placed.

Conference With Hineman Planned by Solons.

City council last night began preparations for a conference with A. W. Hineman, water system contractor; tabled the telephone franchise ordinance and instructed the phone company to bring one in; ordered supplementary appropriations and fund transfers, authorized repairs to the city hall tower, and discussed streets, sewers and lights in a two-hour conference during which a large amount of legislative business was transacted.

Clerk George Hardman read a letter from Contractor Hineman in which the latter acknowledged receipt of the city communication stating that an amicable adjustment was still desired. Hardman then was instructed to notify Hineman that city officials, including all members of council, would hold a conference in the future in the auditor's office here at which time differences with Hineman would be discussed and, if possible, means of effecting an adjustment reached.

An ordinance to grant the telephone company a franchise was read to solons but, failing to meet with general approval, was tabled. The lawmakers finally reached an agreement that the company be asked to bring in an ordinance for the city's approval and that such action be taken by June 20.

Supplementary appropriation to the fire department was approved as an emergency measure, as were transfers from the service to the general and library funds, the latter being depleted.

City Solicitor S. C. Luccock was instructed, in accordance with requirements, to defend the city in the Sarah Thomas damage suit, the latter having filed a $10,000 claim against the city for injuries she is alleged to have received when she fell on a sidewalk in Fifth street.

Ordinances providing equipment for police and fire department employes were passed as emergencies. The employes are already equipped but the legislation was enacted in order that city books may meet requirements of state examiners.

Nicholson brought attention of council to the fact that Eighteenth street was badly washed out as a result of recent heavy rains and the solons discussed possible methods for repairs. It was agreed that ashes or other loose material would fail to serve the purpose.

Director Ashley was instructed to have stones removed from the sidewalk in Buckeye avenue near Eleventh. According to councilmen, property owners had placed the stones there to turn water away from their properties.

Heldman suggested the improvement of the old breaker in McQueen's Run Hollow and pointed to the possibility of another washout menace in the event the city is visited by heavy rains similar to those of last fall. Officials agreed that the repair of the breaker is necessary.

To Service Director Ashley was assigned the task of disposing of the city hall tower problem. Bricks from the tower fell off last week and the possibility of more descending into Fifth street below has prompted city officials to hasten action. It was the consensus of opinion that Ashley should engage the services of a competent mechanic or contractor who would inspect the tower and report back to city officials with recommendations as to the best means of repairing.

Director Ashley and City Engineer McGill were instructed to confer with Pennsylvania Railroad officials in Cleveland this week in regard to obtaining a right of way for the Seventeenth street sewer beneath the railroad tracks at Seventeenth street.

A light at Fifth and Washington street was recommended by Baker. Solons decided to move a light in Clover and Twelfth street further south in order that the light would cover a greater area.

SCHOLARSHIP IS DECLINED

Miss Dora Lewis, of Clark avenue, whose application for one of the two Wooster scholarships available here through the will of the late William McCullough, has declined the scholarship.

In notifying city council of her action, Miss Lewis explained that the amount of the scholarship would not be sufficient to warrant acceptance. The other scholarship also passed into the hands of the county commissioners for lack of candidates.

but it is expected a substantial saving will result. The cost of new engraved plates need not be considered. Plates are constantly wearing out and new ones being engraved. As they wear out, they can be engraved in the new size. Most of the machinery can be readjusted by the skilled mechanicians of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at relatively slight cost. The saving in storage space, not only to the government but to the banks, will be no small item. The demands of the American public for currency have increased so substantially that extensive additions to the Bureau's plant were imminent. In 1917 deliveries by the Bureau amounted to 128,672,045 sheets, while in 1926 this figure had risen to 227,566,949 sheets. The Bureau not only has been working to full capacity, but certain sections have been compelled to work double shifts.

WILL VOTE ON LIGHT LEVY

One-half Mill to be Asked for Five-year Period.

Wellsville citizens will vote again at the general election on a half-mill levy, sought by the city to provide funds with which to finance its electrical illumination system.

The fund is necessary, city officials point out, to maintain the system that has been placed in operation throughout the entire city within recent months.

Citizens voted on the half-mill levy once before, approved it substantially.

At athe next election, however, the levy will be placed on the ballots with a request that it be approved for a five-year period, instead of just a year, in order to avoid recurrence of legislation yearly that would be necessary to maintain the source of revenue.

LOVE INTEREST IS ELEMENT IN LEVINE EPIC

Record Flight Marks Climax of Romantic Life.

DAUGHTER PROUD

Levines, Typical Jewish Family, Prove Sportsmanship.

By Alexander C. Herman.

BELLE HARBOR, New York, June 8.—Love interest, the one element missing in the Lindbergh epic, is contained aplenty in the life of Charles A. Levine. His record flight with Clarence D. Chamberlin to Germany marked the climax of a romantic life dreamed of by so many—and lived by so few. No matter what decorations abroad or receptions at home, the kiss that will be his when his wife meets him in Berlin and the hugs when his daughter, Eloise, gets her arms around his neck will eclipse all other plaudits.

The Levines are a typical Jewish family with all its depth of devotion, love and sensitiveness for feelings. That is why he hopped off so hastily, with scarcely any preparation, to answer aspersions regarding his sportsmanship, born of controversy with Bertaud, originally slated for the trip.

That is why, to spare his wife's feelings, he had to fool her rather cruelly at the departure. But she has forgiven him proudly, and his daughter's happiness knows no bounds. With aviator's helmet in hand and on head she bounces about her home, the proudest youngster in the land. "My daddy has flown across the Atlantic," she says, "Clear across the ocean." And, if any other youngster dare belittle this feat, he had better watch out. For Eloise is no mean scrapper.

As a matter of fact, Eloise assures us that she is a good flyer herself, having been up three times.

Her last trip almost ended in tragedy when the landing gear of the Columbia snapped after the child had christened it. But Chamberlin, who guided the father to safety across the Atlantic, did as well by the child. In a remarkable landing, he returned her safe to her parents.

While the youngster is effervescent, her mother is suppressed. Still showing marks of her emotional strain, she can but smile through tears. Within earshot of the Levine home roars the "Dark Sea." "It used to frighten me terrifically," says the wife quietly, "but no more."

She soon will be with her husband in Berlin for she is not accustomed to being away from him long.

A School-Day Romance That Continues.

Theirs was a schoolday romance that has lost none of its charm in after life.

But school interests, aside from his sweetheart, were not of Charles' primary concern. He always was tinkering around with things mechanical. At fifteen he owned a motorcycle. Some of the money earned tending stable at a race track helped pay for it.

But the machine was too slow. He got an auto. And then began hankering for something faster. One day he got a chance to go up in one of the old Moissant company airplanes, which were novelties in those days, even on Long Island. He was king that day and resolved to have more of it.

When Grace A. Nova finished high school, Charles decided that it was time to get married. She was 18, he was 19. To avoid family objections or suggestions the youngsters eloped to Atlantic City and were married.

Faced with the problem of making a living, the young man went into the junk business. His wife was his secretary. Together they made it a go.

But his mechanical interest and speed deviltries never abated. He would race along the speedway at an 80-mile-an-hour clip in a trick auto without windshields or running board.

He would swim out so far that the life guards were driven ragged chasing him. Taking chances gave him a thrill in sport and business.

As with increased affluence he took greater interest in sports, he helped Christy Mathewson get control of the Boston Braves, and he helped many others. In turn his wife helped him in his activities, and the Levine family was as happy as any hereabouts.

He is only 30.

A few days before his trip, Mrs. Levine heard the men talking about provisions. She suggested that the sandwiches should be toasted, for toast, she reasoned, takes longer to stale than ordinary bread. But she didn't realize that the suggestions were for her husband.

Now that she does she is happy she made it. And so is Eloise, who promises to care for her baby sister, Ardith, while mother fetches father home. "Maybe that helped him get across," Mrs. Levine says, "that and Mr. Chamberlin."

Mr. Ford, according to announcements, has at last decided to begin making automobiles.—Zanesville Signal.

I'm Most Grateful Every Month

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered pain. Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is Science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows midol.

Your druggist has midol for 50 cents, in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

FEDERAL INQUIRIES INVOLVE AIDE ON OCEAN PLANE

LEVINE'S AIR MAIL CAUSES INVESTIGATION

Contractual Relations With War Department Also Probed.

POSTMASTER HIT

Stamps on 200 Letters Valued at $1,000 by Collectors.

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Federal investigation involving Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Clarence D. Chamberlin on his historic flight to Berlin, proceeded here today from two sources, the postoffice department and the department of justice.

Postal officials are investigating Levine's carrying a packet of air mail from New York to Germany, while justice officials are continuing their study of Levine's contractual relations with the war department, out of which he is reputed to have made enormous profits.

Beyond asserting that his agents were investigating the salvage case, Attorney General Sargent had nothing to say today.

Postmaster General New, however, said that Levine was unauthorized to carry air mail to Germany, and Postmaster Fred Sealy, at Hempstead, L. I., violated postal regulations in carrying the postal cancellation stamp to Mitchel Field to cancel the stamps. These stamps are expected to have a collector's value of $1,000, being the first air mail stamps to cross the Atlantic.

Sought Air Mail Contract.

Levine has been in frequent difficulties with the postoffice department, starting over a bid Levine's company submitted for the New York-Chicago air mail contract months ago. Although his bid was the lowest submitted, Postmaster General New threw it out and awarded the contract to Col. Paul Henderson's company, after Levine was said to have approached Henderson with a proposition to sell the contract. While not actionable under the law, New considered this to be "sharp practice" and refused to accept Levine's bid. The fact that Levine's relations with the war department were also under investigation by the department of justice figured in the rejection.

Whether Levine's connivance with Postmaster Sealy to carry the first air mail to Europe is actionable under the law is, too, a question. According to postal authorities, there were more than 200 letters in the packet, mostly addressed to Levine himself at various European capitals. The philatelic value of the stamps is incalculable, but postal officials said Levine would have little difficulty in obtaining high prices for them from collectors in years to come.

Cabinet Discusses Question.

Levine's actions, not only in this instance, but his relations with the air department, formed the subject of a cabinet discussion yesterday. Although cabinet members were disinclined to discuss the matter, it was evident that the discussion related to what recognition, if any, the government will give Levine for his part in the Berlin flight. It is no secret that Levine is not popular among offcials here.

Chamberlin, who piloted the Bellanca plane, is in no way involved in these matters. Officials from President Coolidge down have nothing but praise for his daring and skill in negotiating the epochal flight, and he will receive all the homage an admiring government can bestow. Levine's status, however, is another matter.

Levine Hints Trip Back to America In Bellanca Plane

BERLIN, June 8.—"Our plans have not been determined," said Clarence Chamberlin today, when asked concerning reports that he and Charles A. Levine would fly back to New York in their Bellanca plane.

"I would like to fly back to America," was Levine's comment.

L. B. Miller Makes 6,726-mile Auto Trip Within Week

Lacking one minute of one week, L. B. Miller, San Francisco automobile accessory dealer, arrived in Los Angeles, yesterday, completing his 6,726-mile endurance drive from coast to coast and return and, incidentally, breaking the trans-continental record.

Word of Miller's arrival in California was contained in a telegram received last night by H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who arranged for his trip from Minerva, through East Liverpool, to Crafton, Pa. Miller's plans called for completion of the run in 163 hours, but he was delayed for about five hours.

He lowered his time from Los Angeles to New York by more than three hours. He did not follow the Lincoln highway on the return trip detouring over the National trails from Greensburg west.

Youngstown Man Takes Poison.

AKRON, O., June 8.—Howard Hargan, 24, of Youngstown, is in a serious condition at a local hospital following an attempt to commit suicide by drinking poison, according to police.

New York-Germany Flyers Haven't Time To go Shopping

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the trans-Atlantic flyers, were in a predicament today owing to the fact that they had no baggage when they arrived in Berlin.

"I have nothing except what is on my back," Chamberlin told the International News Service. "I guess I ought to go shopping but it is likely I will not have time and will have to go to the banquet tonight just as I am."

As he spoke Chamberlin was dressed in his aviator's jacket and trousers.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 8.—Violent upheavals in a small number of the market specialties, with occasional flareups in the popular motor stocks, constituted the chief feature of the early trading today.

Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil joined the active list in the mystery-specialties, and sold in huge volume around 17, compared with yesterday's price of 12. New York, Ontaro & Western, a speculative railroad stock, held the center of the stage in that section of the market, while Chrysler motor continued the vigorous advance which started late in yesterday's session. Pittsburgh Coal, Certainteed Products and Texas Pacific Land Trust sold higher.

With the exception of Atlantic Refining, which jumped 5 1-2 points to 119 1-2, the oil list was again reactionary, as the result of reaching of the "new peak" in crude oil production and the slashing of gasoline prices in various parts of the country. Market leaders in the industrials and rails, like U. S. Steel and New York Central, were under moderate selling pressure, and declined fractionally.

Conservatism in the speculative district is largely based on the uninterrupted expansion of brokers' loans, a factor which sooner or later will dictate a halt in the wild speculation in specialty stocks. Prices of many of these shares have reached a level which can be justified only on momentous future developments in the properties, and not on current or prospective earnings of the companies.

Commodity markets were steady, with cotton up 10 to 15 points and grain prices fractionally higher. Call money 4½ per cent.

LINDBERGH'S CRUISER MAKES FAST VOYAGE

Ocean Flyer in Homestretch of Trip to Washington.

EATS WITH CREW

Memphis Should Enter Chesapeake Bay on Saturday Morning.

ABOARD U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 8.—Captain Lackey of the Memphis announced today that President Coolidge will not be kept waiting for the arrival of Colonel Lindbergh, the hero of the first continent to continent flight.

The Memphis will arrive at Cape Henry at 6 p. m. Friday night, if not earlier.

"We are making 22 knots an hour and are bringing Lindbergh home as we promised, on time," said Captain Lackey.

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS, June 8. — (By Radio). — Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh is in the homestretch of his homeward journey today. The Memphis has encountered fine weather throughout the voyage from Cherbourg and has made excellent time, averaging 23 knots an hour. If the present schedule is maintained the cruiser should enter Chesapeake Bay Saturday morning.

Lindbergh has the run of the ship and is having the time of his life. He is enjoying every minute of the voyage and is a popular young idol with every man on board from the commander down to the humblest jackie.

Evidence of his popularity with the crew was shown by the keen rivalry among the men as to which table should have the honor of his presence when it became known that he wanted to eat with the crew.

Lindbergh has inspected the ship and especially the two scout planes on board. He climbed into the cockpit of one of them and the smile of contentment upon his face showed his pleasure over getting once more in contact with an airplane.

His Heart In Aviation.

The young airman has spent much time with Vice Admiral Burrage discussing the possibility of regular trans-ocean airplane service. Lindbergh was particularly anxious to get the vice admiral's views upon the feasibility of establishing commercial air bases at sea so that airplanes could refuel or take refuge if forced down by mechanical trouble, storms or exhaustion of fuel.

It is evident from Lindbergh's whole conversation that all his heart is in his life work—aviation. He is always studying his subject and seeking a fresh viewpoint upon the problems of flying.

Lindbergh refuses to discuss his future plans, but whatever they are they will deal with flying. For a week or two after his arrival his time will be taken up completely receiving honors from the American people. When the ovations and fetes are over he will be ready to settle down to work.

Even out in the Atlantic there are evidences of the universal interest in the daring young flyer. The steamship Bremen changed her course so that she could come within 1,600 feet of the Memphis to give the passengers a view of Lindbergh. The youthful avaitor was out upon the main deck when the Bremen passed and saluted him.

Celebration Plans Grow.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Like a snowball on a downgrade, the capital's celebration of "Lindbergh Day" next Saturday grew steadily in proportions today.

There is now no question but that the Atlantic flyer will receive next Saturday the greatest reception ever accorded any visitor to the capital in history. Presidents and potentiates might well envy the welcome that will be extended to him.

Business houses in the capital generally will close at 12:30 o'clock Saturday, giving thousands of employes an opportunity to participate in the celebration. All government employes will be released at noon, and to these thousands will be added other thousands of visitors, atracted from all parts of the country, assuring Lindbergh a welcoming audience probably greater than at any inaugural.

Program for Day.

The cruiser Memphis, with Lindbergh aboard, is due to dock at Washington navy yard at noon. He will be met there and conducted at once to the peace monument where a parade will start that promises to be more imposing than that of any inauguration day, the parade will be limited strictly to government troops. It will swing into Pennsylvania avenue amid lanes of spectators, and proceed to the base of the towering Washington monument where President Coolidge will receive the young airman and pin upon his breast the first distinguished flying cross ever conferred.

The flyer and his mother then will be taken to the temporary White House for rest. A cabinet dinner will follow, and a gorgeous fireworks display at night will conclude the day's celebration.

Speaker Longworth today appointed the following committee to greet Lindbergh upon his arival at the navy yard here:

Republicans — Britten, Illinois; James, Michigan, Ramseyer, Iowa; Bacon, New York, Wyatt, Pennsylvania.

Democrats—Evans, Montana; Moore, Virginia; Busby, Mississippi; Cole, Maryland, and Bloom, New York.

Police Busy as Pickpockets Get Rotarians' Money

OSTEND, Belgium, June 8.—Pickpockets, attracted here from all over Europe by the crowds attending the international convention of Rotarians, kept the police active today.

D. J. Eubank, of Shreveport, La., reported that his wallet had been stolen. It was recovered later but 400 francs were missing from it. An Ohio delegate, whose identity was not revealed, lost three pairs of trousers during raids by thieves.

Germans Greet Flyers

the crowds made it impossible for the flyers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs."

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 3,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted reichswehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling, acknowledged all the greetings while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Lauds Achievement.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meiser, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his felicitation to the flyers and lauded their achievement.

The two flyers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenburg gave each of the flyers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame.

The two aviators spent half an hour with the president and on leaving the palace were again besieged by the crowds.

The president displayed great interest in their flight and questioned them at length. He expressed the hope that their "audacious deed would be a forecast of further rapproachment between two great peoples."

Honorary Entertainments.

Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited.

Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city or Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict of dates. The American club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Many Gifts of Pilsner.

Officials of the Lufthansa company —Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise — will entertain the fliers at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages, gifts of all kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany.

The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

MOSCOW STORMS OVER MURDER OF AMBASSADOR

Heated Demands for Declaration of War Against Poland.

PRESS BITTER

Sharp Note Handed Polish Envoy on Woikoff Death.

MOSCOW, June 8.—A storm of indignation has broken throughout Russia as the result of the assassination of the Russian minister, M. Woikoff, in Warsaw.

The foreign office is using its efforts to hold public indignation in check and is disregarding some more or less heated demands for an immediate declaration of war upon Poland.

The Russian Press blames Great Britain for the attack and is far more bitter towards the British than towards the Polish people or the assassin. Peace hangs upon the edge of a precipice and the "assassin's hands were directed by another," according to some newspapers.

Guard Polish Embassy.

Mounted police are guarding the Polish embassy which has been closed.

Occasional street cries against Poland are heard.

Soviet Russia has notified Poland that she will hold that nation to strict accountability for the assassination of the Russian minister.

M. Litvinoff has handed a sharp note to the Polish minister here and declared that Russia will reserve the right to re-open the question of responsibility for the assassination as soon as detailed information is received.

The Russian note declares "this unprecedented crime is linked with a whole series of outrages against Soviet envoys abroad which have created a situation which menaces world peace. The raids at Peking, London, and the siege at Shanghai have all unloosened terrorist activities of a group of reactionaries, who in their blind hatred against the working class have stooped to political murders."

France Suggests Pact With America To "Outlaw" War

WASHINGTON, June 8. — France has made overtrures to the United States as to the desirability of negotiating a treaty between the two countries, definitely "outlawing" war, it was disclosed at the state department today.

Through Ambassador Herrick at Paris, Foreign Minister Briand has addressed an informal inquiry to the state department calculated to elicit a reply as to whether the Washington government desires to discuss such a treaty. The suggestion was originally advanced by M. Briand in a speech some weeks ago.

While not desirous of appearing to reject such overtrures, President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are said to consider such negotiations unnecessary in view of the fact there is now in existence between France and the United States the Bryan arbitration treaty which provides justiciable settlement for almost every conceivable dispute that might arise.

Fire Hits Section Of Racing Plant at Bowie, Md., Track

BOWIE, Md., June 8.—Fire early today almost destroyed the racing plant at the Bowie track.

The grandstand, judges' stand, stables and outbuildings were virtually wiped out. Few horses are quartered here at this season of the year, and so far is known none were lost.

Lack of fire fighting equipment hampered efforts to control the conflagration. The track is about half way between Baltimore and Washington, several miles back from the main pike.

Carroll in Prison

roll, New York theatrical producer, made the trip from Greenville, S. C., to Atlanta without ill results and his condition when he arrived at the federal prison was "entirely favorable," the department of justice was advised today by prison physicians.

After receiving this assurance, the department made public the reports of physicians who examined Carroll in Greenville, all agreed that to prolong his stay in Greenville would increase his despondency and might injure his health permanently. This advice caused Attorney General Sargent to order Carroll's removal to Atlanta prison, where he will be confined in the hospital.

Jones suggested that the Mississippi levees be repaired at once and a spillway be built at New Orleans. The states should help bear the expenses, he said.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CAPITAL'S GREATEST EVENT— WELCOME TO RETURNING 'LINDY'

WASHINGTON, June 8. — To be "treated like royalty" was considered the superlative of swell treatment—once.

When you'd treated anybody "like royalty," you'd gone the limit.

There wasn't any more.

But after Washington's finished treating Charlie Lindbergh—

Why tush, tush, tush!

Compared with the way the national government's laying itself out to treat that boy, the expression "treated like royalty" will sound like "H'lo, when d'ya git in?" without looking up from your work.

I'VE seen the capital receive the Prince of Wales and the Crown Prince of Sweden and the Crown Prince of Japan in the last two or three years. They're royalty.

Or, if you insist on actual crowned heads—the King of Belgium and the Queen of Rumania.

None of those receptions were a patch on what's framed up for Lindy.

I've seen a couple of presidential inaugurations and Washington wasn't lit up in anticipation—or realization—of either, or both of 'em put together, to hold a candle to what it is now.

Why, there was a World Series here in 1924 and another in 1925 and neither of them threw this burg into the state of excitement it's in over Charlie's coming.

TO supply details of the preparations they're making for Lindy, to describe the decorations they're fixing up for him, to summarize the program and to give the various lines of march is no part of my job. Numberless miles of telegraph wires have ticketytick-tick-ticked all this information to every corner of this fair land and eke have countless loud speakers squawked it into the air.

But maybe it isn't so generally known that the number of arrangement committees and sub-committees had reached 47 ten days in advance of Lindbergh's coming and more were being formed all the time.

John Hays Hammond, as chairman of the citizens or co-ordinating committee, has the charming responsibility of seeing that these outfits' plans don't clash, and you can take it from me that Secretary Hoover, in the midst of superintending the Mississippi river floods, had an easy time of it compared with that old mining engineer's.

ASIDE from Lindy, the thing will be a show in itself.

The railroads are standing by for the biggest crowd of excursionists they ever handled.

The hotels are booked up to their bathrooms and corridors.

Folks with windows looking on Dupont Circle, where President Coolidge will receive Charlie at the temporary White House, are figuring on getting moderately rich, renting 'em out.

Every official "big bug" in Washington — generals, admirals, cabinet members, everybody else, from the president on down—will be on display.

There'll be troops and bluejackets on the ground and airplanes overhead.

It'll be the greatest jamboree this town ever saw.

New York may outdo Washington in numbers, but it can't equal it in concentrated notabilities.

Coolidge, Kellogg, Mellon, two Davises, Sargent, New, Work, Wilbur, Jardine, Hoover, Summerall, MacNider, LeJeune, Eberle!—just a few samples. That's the kind of people we'll have here.

Widow and Youth Held After Man's Body Is Found on Fence

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Police investigating the death of Angelo Furne, 26, Columbus, here today are holding his widow, Charlene, 19, and Paul Cagot, 19, 101 First avenue, Cleveland.

Furne's lifeless body was found hanging across a fence with a bullet wound through the left shoulder, shortly after midnight by police who were called to investigate an automobile crash.

According to police, the three are thought to have been occupants of a coupe which was wrecked when it struck a house. When police arrived, Furne, his wife and Cagot, police say, ran from a nearby house, the officers in pursuit. Witnesses declare many shots were fired, but police deny that they shot. Mrs. Furne and Cagot were captured, and when police returned to the street, they reported Furne's body was discovered.

FEDERAL INQUIRIES INVOLVE AIDE ON OCEAN PLANE

LEVINE'S AIR MAIL CAUSES INVESTIGATION

Contractual Relations With War Department Also Probed.

POSTMASTER HIT

Stamps on 200 Letters Valued at $1,000 by Collectors.

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Federal investigation involving Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Clarence D. Chamberlin on his historic flight to Berlin, proceeded here today from two sources, the postoffice department and the department of justice.

Postal officials are investigating Levine's carrying a packet of air mail from New York to Germany, while justice officials are continuing their study of Levine's contractual relations with the war department, out of which he is reputed to have made enormous profits.

Beyond asserting that his agents were investigating the salvage case, Attorney General Sargent had nothing to say today.

Postmaster General New, however, said that Levine was unauthorized to carry air mail to Germany, and Postmaster Fred Sealy, at Hempstead, L. I., violated postal regulations in carrying the postal cancellation stamp to Mitchel Field to cancel the stamps. These stamps are expected to have a collector's value of $1,000, being the first air mail stamps to cross the Atlantic.

Sought Air Mail Contract.

Levine has been in frequent difficulties with the postoffice department, starting over a bid Levine's company submitted for the New York-Chicago air mail contract months ago. Although his bid was the lowest submitted, Postmaster General New threw it out and awarded the contract to Col. Paul Henderson's company, after Levine was said to have approached Henderson with a proposition to sell the contract. While not actionable under the law, New considered this to be "sharp practice" and refused to accept Levine's bid. The fact that Levine's relations with the war department were also under investigation by the department of justice figured in the rejection.

Whether Levine's connivance with Postmaster Sealy to carry the first air mail to Europe is actionable under the law is, too, a question. According to postal authorities, there were more than 200 letters in the packet, mostly addressed to Levine himself at various European capitals. The philatelic value of the stamps is incalculable, but postal officials said Levine would have little difficulty in obtaining high prices for them from collectors in years to come.

Cabinet Discusses Question.

Levine's actions, not only in this instance, but his relations with the air department, formed the subject of a cabinet discussion yesterday. Although cabinet members were disinclined to discuss the matter, it was evident that the discussion related to what recognition, if any, the government will give Levine for his part in the Berlin flight. It is no secret that Levine is not popular among offcials here.

Chamberlin, who piloted the Bellanca plane, is in no way involved in these matters. Officials from President Coolidge down have nothing but praise for his daring and skill in negotiating the epochal flight, and he will receive all the homage an admiring government can bestow. Levine's status, however, is another matter.

L. B. Miller Makes 6,726-mile Auto Trip Within Week

Lacking one minute of one week, L. B. Miller, San Francisco automobile accessory dealer, arrived in Los Angeles, yesterday, completing his 6,726-mile endurance drive from coast to coast and return and, incidentally, breaking the trans-continental record.

Word of Miller's arrival in California was contained in a telegram received last night by H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who arranged for his trip from Minerva, through East Liverpool, to Crafton, Pa. Miller's plans called for completion of the run in 163 hours, but he was delayed for about five hours.

He lowered his time from Los Angeles to New York by more than three hours. He did not follow the Lincoln highway on the return trip detouring over the National trails from Greensburg west.

Youngstown Man Takes Poison.

AKRON, O., June 8.—Howard Harden, 44, of Youngstown, is in a serious condition at a local hospital following an attempt to commit suicide by drinking poison, according to police.

New York-Germany Flyers Haven't Time To go Shopping

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the trans-Atlantic flyers, were in a predicament today owing to the fact that they had no baggage when they arrived in Berlin.

"I have nothing except what is on my back," Chamberlin told the International News Service. "I guess I ought to go shopping but it is likely I will not have time and will have to go to the banquet tonight just as I am."

As he spoke Chamberlin was dressed in his aviator's jacket and trousers.

Levine Hints Trip Back to America In Bellanca Plane

BERLIN, June 8.—"Our plans have not been determined," said Clarence Chamberlin today, when asked concerning reports that he and Charles A. Levine would fly back to New York in their Bellanca plane.

"I would like to fly back to America," was Levine's comment.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 8.—Violent upheavals in a small number of the market specialties, with occasional flareups in the popular motor stocks, constituted the chief feature of the early trading today.

Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil joined the active list in the mystery-specialties, and sold in huge volume around 17, compared with yesterday's price of 12. New York, Ontaro & Western, a speculative railroad stock, held the center of the stage in that section of the market, while Chrysler motor continued the vigorous advance which started late in yesterday's session. Pittsburgh Coal, Certainteed Products and Texas Pacific Land Trust sold higher.

With the exception of Atlantic Refining, which jumped 5 1-2 points to 119 1-2, the oil list was again reactionary, as the result of reaching of the "new peak" in crude oil production and the slashing of gasoline prices in various parts of the country. Market leaders in the industrials and rails, like U. S. Steel and New York Central, were under moderate selling pressure, and declined fractionally.

Conservatism in the speculative district is largely based on the uninterrupted expansion of brokers' loans, a factor which sooner or later will dictate a halt in the wild speculation in specialty stocks. Prices of many of these shares have reached a level which can be justified only on momentous future developments in the properties, and not on current or prospective earnings of the companies.

Commodity markets were steady, with cotton up 10 to 15 points and grain prices fractionally higher. Call money 4½ per cent.

LINDBERGH'S CRUISER MAKES FAST VOYAGE

Ocean Flyer in Homestretch of Trip to Washington.

EATS WITH CREW

Memphis Should Enter Chesapeake Bay on Saturday Morning.

ABOARD U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 8.—Captain Lackey of the Memphis announced today that President Coolidge will not be kept waiting for the arrival of Colonel Lindbergh, the hero of the first continent to continent flight.

The Memphis will arrive at Cape Henry at 6 p. m. Friday night, if not earlier.

"We are making 22 knots an hour and are bringing Lindbergh home as we promised, on time," said Captain Lackey.

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS, June 8. — (By Radio). — Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh is in the homestretch of his homeward journey today. The Memphis has encountered fine weather throughout the voyage from Cherbourg and has made excellent time, averaging 23 knots an hour. If the present schedule is maintained the cruiser should enter Chesapeake Bay Saturday morning.

Lindbergh has the run of the ship and is having the time of his life. He is enjoying every minute of the voyage and is a popular young idol with every man on board from the commander down to the humblest jackie.

Evidence of his popularity with the crew was shown by the keen rivalry among the men as to which table should have the honor of his presence when it became known that he wanted to eat with the crew.

Lindbergh has inspected the ship and especially the two scout planes on board. He climbed into the cockpit of one of them and the smile of contentment upon his face showed his pleasure over getting once more in contact with an airplane.

His Heart in Aviation.

The young airman has spent much time with Vice Admiral Burrage discussing the possibility of regular trans-ocean airplane service. Lindbergh was particularly anxious to get the vice admiral's views upon the feasibility of establishing commercial air bases at sea so that airplanes could refuel or take refuge if forced down by mechanical trouble, storms or exhaustion of fuel.

It is evident from Lindbergh's whole conversation that all his heart is in his life work—aviation. He is always studying his subject and seeking a fresh viewpoint upon the problems of flying.

Lindbergh refuses to discuss his future plans, but whatever they are they will deal with flying. For a week or two after his arrival his time will be taken up completely receiving honors from the American people. When the ovations and fetes are over he will be ready to settle down to work.

Even out in the Atlantic there are evidences of the universal interest in the daring young flyer. The steamship Bremen changed her course so that she could come within 1,600 feet of the Memphis to give the passengers a view of Lindbergh. The youthful avaitor was out upon the main deck when the Bremen passed and saluted him.

Celebration Plans Grow.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Like a snowball on a downgrade, the capital's celebration of "Lindbergh Day" next Saturday grew steadily in proportions today.

There is now no question but that the Atlantic flyer will receive next Saturday the greatest reception ever accorded any visitor to the capital in history. Presidents and potentiates might well envy the welcome that will be extended to him.

Business houses in the capital generally will close at 12:30 o'clock Saturday, giving thousands of employes an opportunity to participate in the celebration. All government employes will be released at noon, and to these thousands will be added other thousands of visitors, atracted from all parts of the country, assuring Lindbergh a welcoming audience probably greater than at any inaugural.

Program for Day.

The cruiser Memphis, with Lindbergh aboard, is due to dock at Washington navy yard at noon. He will be met there and conducted at once to the peace monument where a parade will start that promises to be more imposing than that of any inauguration day, the parade will be limited strictly to government troops. It will swing into Pennsylvania avenue amid lanes of spectators, and proceed to the base of the towering Washington monument where President Coolidge will receive the young airman and pin upon his breast the first distinguished flying cross ever conferred.

The flyer and his mother then will be taken to the temporary White House for rest. A cabinet dinner will follow, and a gorgeous fireworks display at night will conclude the day's celebration.

Speaker Longworth today appointed the following committee to greet Lindbergh upon his arival at the navy yard here:

Republicans — Britten, Illinois; James, Michigan, Ramseyer, Iowa; Bacon, New York, Wyatt, Pennsylvania.

Democrats—Evans, Montana; Moore, Virginia; Busby, Mississippi; Cole, Maryland, and Bloom, New York.

Police Busy as Pickpockets Get Rotarians' Money

OSTEND, Belgium, June 8. — Pickpockets, attracted here from all over Europe by the crowds attending the international convention of Rotarians, kept the police active today.

D. J. Eubank, of Shreveport, La., reported that his wallet had been stolen. It was recovered later but 400 francs were missing from it. An Ohio delegate, whose identity was not revealed, lost three pairs of trousers during raids by thieves.

Germans Greet Flyers

the crowds made it impossible for the flyers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs."

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 3,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted reichswehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling, acknowledged all the greetings while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Lauds Achievement.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meiser, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his felicitation to the flyers and lauded their achievement.

The two flyers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenburg gave each of the flyers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame.

The two aviators spent half an hour with the president and on leaving the palace were again besieged by the crowds.

The president displayed great interest in their flight and questioned them at length. He expressed the hope that their "audacious deed would be a forecast of further rapprochement between two great peoples."

Honorary Entertainments.

Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited.

Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city or Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict of dates. The American club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Many Gifts of Pilsner.

Officials of the Lufthansa company —Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise — will entertain the fliers at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages, gifts of all kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany.

The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

Hub Store Named In Bankruptcy Suit Filed in Cleveland

A petition of involuntary bankruptcy was filed yesterday in federal court at Cleveland against Mrs. Sadie E. Freeman, doing business as The Hub Clothing store in the Diamond, by three creditors, all of Pittsburgh, who claim she is indebted to them for merchandise totaling $636, for which she is unable to pay.

Ohioan, Ill, Shoots His Wife and Then Turns Gun on Self

CLEVELAND, June 8.—Frank Schmidt, 47, is dead, while his wife, Eva, 44, was recovering from a bullet wound today, following the husband's attempt to kill his wife late yesterday. Despondent over ill-health, Schmidt shot his wife in the shoulder, and then turned the gun on himself.

BANDITS FLEE WITH $50,000

CHICAGO, June 8.—Two bandits today held up Alvin H. Long, jewelry salesman, and robbed him of diamonds which he told police were worth $50,000.

MOSCOW STORMS OVER MURDER OF AMBASSADOR

Heated Demands for Declaration of War Against Poland.

PRESS BITTER

Sharp Note Handed Polish Envoy on Woikoff Death.

MOSCOW, June 8.—A storm of indignation has broken throughout Russia as the result of the assassination of the Russian minister, M. Woikoff, in Warsaw.

The foreign office is using its efforts to hold public indignation in check and is disregarding some more or less heated demands for an immediate declaration of war upon Poland.

The Russian Press blames Great Britain for the attack and is far more bitter towards the British than towards the Polish people or the assassin. Peace hangs upon the edge of a precipice and the "assassin's hands were directed by another," according to some newspapers.

Guard Polish Embassy.

Mounted police are guarding the Polish embassy which has been closed.

Occasional street cries against Poland are heard.

Soviet Russia has notified Poland that she will hold that nation to strict accountability for the assassination of the Russian minister.

M. Litvinoff has handed a sharp note to the Polish minister here and declared that Russia will reserve the right to re-open the question of responsibility for the assassination as soon as detailed information is received.

The Russian note declares "this unprecedented crime is linked with a whole series of outrages against Soviet envoys abroad which have created a situation which menaces world peace. The raids at Peking, London, and the siege at Shanghai have all unloosened terrorist activities of a group of reactionaries, who in their blind hatred against the working class have stooped to political murders."

France Suggests Pact With America To "Outlaw" War

WASHINGTON, June 8. — France has made overtrures to the United States as to the desirability of negotiating a treaty between the two countries, definitely "outlawing" war, it was disclosed at the state department today.

Through Ambassador Herrick at Paris, Foreign Minister Briand has addressed an informal inquiry to the state department calculated to elicit a reply as to whether the Washington government desires to discuss such a treaty. The suggestion was originally advanced by M. Briand in a speeeh some weeks ago.

While not desirous of appearing to reject such overtrures, President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are said to consider such negotiations unnecessary in view of the fact there is now in existence between France and the United States the Bryan arbitration treaty which provides justiciable settlement for almost every conceivable dispute that might arise.

Fire Hits Section Of Racing Plant at Bowie, Md., Track

BOWIE, Md., June 8.—Fire early today almost destroyed the racing plant at the Bowie track.

The grandstand, judges' stand, stables and outbuildings were virtually wiped out. Few horses are quartered here at this season of the year, and so far is known none were lost.

Lack of fire fighting equipment hampered efforts to control the conflagration. The track is about half way between Baltimore and Washington, several miles back from the main pike.

Carroll in Prison

roll, New York theatrical producer, made the trip from Greenville, S. C., to Atlanta without ill results and his condition when he arrived at the federal prison was "entirely favorable," the department of justice was advised today by prison physicians.

After receiving this assurance, the department made public the reports of physicians who examined Carroll in Greenville, all agreed that to prolong his stay in Greenville would increase his despondency and might injure his health permanently. This advice caused Attorney General Sargent to order Carroll's removal to Atlanta prison, where he will be confined in the hospital.

Extra Session

islation with the president. He suggested that Mr. Coolidge instruct Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the president of the Mississippi River Flood commission to submit flood control recommendations to congress.

Jones suggested that the Mississippi levees be repaired at once and a spillway be built at New Orleans. The states should help bear the expenses, he said.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CAPITAL'S GREATEST EVENT— WELCOME TO RETURNING 'LINDY'

WASHINGTON, June 8. — To be "treated like royalty" was considered the superlative of swell treatment—once.

When you'd treated anybody "like royalty," you'd gone the limit.

There wasn't any more.

But after Washington's finished treating Charlie Lindbergh—

Why tush, tush, tush!

Compared with the way the national government's laying itself out to treat that boy, the expression "treated like royalty" will sound like "H'lo, when d'ya git in?" without looking up from your work.

I'VE seen the capital receive the Prince of Wales and the Crown Prince of Sweden and the Crown Prince of Japan in the last two or three years. They're royalty.

Or, if you insist on actual crowned heads—the King of Belgium and the Queen of Rumania.

None of those receptions were a patch on what's framed up for Lindy.

I've seen a couple of presidential inaugurations and Washington wasn't lit up in anticipation—or realization—of either, or both of 'em put together, to hold a candle to what it is now.

Why, there was a World Series here in 1924 and another in 1925 and neither of them threw this burg into the state of excitement it's in over Charlie's coming.

TO supply details of the preparations they're making for Lindy, to describe the decorations they're fixing up for him, to summarize the program and to give the various lines of march is no part of my job. Numberless miles of telegraph wires have ticketytick-tick-ticked all this information to every corner of this fair land and eke have countless loud speakers squawked it into the air.

But maybe it isn't so generally known that the number of arrangement committees and sub-committees had reached 47 ten days in advance of Lindbergh's coming and more were being formed all the time.

John Hays Hammond, as chairman of the citizens or co-ordinating committee, has the charming responsibility of seeing that these outfits' plans don't clash, and you can take it from me that Secretary Hoover, in the midst of superintending the Mississippi river floods, had an easy time of it compared with that old mining engineer's.

ASIDE from Lindy, the thing will be a show in itself.

The railroads are standing by for the biggest crowd of excursionists they ever handled.

The hotels are booked up to their bathrooms and corridors.

Folks with windows looking on Dupont Circle, where President Coolidge will receive Charlie at the temporary White House, are figuring on getting moderately rich, renting 'em out.

Every official "big bug" in Washington — generals, admirals, cabinet members, everybody else, from the president on down—will be on display.

There'll be troops and bluejackets on the ground and airplanes overhead.

It'll be the greatest jamboree this town ever saw.

New York may outdo Washington in numbers, but it can't equal it in concentrated notabilities.

Coolidge, Kellogg, Mellon, two Davises, Sargent, New, Work, Wilbur, Jardine, Hoover, Summerall, MacNider, LeJeune, Eberle!—just a few samples. That's the kind of people we'll have here.

Columbia Flyers Prepare to Leave Berlin Saturday

BERLIN, June 8. — Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine announced today they will leave Berlin Saturday. They did not disclose their destination but said they would return to Berlin to meet their wives who are due here next week.

JUDGE OVERMYER GOES TO LISBON

Judge A. W. Overmyer, Freemont, Sandusky county, will come to Lisbon next Monday morning where he will preside over common pleas court No. 2 for two weeks.

First of 21 cases against the city of Salem, growing out of a typhoid fever epidemic in the north county city several years ago, will be heard by Judge W. F. Lones next week. These actions, seeking damages because of an alleged impure water supply, were filed by Attorneys Hart and Koehler, Alliance.

Widow and Youth Held After Man's Body Is Found on Fence

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Police investigating the death of Angelo Furne, 26, Columbus, here today are holding his widow, Charlene, 19, and Paul Cagot, 19, 101 First avenue, Cleveland.

Furne's lifeless body was found hanging across a fence with a bullet wound through the left shoulder, shortly after midnight by police who were called to investigate an automobile crash.

According to police, the three are thought to have been occupants of a coupe which was wrecked when it struck a house. When police arrived, Furne, his wife and Cagot, police say, ran from a nearby house, the officers in pursuit. Witnesses declare many shots were fired, but police deny that they shot. Mrs. Furne and Cagot were captured, and when police returned to the street, they reported, Furne's body was discovered.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Bible School Chief At Baptist Church

Rev. Joseph Ramseyer, president of the Fort Wayne, Ind., Bible Training school, who is making a missionary tour, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church, West Fifth street, at special services at 7:30 o'clock tonight. He is a brother-in-law of the pastor, Rev. A. H. O'Brien, who had returned here today after attending the eight-day Northern Baptists' convention in Chicago.

President Calles' Wife Dies; Funeral In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—The body of Senora Calles, wife of the president, will lie in state today for a few hours in Chapultepec castle and then will be interred in Dolores cemetery just outside of Mexico City.

Members of the cabinet, high government officials and diplomats were at the railroad station to meet the body on its arrival and an escort of soldiers and police was lined up. Thousands gathered along the route of the funeral procession to pay their tribute.

Government business has been suspended.

FOUR MOTORISTS TO FACE COURT

Traffic violations have been preferred against four motorists, two of whom are charged with parking in a restricted zone and two others with having parked on the sidewalk.

John Carnahan, East End, alleged to have parked his car in Crook alley at 3:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was arrested by Patrolman James Haley. Robert Simmers' car was parked within a yellow curb zone in St. Clair avenue last evening when it was tagged by Patrolman William Lister.

Upon information of Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore charges of parking on the sidewalk in Pennsylvania avenue have been filed against Martin Hepps and W. H. Henderson.

GRETA GARBO IN SCREEN HIT

"The Temptress," at American, is Graphic Story.

Greta Garbo, a glittering, gorgeous creature—but with a talent more gorgeous and glittering than she—this is the exotic charmer of "The Temptress," Mosmopolitan's new filmization of Ibanez's gigantic drama of loves, hates and the stark wilderness of South America.

The Swedish star's dramatic moments approach the sweep of power of a Duse of a Modjeska; perhaps in a measure they suggest the late Sarah Bernhardt—and it seems strange that such intense dramatic power should go with so beautiful a creature as the exotic beauty of the strange romance now playing at the American theatre.

It is a graphic story that runs the gamut of the Paris cafes, the Buenos Aires pleasure temples and the stark fastnesses of the Andes where determined men battle against the gigantic forces of nature. Ibanez, the author of "The Four Horsemen," has told a tale the sheer power of which beggars decription.

At Last! Foy's Lacquer-Enamel

JUST what you have been waiting for—a Finish that is a revelation alike to the home decorator as well as the Master Painter. A new finish for the furniture, woodwork and interior decoration generally.

Foy's Lacquer-Enamel is better than Lacquer—better than Enamel. It is no longer necessary to experiment with quick drying lacquers. Foy's Lacquer-Enamel does not set up too quickly—you have ample time to brush on a smooth even coat of beautiful satin-like lustre. And it will be dry and ready for use in about three hours. With most colors one coat is usually sufficient.

No special thinner is required—Foy's Lacquer-Enamel can be thinned with turpentine when necessary and when you have finished just wash out your brush in ordinary gasoline.

Can be had in twelve beautiful colors, also in black and white.

Five Couples Married at New Cumberland Figure in Actions.

The fifth divorce case and one alimony action within the last week of couples married at New Cumberland, W. Va., have just been filed in common pleas court.

Alimony is sought in the petition filed by Attorney H. W. Hammond of Columbiana in behalf of Miriam Allen against her husband LeRoy Allen, now residing at 235 Spring street, Youngstown. This couple were married at New Cumberland May 23, 1925, and separated April 1st last.

Through her counsel Cochran and Crawford of East Liverpool, Rachel Dewees has filed a petition for divorce from her husband Joseph Dewees of Harrisville, Harrison county. They were married at New Cumberland, Dec. 27th last, and no children are of issue.

Gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty have been charged against the defendant, under the latter charge it being held the defendant struck and beat the plaintiff. Restoration to the plaintiff's maiden name, Rachel Williams is also sought.

The $25,000 damage case filed in common pleas court July 15, 1924 by Catherine Little against Guy Snyder came to an abrupt ending when it was called to trial before Judge Lones.

The case had been regularly assigned for trial, and although the defendant was in court, the plaintiff could not be located. Second Industrial Baseball Circuit May Be Organized Here

Backers to Discuss Plans for League at Parley Friday Night

Several Industrial Concerns as Well as Various Sections of District Expected to be Represented; Will Promote Local Baseball Talent.

Plans proposing the launching of a second industrial baseball league, composed of clubs from the city, Chester, Newell and Wellsville will be discussed at a gathering of players and others interested in the project on Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Simms Motor Sales company rooms in Dresden avenue.

Representatives from the following districts and teams are expected to attend the conference: Golden Star Dairy, Pleasant Heights, West End, East End, Potters Supply, Sherwood, Chester, Newell, Wellsville, Northside and Simms Indians.

While plans for the assembly of the league proper are still indefinite, pending the confab of promoters, the latter express themselves as confident that sufficient playing material can be recruited to permit the formation of a six or eight-club loop, the principal idea being to foster local sandlot baseball talent.

Practicability of the proposed project will be discussed in all its phases at the Friday night session.

Game Rally By Workmen Ties Count

But Heimies Score in 9th to Capture Contest.

After one of the most brilliant rallies that the Recreation league has seen to date, in which the Workingmen's Store, trailing the Heimies for seven innings, tied it up at 7 to 7, the Workies went out in the ninth and presented the league leaders with their eighth straight win as a result of a couple of bad bobbles in the outfield. The final count was 8 to 7.

However, if there were any award for gameness and lasting qualities last night's losers would get the decision of all three judges. Strong in all departments, the Workingmen have lost consistently by single run or two-run margins, during the entire first half.

The pace setters played airtight ball for the first seven frames, a fine defense keeping potential scorers off the bases. It appeared to be another easy victory when the Workingmen went to the plate in the eighth.

At this juncture they landed on Howard for six hits and scored seven runs to knot the count, the big feature of the inning being "Doc" Smalley's home run to left field that scored two ahead of him and tied the count.

In the ninth Elmer English was safe on an outfield error, reaching second before he stopped. Paul English and Bricelin flied out, but a muff on Wildblood's pop fly back of second base enabled English to reach home with the deciding tally.

Homers Help Yanks to Win

Ruth Hits 18th; Gehrig 14th; Thomas Beaten.

By Lee Conklin.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The New York Yankees were firmly intrenched in first place today with a lead of two games as a result of some terrific home run hitting yesterday in the first game of the "crucial" series with the Chicago White Sox. The score was 4 to 1 and four of the five runs were homers, Babe Ruth getting his 18th and Lou Gehrig his 14th and Clancy and Collins also hitting for the circuit.

Alphonse Thomas, sensational young White Sox hurler, came to town leading the league in pitching and boasting a winning streak of five straight, but he has never beaten the Yankees and the jinx reasserted itself. During a lapse of less than two minutes, in which Ruth and Gehrig hit successive homers, the game went up the spout.

Ruth is now four days and three games ahead of his 1921 record.

Pat Clancy, who had gotten five consecutive hits the day before, got three more before he was stopped, but his mates could do nothing with Waite Hoyt, the New York pitcher.

Andy High walloped two homers as the sprightly Braves beat the Cardinals, 12 to 5. The beaneaters knocked Jimmy Ring out of the picture.

Hornsby and Terry hit homers but the bases were as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard at the time and the Giants lost a 9 to 6 slugfest to the Pirates. It was Lee Meadows' eighth victory of the season.

Pitchers were knocked out of the box with great abandon as the Cubs took a see-saw contest from Brooklyn, 7 to 6.

The Reds stretched their great winning streak to three games as Jakie May subdued the Phillies, 5 to 1.

A four run rally by Detroit in the ninth, featured by Gehringer's homer with two on, just fell short and the Tigers lost to the Red Sox, 6 to 5.

The Browns got nineteen hits, including a blow which pitcher Milt Gaston landed on a spectator's jaw for "riding" him, but lost to the Athletics, 11 to 9. The police put Gaston out and five Philadelphia pitchers finally succeeded in putting the Browns out.

Washington got off to a six run lead against Cleveland but barely staggered to the wire with a 10 to 8 victory.

LAUGHLIN WINS FROM BILLIARDS

Newell Clouts Timely to Cop 5 to 1 Decision.

Playing errorless ball and profiting by Howell's wildness while hitting timely, Laughlin defeated the American Billiards in a City Industrial league contest at Columbian park last evening, 5 to 1.

A muff by Zorzie, after Parsons had been retired in the first inning paved the way for a trip of runs. Had he caught this ball a close contest would doubtless have resulted.

Howell, passed four and hit two, allowing seven scattered hits. In the second and third he retired his opponents in a row. Had he caught Ranaldi's high infield fly in the fourth with two gone another run would have been prevented.

He wavered after this failure and allowed Ashe to double, scoring another run, and put two men on the bags by passes before Finley fouled to Talbott.

Ashe was steady all the way for Laughlin. He had terrific speed and a fast break. He used a slow ball also. He walked two and hit one, but only the first of these, Moore, scored on him. He did this as the first man up in the first. He regularly turned back his opponents after the opening period without scoring. He retired the Americans in order in the second and fourth, fanning all in the latter and two in the former.

Twice the Americans had two men left on the bags—in the fifth and sixth. With two gone in the former period Howell walked and Moore was hit, but Ashe by a beautiful pick-up of C. Strobel's drive threw him out at first.

With two away in the sixth Amos singled over Grim's head. Haught repeated the same blow, but Zorzie flew to Digman.

Ranaldi made the longest hit of the game, a four bagger to left at the outset of the sixth. He had previously singled, thus swatting .500 for the day.

Crawford had a 1.000 mark at bat and no field chances. He released a sarifice fly in the first, walked in the fourth, subsequently scoring, singled to middle in the fifth and doubled to left in the seventh.

CORDS LOSE CLOSE GAME

Drop 3 to 2 Contest to Wellsville Nine.

The Wellsville Nash Motors hung up their second consecutive victory in two days at Chester last night, downing the Superior Cords by a score of 3 to 2, the Cords, as a result of the defeat, slipping back into second place behind Laughlin.

Manager Riley called in his reserves in the seventh, sending Greene to bat for Reese after Cook had grounded out. Greene made good with a single over second but he was caught stealing.

Rector then was sent to swat for Vanaman. He flew to J. Myers and the defeat stood.

Neither side scored for three innings so well did G. Myers and Stein go on the hilltop for their respective teams. In the fourth Shipley was safe on Conner's wild heave to Wilde. He was forced at second by Hancock, Stein to L. McMath. Kibble sacrificed, Stein to Wilde. C. Wagner tripled to right, scoring Hancock. Flint walked. G. Wagner singled to center, C. Wagner counting. Pollock forced G. Wagner at second, L. McMath making the put out.

In their half of the fourth Chester made one run. Conners walked and stole second. Wilde went out, Hancock to Flint. P. Cebula singled to left, scoring Conners. Cook singled only to have Reese strike out with both runners on the bags.

G. Myers went around in the fifth with Wellsville third run. He doubled to center. C. Evans then supplanted Stein on the hilltop. He scored on J. Evans' error in center in handling C. Coleman's fly. After J. Myers' retirement, Shipley flew to L. McMath and Kibble was thrown out at first by C. Evans.

Chester made their second and final run in the sixth. Conners singled over second after L. McMath had flown to C. Coleman. He purloined second. Wilde flew to Kibble. P. Cebula, as before, drove in Conners with a single to left. He was caught stealing, Pollock to Coleman.

Coleman accepted six chances at second for Wellsville and Kibble four at third. Pollock had three assists behind the bat and a put out.

Conners had a perfect day at bat while P. Cebula batted .667 for the day for Chester.

JOE WELLS ENTERED AT ALLEGHENY

Annual Invitation Tourney Gets Under Way Friday.

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Play begins tomorrow in the annual invitation tournament of the Allegheny Country club, Sewickley Heights, one of the oldest tournaments in the United States, it being the thirty-third annual event. The play opens with the qualifying round of 36 holes medal play, 18 holes in the morning and the final 18 holes in the afternoon.

On Friday morning the elimination rounds will get under way and the finals will be reached Saturday afternoon. With the fine field entered some low scores are looked for. The course never was in better condition than it is at present. Among the out of town entrants are Robert L. Wintringer, Steubenville, O., and Joseph M. Wells, East Liverpool, O., both fine players. Wells qualified for the open championship on Monday, but withdrew to make room for some of the pros who were crowded out.

Richard C. Long, one of the starters, has played in 24 successive Allegheny Country club tournaments. He holds a record in this respect. The tourney is one of the most popular golf events on the local golf calendar.

HAGEN AND ENGLISH IN TANGLE

Visiting Golfers Didn't Like His Plan of Substituting.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 8—It was the general understanding today that Walter Hagen and the visiting British delegation will contrive to bear up bravely without too much of each other's society during the national open championship next week, following a general disagreement at the Ryder cup matches at Worcester. This British versus America series is popularly supposed to engender international good feeling but the story is that it ended with several mashie niblicks being sunk from off the green and none from the heels only because the boys managed to restrain themselves.

According to information available today, the series resulted in a flareback to the Hagen-Mitchell controversy of the last British golf season, it being claimed on that occasion that Hagen purposely was late in arriving for the match in order to discompose Abe. Later, as he was leaving the country, Hagen aired a few views on the subject of British golf, just by way of pouring oil on the troubled flames.

However, everything was supposed to be serene again when the professionals of both countries convened at Worcester for the international team matches. And then the fun began!

Ted Ray, the British captain, announced his line-up at an early moment. Hagen was pleased to defer his decision and, after he had reached it wanted to make a few alterations. The British objected and a few harsh syllables were exchanged on the subject of sportsmanship. Hagen finally let the foursome arrangement go, as read, but he still was a man with plenty of ideas ideas and tendency to use some of them.

Al Watrous had declared himself out of the series because of an injured finger and Al Espinosa thereupon was nominated for one of the singles. But Watrous changed his mind, so Hagen changed his team, Espinosa changed his cothes and Ray changed his disposition.

The latter felt that somebody had slipped over what is vulgarly known as a fast one on him and din't hesitate to say so. International fellowship was having a field day but calm finally prevailed once more and the match went on.

However, mutual recriminations seemed to be the vogue, for after their defeat, the British were openly critical of what they termed Hagen's jugglery of positions in the singles team.

Second Industrial Baseball Circuit May Be Organized Here

Backers to Discuss Plans for League at Parley Friday Night

Several Industrial Concerns as Well as Various Sections of District Expected to be Represented; Will Promote Local Baseball Talent.

Plans proposing the launching of a second industrial baseball league, composed of clubs from the city, Chester, Newell and Wellsville will be discussed at a gathering of players and others interested in the project on Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Simms Motor Sales company rooms in Dresden avenue.

Representatives from the following districts and teams are expected to attend the conference: Golden Star Dairy, Pleasant Heights, West End, East End, Potters Supply, Sherwood, Chester, Newell, Wellsville, Northside and Simms Indians.

While plans for the assembly of the league proper are still indefinite, pending the confab of promoters, the latter express themselves as confident that sufficient playing material can be recruited to permit the formation of a six or eight-club loop, the principal idea being to foster local sandlot baseball talent.

Practicability of the proposed project will be discussed in all its phases at the Friday night session.

Game Rally By Workmen Ties Count

But Heimies Score in 9th to Capture Contest.

After one of the most brilliant rallies that the Recreation league has seen to date, in which the Workingmen's Store, trailing the Heimies for seven innings, tied it up at 7 to 7, the Workies went out in the ninth and presented the league leaders with their eighth straight win as a result of a couple of bad bobbles in the outfield. The final count was 8 to 7.

However, if there were any award for gameness and lasting qualities last night's losers would get the decision of all three judges. Strong in all departments, the Workingmen have lost consistently by single run or two-run margins, during the entire first half.

CORDS LOSE CLOSE GAME

Drop 3 to 2 Contest to Wellsville Nine.

The Wellsville Nash Motors hung up their second consecutive victory in two days at Chester last night, downing the Superior Cords by a score of 3 to 2, the Cords, as a result of the defeat, slipping back into second place behind Laughlin.

Manager Riley called in his reserves in the seventh, sending Greene to bat for Reese after Cook had grounded out. Greene made good with a single over second but he was caught stealing.

Rector then was sent to swat for Vanaman. He flew to J. Myers and the defeat stood.

Neither side scored for three innings so well did G. Myers and Stein go on the hilltop for their respective teams. In the fourth Shipley was safe on Conner's wild heave to Wilde. He was forced at second by Hancock, Stein to L. McMath. Kibble sacrificed, Stein to Wilde. C. Wagner tripled to right, scoring Hancock. Flint walked. G. Wagner singled to center, C. Wagner counting. Pollock forced G. Wagner at second, L. McMath making the put out.

In their half of the fourth Chester made one run. Conners walked and stole second. Wilde went out, Hancock to Flint. P. Cebula singled to left, scoring Conners. Cook singled only to have Reese strike out with both runners on the bags.

G. Myers went around in the fifth with Wellsville third run. He doubled to center. C. Evans then supplanted Stein on the hilltop. He scored on J. Evans' error in center in handling C. Coleman's fly. After J. Myers' retirement, Shipley flew to L. McMath and Kibble was thrown out at first by C. Evans.

Chester made their second and final run in the sixth. Conners singled over second after L. McMath had flown to C. Coleman. He purloined second. Wilde flew to Kibble. P. Cebula, as before, drove in Conners with a single to left. He was caught stealing, Pollock to Coleman.

Coleman accepted six chances at second for Wellsville and Kibble four at third. Pollock had three assists behind the bat and a put out.

Conners had a perfect day at bat while P. Cebula batted .667 for the day for Chester.

JOE WELLS ENTERED AT ALLEGHENY

Annual Invitation Tourney Gets Under Way Friday.

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Play begins tomorrow in the annual invitation tournament of the Allegheny Country club, Sewickley Heights, one of the oldest tournaments in the United States, it being the thirty-third annual event. The play opens with the qualifying round of 36 holes medal play, 18 holes in the morning and the final 18 holes in the afternoon.

On Friday morning the elimination rounds will get under way and the finals will be reached Saturday afternoon. With the fine field entered some low scores are looked for. The course never was in better condition than it is at present. Among the out of town entrants are Robert L. Wintringer, Steubenville, O., and Joseph M. Wells, East Liverpool, O., both fine players. Wells qualified for the open championship on Monday, but withdrew to make room for some of the pros who were crowded out.

Richard C. Long, one of the starters, has played in 24 successive Allegheny Country club tournaments. He holds a record in this respect. The tourney is one of the most popular golf events on the local golf calendar.

HAGEN AND ENGLISH IN TANGLE

Visiting Golfers Didn't Like His Plan of Substituting.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 8—It was the general understanding today that Walter Hagen and the visiting British delegation will contrive to bear up bravely without too much of each other's society during the national open championship next week, following a general disagreement at the Ryder cup matches at Worcester. This British versus America series is popularly supposed to engender international good feeling but the story is that it ended with several mashie niblicks being sunk from off the green and none from the heels only because the boys managed to restrain themselves.

According to information available today, the series resulted in a flareback to the Hagen-Mitchell controversy of the last British golf season, it being claimed on that occasion that Hagen purposely was late in arriving for the match in order to discompose Abe. Later, as he was leaving the country, Hagen aired a few views on the subject of British golf, just by way of pouring oil on the troubled flames.

However, everything was supposed to be serene again when the professionals of both countries convened at Worcester for the international team matches. And then the fun began!

Ted Ray, the British captain, announced his line-up at an early moment. Hagen was pleased to defer his decision and, after he had reached it wanted to make a few alterations. The British objected and a few harsh syllables were exchanged on the subject of sportsmanship. Hagen finally let the foursome arrangement go, as read, but he still was a man with plenty of ideas ideas and tendency to use some of them.

Al Watrous had declared himself out of the series because of an injured finger and Al Espinosa thereupon was nominated for one of the singles. But Watrous changed his mind, so Hagen changed his team, Espinosa changed his cothes and Ray changed his disposition.

The latter felt that somebody had slipped over what is vulgarly known as a fast one on him and din't hesitate to say so. International fellowship was having a field day but calm finally prevailed once more and the match went on.

However, mutual recriminations seemed to be the vogue, for after their defeat, the British were openly critical of what they termed Hagen's jugglery of positions in the singles team.

Product of One Local Industry in Lindbergh Plane

Product of one East Liverpool industry was used in the "Spirit of St. Louis," the monoplane in which Captain Charles Lindbergh, recently conquered the Atlantic ocean in a non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Turnbuckles, used in bracing the wings of the craft, were made by Standard Products company, of Corry, Pa. Steel for these turnbuckles was turned out at the plant of the National Drawn Steel company, East End.

The St. Louis backers of the Lindbergh flight recently advised the Corry concern that their equipment had been used in the aircraft. This same information was conveyed to Robert H. Perry, official of the National Drawn Steel company, upon a recent visit to the Corry plant.

Product of One Local Industry in Lindbergh Plane

Product of one East Liverpool industry was used in the "Spirit of St. Louis," the monoplane in which Captain Charles Lindbergh, recently conquered the Atlantic ocean in a non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Turnbuckles, used in bracing the wings of the craft, were made by Standard Products company, of Corry, Pa. Steel for these turnbuckles was turned out at the plant of the National Drawn Steel company, East End.

The St. Louis backers of the Lindbergh flight recently advised the Corry concern that their equipment had been used in the aircraft. This same information was conveyed to Robert H. Perry, official of the National Drawn Steel company, upon a recent visit to the Corry plant.

Youth of the Atlas

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

The sing-song of the Moslem prayer began to drone through the window into Larry's ears. Subconsciously he noted that Benna had dropped asleep, and was, of course, unaware of the hour or even the occasion.

He heard the voice of the man outside droning on, but something in the manner of his saying the words caught Larry's ear and he listened closely. No doubt of it, his message was come at last!

"Under the cushions is a bar. Use is to pry the window loose. Pass out through the east gate of the kasbah, saying when you are stopped, 'The Group.' At the Gate of the Burning, which is the only exit from the village, you must escape as best you can. You may have to fight your way through, remembering that a goodly thrust now and then will be forthcoming in your behalf. Once outside, hurry southward, where you will come to that which you seek and one who shall be nameless bids me tell you that you are now entering the valley which holds the Temple, and that henceforth you must summon your utmost powers as a wizard to combat the evils that will beset you. Do not leave this room until after the acha, the time of prayer after dark."

Larry spoke softly.

"And if I remain here, or am recaptured and brought back?"

"I shall do what I can to aid you, but you probably will have to face the Marabout of Adrar and your life and that of Allal Abdi will be forfeit. The holy man suspects that Allal's rise to power under the new order of things will doom the marabouts, and for that reason he has ordered the youth's death, and yours, also. The hour of prayer ends. I hasten away."

Larry drew a deep breath, then crossed softly to where Benna lay on the cushions, her face calm and peaceful in sleep, her lips parted slightly. He dropped down beside her gently, fearing lest he waken her, and thus he sat for a long time, feasting his eyes on her beauty, drinking in the delicate contour of her face, aching with the longing that was in him to clasp her close and taste once more of those vivid, fragrant lips.

After a time she stirred restlessly and in her movements she lay lightly against him, her head resting on his arm. Soon her breathing became deep again and he knew she slept soundly once more. Carefully, cautiously, he lowered his head and touched his lips in a caress as light as the fingers of fog on the mountain peaks, to her smooth, white forehead. He saw her face change in her sleep, a half-smile lighting it, and, as had happened once before, she whispered his name—"Larry."

Darkness found them thus and when the call from the muezzin floated through the night, bidding all to the prayer after dark, he rose softly and went to the window. He hoped there might possibly be further word from the kaid, who, without a doubt, was in league with Omar ben Medjad or Bou Hamara. But he heard only the somt murmurs of the acha, out in the gloom, and when at last silence fell again he walked back to Benna and touched her lightly on the shoulder.

She was awake instantly, regarding him with eyes that gleamed starlike in the gray gloom. He whispered:

"I have received a message, Little White Flower. It said that beneath these cushions a bar is hidden, sufficiently strong for me to pry loose the window."

She rose quickly and scattering the cushions he found a short, thick piece of iron. Lifting it he went to the window and inserted it between the bars, prying with all the strength of his powerful, well conditioned muscles. Under the strain his shoulders hunched and his biceps bulged in great knots, then there came a tearing, ripping clatter and the frame, its bars intact, came loose and fell to the floor with a crash. Carefully, ears attuned to the sounds of the night without, he listened. Then he heard what apparently was only an echo of the night, yet he distinguished words:

"The east gate of the kasbah, then fight your way through the Gate of the Burning."

He knew the kaid had returned to make sure the pair was making a try for freedom. He turned and motioned for the girl to join him and catching her in his arms he lifted her toward the opening. The contact of her soft, warm body thrilled him, as it ever did, and he mastered an almost overpowering desire to hold her thus at least long enough to drink, once, of her lips. Subconsciously he realized that she was yielding in his arms, ready to turn and yield to him further. Miserable, his mind chaotic, he braced himself and helped her through the window. An instant later he followed.

A glance at the stars and he knew which way was east; now he caught her hand and they moved forward rapidly across the court. Quickly they rounded the end of the kasbah and faced a small gate, where a soldier with levelled lance stood guard. To him Larry said:

"The Group!"

On the words the guard swept his lance aside and pointed toward the outside. Still clinging to Benna's hand, Larry hurried through, pausing only long enough to gain his bearings; then he turned north, in which direction he knew the Gate of the Burning lay and after a time they came to it. A knot of soldiers, lances resting against the wall were there. The gate, Larry imagined, had been repaired. At least, it was again closed tightly.

He saw the kaid, the captain of a hundred who had winked at him, approach. The officer said:

"The pass word?"

"The Group!" Larry said evenly, his heart pounding.

The kaid motioned for him to proceed, but before Larry and Benna could reach the gate the man of the evil visage joined them, crying sharply:

"Kaid el-mia, what would you? Know you not that the rules forbid anyone leaving the karia after the acha?"

Larry knew by the man's garb and bearing that he was nothing less than a kaid el-raha, captain of a thousand, therefore the other kaid's superior.

"But they had the password," the minor kaid said.

"Which is null after the acha, fool, save for entrance and exit at the kasbah. Ha, it runs in my mind that here is the pair we imprisoned today. Come to the light, that I may see your face."

Now the wink which the kaid-el-mia threw at Larry was significant and he saw the fellow touch his sword silently, as though signalling. Larry sensed that the time for action had come. With a single motion he whipped out the sword of Beni Akmed and presented its tip at the other's throat, it needle-like point almost grazing the leathery skin.

"I have a special dispensation of a nature granted to all wizards to go and come as I please, spawn of filth, offspring of a thousand worms," he said, harsh menace in his voice. "Bid your guards open the gate and permit me to depart, or by tomorrow's dawn they are liable to choose a new captain of a thousand."

"Wizard or no," said the other, stubbornly, his face blanching at the thrust of the needle-point at his throat. "I am bade to hold you, and hold you I shall until one who is greater than I arrives on the morrow to judge you. If I die by your black magic, it is as Allah wills, but give the order, I shall not."

"Then, kaid," Larry cried, his voice hot, his every nerve cool, "you are prepared to abide by the consequences?"

"Al, though they be death itself."

"You are brave, but likewise you are a fool," snapped Larry, not having it in his heart to kill deliberately one of such courage, and his sword swung in a wide arc the while he leaped for the gate. He called to Benna, and she, her own sword out, came to his side. With a yell, the evil-faced kaid barked a swift command and the guard closed in for the attack.

COMEDY WINNER AT CERAMIC

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" is Paramount Success.

Paramount's current production "Love 'em and Leave 'em," now at the Ceramic theatre, goes over with a big bang. We recommend it as an example of what the modern movie should be. No trick camera work, nothing pretentious, no night clubs, no mobs; just a simple story transferred to the screen with good taste by Director Frank Tuttle, enacted with admirable restraint by Evelyn Brent, Lawrence Gray and Louise Brooks, and photographed with telling effect by George Webber. That's—"Love 'em and Leave 'em."

Adapted from the Weaver-Abbott stage success, it seems bound to duplicate or even exceed past records. Opening in a New York City department store and alternating between it, Central Park and a typical boarding house, this story of two sisters —common enough as stories go,—becomes a thing of absorbing interest.

Mame Walsh loves Bill but refuses to marry him till he makes more money. A vacation away from her sweetheart shows how empty life really is, so back she goes to give Bill a belated "Yes" only to find that her younger sister, Janie, has been flirting with Bill to such an extent that she's beaten her to it. Mame takes the news hard but determines to use Janie's philosophy as her own;—she's going to "love 'em and leave 'em."

How to Get Pavement That Can't Wear Out

and can't run up costly bills

There must be, first a good base—foundation. Then must come a cushion of sand. On top of this the toughest surface to be found—one that can protect the base from all traffic and weather conditions.

Paving brick, being vitrified, is the toughest, densest wearing surface man makes. This surface can't soften under heat; can't undergo chemical change. It can't be damaged by absorbing water and freezing. Moreover, it is built with shock-absorbing resilience. Workmen are surer of a good job in laying this surface—since brick comes from the factory in finished form, tested, ready to put down.

These are reasons why brick is not only the highest-value pavement to be had—but the cheapest of all, as well!

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.

"Ai, though they be death itself."

"You are brave, but likewise you are a fool," snapped Larry, not having it in his heart to kill deliberately one of such courage, and his sword swung in a wide arc the while he leaped for the gate. He called to Benna, and she, her own sword out, came to his side. With a yell, the evil-faced kaid barked a swift command and the guard closed in for the attack.

COMEDY WINNER AT CERAMIC

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" is Paramount Success.

Paramount's current production "Love 'em and Leave 'em," now at the Ceramic theatre, goes over with a big bang. We recommend it as an example of what the modern movie should be. No trick camera work, nothing pretentious, no night clubs, no mobs; just a simple story transferred to the screen with good taste by Director Frank Tuttle, enacted with admirable restraint by Evelyn Brent, Lawrence Gray and Louise Brooks, and photographed with telling effect by George Webber. That's—"Love 'em and Leave 'em."

Adapted from the Weaver-Abbott stage success, it seems bound to duplicate or even exceed past records. Opening in a New York City department store and alternating between it, Central Park and a typical boarding house, this story of two sisters—common enough as stories go,—becomes a thing of absorbing interest.

Mame Walsh loves Bill but refuses to marry him till he makes more money. A vacation away from her sweetheart shows how empty life really is, so back she goes to give Bill a belated "Yes" only to find that her younger sister, Janie, has been flirting with Bill to such an extent that she's beaten her to it. Mame takes the news hard but determines to use Janie's philosophy as her own;—she's going to "love 'em and leave 'em."

How to Get Pavement That Can't Wear Out
and can't run up costly bills
There must be, first a good base—foundation. Then must come a cushion of sand. On top of this the toughest surface to be found—one that can protect the base from all traffic and weather conditions.
Paving brick, being vitrified, is the toughest, densest wearing surface man makes. This surface can't soften under heat; can't undergo chemical change. It can't be damaged by absorbing water and freezing. Moreover, it is built with shock-absorbing resilience. Workmen are surer of a good job in laying this surface—since brick comes from the factory in finished form, tested, ready to put down.
These are reasons why brick is not only the highest-value pavement to be had—but the cheapest of all, as well!
"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.

HINDENBURG GREETS FLYERS

Today

Number 2 Arrives.
Golf Accidents.
In Luther's Town.
Two Kinds of Starving.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

TWICE in succession, American flyers have crossed the Atlantic at one "hop," Lindbergh flying to Paris, Chamberlin, with Levine, almost to Berlin.

What will military and naval gentlemen say now about their theory that "the airplane is no real menace to this country?"

Out of two attempts to fly across the ocean by American flyers, both succeed.

WHAT would be the probable percentage of success if 5,000 foreign aviators, with full government backing and unlimited expenditure of money, should fly the other way on a hostile errand?

IT'S a little late for government officials to realize that men actually do fly and that so far as defense goes, the ocean of water no longer exists.

Battleships and coast defense guns are a joke. What could the German navy have done against Chamberlin, flying toward Berlin, 20,000 feet up? Nobody knew he was near until he flew down and made himself known.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will devote earnest attention to this plain fact.

A hostile European nation could send a thousand or two thousand bomb dropping air machines westward across the Atlantic today and within 48 hours New York, Boston and Washington could be wiped out.

GOLF, according to accident insurance companies, comes third among "dangerous sports." Victims of 451 golf accidents collected insurance last year. Twelve for "cuts with sharp instruments." The instruments were bottles, on the "19th hole." However, for one man injured at golf, one hundred die for lack of exercise, so play golf.

CHAMBERLIN and Levine ended the longest non-stop flight on record, in Saxony, Prussia, in the town of Eisleben, where Martin Luther was born and died.

What would Luther have thought could he have seen that bird from the air land in his town?

MRS. ADA SAWYER GARRETT, aged 74, is taken to a hospital, half starved. She had been economizing on food "to avoid poverty in my old age," lived on 37 cents a day, and owns $6,000,000 worth of property, including $1,500,000 cash, as shown in court. She is declared incompetent.

If SHE had been an old man, starving his brain and his spirit instead of starving his stomach, in pursuit of more wealth, she would have been "quite normal," and nobobdy would have interfered.

MAN AND WOMAN SLAIN IN AUTO

Bodies of Elwood City Couple Found East of New Castle

Wife, Doubting Story Her Husband Told, Kills Him

NEW YORK, June 8.—Mrs. Margaret Thompkinson, 30, of Coney Island, didn't believe her husband, George Thompkinson, also 30, a cook, when he returned home at 3:30 this morning, saying he had been working.

She accused him of "cheating." She became so furious she seized an eight-inch bread knife and plunged it into his side, severing an artery. Within five minutes he was dead.

The woman, mother of two children, was arrested. The police investigated and found that the story the husband told his wife was true.

Authorities Investigate Deaths of Michael A. McIltrot, 41, and Mrs. R. S. Bryan, 30.

Slain Newspaper Worker is Father of Seven Children While Companion is Mother of Three.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 8.—Lawrence county authorities today were investigating the deaths of Michael A. McIltrot, 41, circulation manager of the Elwood City, Pa., Ledger, and Mrs. R. S. Bryan, 30, also of Elwood City, whose bodies were found in an automobile, said to belong to Mrs. Bryan, late last night, three miles east of New Castle.

Gun in Woman's Hand.

McIltrot had been shot through the heart and Mrs. Bryan through the temple. Mrs. Bryan's lifeless hand clutched a revolver, leading authorities to express the belief that the woman had killed McIltrot and then committed suicide.

The bodies were discovered by Sheriff W. H. Reynolds, after Isaac Anderson, a farmer, had notified him that a "petting party" had caused him to drive into a ditch to get around their car, parked in the middle of the road.

McIltrot is said to be the father of seven children while Mrs. Bryan is the mother of three.

Identification was established by Coroner J. P. Caldwell and the body of Mrs. Bryan was later identified by her husband, the sheriff said.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS IN OCTOBER

President Will Issue Call in Fall, Smoot Says.

VISITS COOLIDGE

Await Report of Engineers on Flood Control Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—President Coolidge will call congress to meet in extra session between October 1 and 15.

This was announced today by Senator Smoot (R.), of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, after a long conference with the president at the White House.

"The president recognizes the necessity for an early session," said Smoot. "The date when congress will convene will be determined after it is known when the army engineers will be ready to report on flood control legislation. The date is expected to be between the first and middle of October."

Program Outlined.

Flood control and rehabilitation of the stricken areas of the south will be the chief work of congress, Smoot declared. Tax reduction, farm relief and the Smith-Vare election fights also will be considered, Smoot said.

In addition, Smoot added, congress will have to overcome the "technical blunders caused by the failure to pass th deficiency bill at the last session."

The budget bureau is working on the government's financial program and will have it ready for submission as soon as congress returns, Smoot stated.

He predicted that congress would cut the nation's tax bill by at least $300,000,000.

By meeting in October congress will get to work two months ahead of the regular time for convening in December.

There has been considerable agitation, especially among Democrats and Progressives, for an extra session to draft flood control legislation.

EARL CARROLL ENTERS PRISON CELL TO BEGIN 366-DAY TERM

Theatrical Producer Starts Sentence for Perjury.

PHYSICIANS RULE

Attorney General Acts as Doctors Say Prisoner is O. K.

ATLANTA, June 8.—The tortuous trail which began with a gay party on Broadway, New York, a year ago, led Earl Carroll into the Atlanta federal prison today.

Ghastly white, emaciated, he was carried on a stretcher from a southern Pullman car at terminal station at 5:25 o'clock, placed in an ambulance and taken to the penitentiary. He was put to bed in a private room in the prison hospital. And thus he became convict No. 24909, sentenced to serve a year and a day—beginning today—for the perjury he was said to have committed when he told a New York grand jury there was no liquor at the Broadway party.

He came from Greenville, S. C., where two months ago he collapsed enroute to Atlanta and was taken from the train and kept on a hospital cot, surrounded by eminent specialists. Two government physicians had recommended his removal to Atlanta, and Attorney General Sargnt ordered it.

Carried on Stretcher.

The producer was carried to the train in a stretcher at midnight. The train left at 1:25. He gave no sign that he knew what they were doing with him. He was quiet and silent, as he has been for two months.

His wife accompanied him, as did his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carroll.

Condition Reported "Favorable."

BELLANCA LOST DURING LAST LAP OF FLIGHT, GERMAN TOLD

Crowds Cheer as Chamberlin and Levine go to Mansion.

SOLDIERS SALUTE

U. S. Ambassador Gives Dinner, Stresemann Will Entertain.

BERLIN, June 8.—For the first time since he landed in Germany, Clarence Chamberlin revealed today that the Bellanca plane was lost over Europe during the last lap of the transocean flight with both compasses out of order.

Story of Aerial Adventure.

Chamberlin told the story of the great aerial adventure to President Hindenburg, who received Chamberlin and his companion, Charles A. Levine, in audience.

"We ran into a heavy snow storm over the ocean," Chamberlin told the German president, "and tried to avoid it by rising above it, but it was hard to get up because of the heavy load of gasoline.

"We didn't get to Ireland, as we had expected, but came to Europe rather to the south of Ireland, over the English channel.

"When we were over the continent again we again hit a heavy storm and we tried to dodge it by zig-zagging north and south. That is how we began to lose our bearings.

Why They Missed Berlin.

"Towards dawn we saw a large city [illegible] the ground to orient ourselves. It was Dortmund but we thought it was Bremerhaven. For that reason we flew considerably to the south and that is why we missed Berlin and finally landed at Cottbus. Once we had lost our orientation it was impossible to pick up our direction because, though we had taken two compases, both got out of order. One went out of commission over the ocean and the other one after we were over the continent, so that we were finally without any compass at all and the skies were too hazy for us to find our way."

Chamberlin and his flying companion, were received by the German chieftain at the presidental mansion.

FIVE-MAN RACE FORECAST FOR REPUBLICAN MAYORALTY NOMINATION AT PRIMARIES ON AUGUST 9

Race for the Republican nomination for mayor at the August 9 primaries will be a five-man affair with two members of city council, two business men and a former mayor, participating, it was indicated today. Candidates have until midnight Friday in which to qualify.

Former Mayor Charles Brown, who retired from office two years ago following his defeat for renomination in the primary election, tossed his hat in the ring today, when he applied for candidacy declaration papers at the election board office.

A. U. Richardson, cooperage company official, former clerk of court and ex-service director, will also qualify.

Charles W. "Heimie" Davis, owner of a cigar store at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets, filed his declaration of candidacy yesterday. N. P. Kerr, president of city council, and Thomas Farrall, councilman-at-large, had previously entered the race.

Paul Allison, who operated a grocery store on St. Clair avenue several years ago, took out paper several weeks ago, stating that he intended to enter the mayoralty race but has not yet qualified. Should he file six candidates will be in the field.

A. Earl Edwards, former member of city council and city treasurer for the last two terms, filed yesterday for clerk of the municipal court. Papers have also been taken out by Mrs. Alice Birch, incumbent, who was appointed to succeed the late Miss Ruth Finnie, and Mrs. Florence Moss Bowers, who ran as an independent candidate two years ago.

Although no declarations had been filed up to noon today, a large councilmanic field is expected.

Arthur L. Wallover, it is reported, will seek the Republican nomination in First ward. W. H. Kelly, filling out the unexpired term of Edgar H. Heddleston as second ward representativve, will seek re-nomination. Others mentioned as possible candidates are H. S. Lindell, William Barlow and M. W. Thompson. The latter two are residents of the territory recently annexed by the city.

Solon L. M. Poole has already entered the race for a second term at Third ward representative. The name of A. E. Harris has also been mentioned for this place.

George A. Hughes, who has served two terms in council as the Fourth ward member, has thrown his hat in the ring for re-nomination. Friends of Clyde Hall are seeking to enter his name in the Fourth ward race, it is said.

Otto Kommel, who is serving the unexpired term of O. J. Herrington, will be a candidate to succeed himself. Grant Myler has also taken out a paper, indicating he will be a candidate for council-at-large.

Joseph Strauss, assistant ticket agent at the Cleveland & Pittsburgh passenger station, is the only aspirant for city treasurer. However, Ray T. Adam may enter this race, according to reports.

John Stamm, former city treasurer, it is reported, will oppose William McGraw, seeking his fourth term, for city aduitor.

Frank H. Hoover will have no opposition, it is believed, for a second term as city solicitor.

Democratic leaders assert they will place a complete ticket in the field, although it is not likely that there will be any contests.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum will seek a second term. C. A. Goodballet will probably file for First ward council, while Ross Dorr is reported to be a council aspirant [illegible] the Second ward. Party [illegible] will meet in the city hall building tonight to name candidates [illegible] other offices.

TREPOD CASE BEING PROBED

Italian Consul Takes Up Defense of Alleged Murderer.

Cavalier Valerio Caleriani, Italian consul stationed at Cleveland, was in Wellsburg and Steubenville yesterday in conference with attorneys for James Trepod, now being held in jail for the alleged murder of Dr. Diego Delfino, Steubenville and Follansbee physician, whose body was found in his automobile, the engine of which was still running, parked along the roadway near Follansbee, last November.

The consul and his attorney, Louis R. Lanza, of Cleveland, spent most of the day in Wellsburg in conference with former Prosecutor Robert L. Ramsay, who is representing Trepod, the defendant, in the Brooke county action. Present at the conference were Attorney R. B. Cohen, one of the attorneys who represented Trepod recently in Steubenville when he was acquitted after a week's trial for the murder of Dominic Spinetti. South Sixth street confectioner, Attorney Thomas S. Rock, who also helped defend Trepod here and R. D. Mantica, Steubenville correspondent for the Italian consulate at Cleveland.

According to Mr. Rock, Chavalier was told point blank that Trepod is being persecuted rather than prosecuted. Review of his trial in Steubenville was given at length along with a review of the action of the Brooke county authorities soon after Dr. Delfino's murder when another man, other than Trepod, one Nick Martolo, by name, was indicted for Dr. Delfino's death, was reported in custody and later announcement was made that he had not been apprehended.

Attorney Ramsay stated at the conference that Trepod could not possibly have been the man that murdered Delfino, in that Trepod was married November 15 and was on his honeymoon when Defino was killed and that hotel records were in his hands showing that Trepod was many miles away from Brooke county at the time of the murder.

The presence of Chavalier Valteriani in Wellsburg during the time of the Brooke county grand jury was deliberating Trepod's case indicated that the case is attracting international prominence. Once the requested affidavits are forthcoming, Valeriani stated he would return to Wellsburg, possibly within the next two weeks.

BROOKE COUNTY COURT UPHELD

A decision of the state supreme court of West Virginia, received in Wellsburg Tuesday gives the Brooke county court the authority to lay a special levy for the purpose of purchasing property and thereon erecting public buildings, that the court deems necessary.

This decision overrules a permanent injunction granted a certain group of Brooke county citizens by Judge J. H. Brennan, in the circuit court of Ohio county, which restrained the county court from purchasing the Loggie and Carmichael properties on Main and Fourteenth streets, for the erection of a new court house, sheriff's residence and county jail.

The county court so it is authentically understood will make preparations immediately for having plans and specifications for a new court house, sheriff's residence and jail, drawn. The court will seek bids for the erection of the public buildings on a unit building program basis. A jail will be constructed first, and as the extra levy money is available the court house building and sheriff's residence will be constructed.

The county court expects the new building to cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Bishop U. H. W. Darlington, of Huntington, representative of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in Europe, yesterday tendered his resignation as president of Morris Harvey college to the board of trustees of the institution. The board accepted the resignation and elected Dr. Robert H. Ruff, of Nashville, Tenn., to succeed Bishop Darlington, as head of the school.

Bishop Darlington said in tendering his resignation to the board that in view of his work in Europe he could not give the affair of the school the proper attention.

COMPARATIVE MAP OF TWO OVERSEA FLIGHTS

Comparative map of Lindbergh-Chamberlin trans-Atlantic flights, telling the story at a glance.

Lindy's Flight Eclipses Cottbus Jump, Says Bertaud

CLEVELAND, June 8. — The flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris eclipsed that of Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, from New York to Cottbus, Germany, in the opinion of Lloyd W. Bertaud, Cleveland air mail pilot, once booked to make the trip in the Bellanca plane.

"Lindbergh's plans were perfect," Bertaud declared, "and despite the greater distance covered by Chamberlain, it took no glory away from Lindbergh."

CHAMBERLIN SURE FLIGHT WOULD SUCCEED

Wife Says Columbia Pilot Never Thought of Failure.

TELLS OF YOUTH

Mrs. Chamberlin is Pianist; May Resume Concert Playing.

By Ruby Weil.

NEW YORK, June 8.—So sure was Clarence D. Chamberlin of the success of his trans-Atlantic non-stop flight that he and his wife never even discussed the possibility of failure.

"He wouldn't have started had we not both been sure he would make it," explained his wife, who almost made the trip. Charming and youthful in a flowered silk dress, Mrs. Chamberlin, refreshed after hearing husband was safely across ocean, and in Germany, chatted gaily, turning constantly to anecdotes about the flyers.

"He must have flown lower than planned so he would be seen and word could be sent back that he was safe," she asserted.

Mrs. Chamberlin tells of her husband's early interest in mechanics. "He used to take a one-cylinder Oldsmobile apart," she says laughingly. "I suppose that was one of the first automobiles built. He was so small, that when he drove it he had to stand up to touch the gas."

Jumping back to his youth, she proudly told how he worked his way through Iowa State College, where he studied electrical engineering. "He used to go every day from Ames, where the college is, to Des Moines to work in the electrical section of railroad shops there," she said. "At the end of the first year, he had $700 to his credit. I think that part of his career ought to be known."

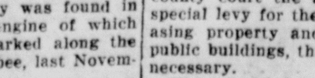

Mrs. Chamberlin May Resume Concert Playing.

Mrs. Chamberlin is a pianist of ability. It is the ambition of the flyer and his wife that she resume concert playing, she said.

A story is told that Chamberlin did much hazardous flying in winter, sometimes replacing his landing gear with skiis, to help pay for his wife's musical education. Questioned about the story, Mrs. Chamberlin merely replied modestly but proudly, "Clarence HAS deprived himself for me."

The Chamberlins were married January 13, 1919, at Independence, Ia., with the temperature 23 below zero. Mrs. Chamberlin, who was Wilda Van Debegort, smiling, admitted she is "not quite thirty." She looks several years younger.

Chamberlin, whose home town is Denison, Ia., is 32. He not only had the first motorcycle in town but the first auto in his county. Of English and American stock—his mother having been born in London and his father in Iowa,—he has ever been known for the daring and the determination that has culminated in his record-breaking flight—the longest non-stop flight on record.

LINDY'S FATHER FOUGHT FOR BELIEFS IN CONGRESS

CAPITAL CITY RECALLS TALL SCANDINAVIAN

He Was One of Most Respected Men in Washington.

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Not an old timer in congress who still lingers in Washington but has been asked scores of times in the last fortnight, did you know Charlie Lindbergh's father?

And not one whose first coming to Capital Hill antedates 1917, when Congressman Lindbergh's career here ended, but remembers the father of the New York-Paris non-stop aviator.

One met he was not a man to be forgotten. A tall, big boned Scandinavian, with huge hands and feet, Clerk William Tyler Page of the house of representatives, described him as the viking type in a strongly masculine way and very handsome.

But as to his personality, versions differ widely.

Of Insurgent Group.

Lindbergh came to Washington from Minnesota as a Republican. It was soon apparent, however, that he was of the Insurgent Group and a singularly irreconcilable one. His specialty was monetary reform. He was for government banks and exclusive governmental control of the issue of currency.

His views were not such as to commend him to the "money power." But for a while he was not taken very seriously. A "nut," the old line regulars called him.

A rude awakening was in store for them. In 1910, about forty insurgent Republicans, under the leadership of Representative, now Senator, Norris, combined with Democrats and overthrew Speaker Cannon's power. Lindbergh was conspicuous among these insurrectos. Insurgency had ceased to be funny.

The Independents, originally disregarded, became unpopular. Some of them lived it down. "A radical," as one old timer expressed it in recalling Lindbergh's career, "frequently mellows with successive terms in congress and sometimes develops into quite an ultra conservative, but Lindbergh never did.

Congress presently passed under Democratic control. Then war broke out.

As it progressed, Lindbergh protested that "commercilization" of the struggle was breeding belligerent sentiment in this country. With the strengthening of the tendency the harder he fought it.

Retired Prior to War.

Retiring from congress in 1917 he missed the vote on America's declaration of hostilities, though he made no secret of the fact that he would have been against it.

One of his last acts in Washington was to attempt impeachment proceedings against the Federal Reserve Board.

His subsequent campaign for governor of Minnesota was watched with the keenest interest in Washington, for it was evident that he was running strongly and pro-war sentiment in congress was violently exercised at the thought of victory by a candidate who was by that time openly denounced as a Pacifist.

All for Father Now.

Conservative sentiment on Capital Hill has undergone a remarkable change in the last three weeks. Today the late Congressman Lindbergh is Lindy's father. No, maybe he wasn't so popular, but he was one of the most respected men in Washington for his inflexible honesty and viking courage.

That's the conservative version.

But there is another story. Ask one of the Liberal group—and he'll say Congressman Lindbergh was a crusader, a man who fought for what he believed was right and never weighed the consequences, and at the same time the most lovable who ever served in congress. That's the alternative account.

A speech maker? No, they all agree. Lindbergh talked little but sawed more wood than any champion in insurgent history.

D. Frank White, East End, has brought suit in municipal court to collect $300 from Ervin Tice, 918 Riley avenue, for damages alleged to have been done to White's automobile when struck by a car driven by Tice along the River road last July.

White claims that he and Tice entered into an agreement on August 2, 1926, whereby the latter was to pay $8 bi-weekly until $300 had been paid. White alleges that he spent $365.50 in repairing his car, but that he agreed to settle for $300.

Wasted Life

The League of Conservation of Public Health says there are 3,000,000 persons seriously ill in the United States every day. That means about one in every 14.

If this were necessary, it could be endured with more or less patience. But most of it is declared to be unnecessary.

The economic loss is tremendous. The league says American industry loses $1,800,000,000 a year through the absence of workmen caused by preventable disease. If this is true, imagine the total loss from incapacity of all economic classes. It must be two or three times that much.

Still more important, however, is the suffering caused directly by illness. Life itself is more than salary or wages or output, and the sick person is not really living.

A leading physician says there is only $5,000,000 a year spent on "pure medical research," to get at the cause of disease and suggest ways for its eradication. What a pitiful contribution, in the light of the figures given above!

The nation could well afford to spend a billion a year for a few years. The resulting improvement in health and productiveness would soon pay back the cost manyfold, and add inconceivably to the nation's sense of well-being and joy of life.

As The Water's Recede

As the horror of the flood itself abates in the Mississippi valley, with the passing of the crest to the Gulf of Mexico, the horrors which must be faced by homeward-turning refugees call for attention.

A description of the situation tells of Negroes pushing seeds into the ground with bare toes where the water is still some inches deep; of farmers ploughing in the wet mud before the summer sun bakes it into brick-like hardness; of families moving back into the upper stories of their houses while the lower parts are still filled with the slowly sinking water; of stagnant pools producing unprecedented swarms of mosquitoes; of the rank odor of decaying animal and vegetable matter; of the areas where the water obviously will linger too long for the planting and harvesting of any crop at all.

Disease has been remarkably kept in check in the refugee camps. Can it still be held back when people scatter again to their soggy, mud-coated farms and homes?

It is well for the millions of Americans in regions wholly untouched by the flood to think of those things. Building new and higher levees is a vital problem, but it is only one of several vital problems. The task of restoring the region back of the levees to productivity and habitableness is tremendous and immediate.

Think it over! And then send some more money to help along that work.

Air-Cooled Engines

With the demonstration given by Charles Lindbergh's airplane, the air-cooled airplane engine has obviously arrived.

It has been tested now for 10 years, and has been usued lately on a rapidly increasing number of planes in this country, including most of those that were lined up for the New York-to-Paris flight. The perfect performance of Lindbergh's plane has doubtless put it over to the satisfaction of airmen generally. The air-cooling principle will doubtless be adopted by various other engines, because of the big saving in dead weight and inconvenience made possible by eliminating the water radiator.

While this is being done for airplanes, how about automobiles? Only one or two motor cars so far are using the air-cooling principle. It is probably easier to apply on airplane engines because, in action, they operate mostly in air of lower temperature than is found on the ground below, to which the motor cars are confined. Yet the thing has been proved feasible for automobile engines. It would be a blessing for millions of motorists if they were freed from the use of heavy radiators, leaking, boiling over and freezing.

Peach Trees On Ice

There's more than one way to skin a cat, or save a crop. A peach grower in St. Joseph, Ark., have a novel plan to save peaches from late spring frost. It is a homeopathic remedy. Instead of fighting the frost with fire, in the usual form of a smudge on frosty nights, he proposes to fight frost with ice.

He will bury a cake of ice at the foot of every tree in February. That, he thinks, will keep the tree from budding in March and then having the blossoms nipped. It amounts to putting the trees in cold storage until the spring freezes are over. He hopes to save a crop every year, instead of every three or four years.

If the plan woks, it might be applied elsewhere to advantage, for various crops, where ice doesn't cost too much. Eventually an orchard may be kept cool during the dangerous period by means of pipes buried in the soil, carrying a freezing fluid, on the principle of the iceless refrigerator.

When "Big Bill" Thompson, mayor Chicago, declares that American boys shall not be cannon fodder for European battlefields, is he trying to protect a home industry?

Judging from the condition of Louisiana's "Sugar Bowl," the cane sugar prospects this year are all wet.

THE EASIEST THING HE DID

Sounds betokening intense infantile grief caused the passing lady to halt in front of a simple cottage. On the uppermost step of the house sat a small boy. Tears coursed down his cheeks and from him issued a series of broken-hearted howls.

"Oh, dear me," said the lady, "poor little fellow! What's the matter?"

"Oh-h-h!"—the youngster broke a longdrawn wail off short and sniffled deeply and checked his sobbing. 'Daddy and Maw won't take me to the movies tonight. And I want to go to the movies tonight. O-h-h,wow-w-w!"

"But don't cry so," advised the sympathetic one. "Do they ever take you when you cry like that?"

"Sometimes they do and sometimes they don't," explained the child. "But it ain't no trouble to yell!"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 8.—Manhattan is not intentionally snooty about the rest of the world. But the city is so big itself that many of its people become geographically indifferent. In a store this morning a clerk asked me if Havana wasn't in Texas.

It is not an exaggeration that there are those who believe the residents of San Francisco are sitting out in front of their log cabins gnawing frozen buffalo meat wondering who is president. Any place west of Jersey City is camping out.

There is the story of a night club fracas when a nicotine stained habitue whispered to the proprietor: "That bird is liable to get rough and pull a gun—he's a westerner from Buffalo." Most native New Yorkers know more about Europe than America.

Either they have crossed the ocean or their parents have. They get an idea of European hand kissing and rather unconsciously they acquire the impression that men from the hinterland are those with the manners of stable men trying to be John Drews.

This attitude frequently creeps into theatrical criticism when a play hit comes from Chicago. It will be called "a typical Chicago play" as though meant to be derisive. As a matter of fact one sees more cotton umbrellas, gum chewing and celluloid collars in New York than in Indianaoplis.

There is a section of New York unable to realize that more than 50 per cent of the men in evening clothes and the ladies flowering in chic Parisian frocks at the theatre, in the cafes and supper clubs are people from out of town.

Underneath all this distorted smugness there is a heartening side. New Yorkers warm to Western people and western manners. They love Will Rogers and his breezy suggestion of the pampas. Also Tom Mix. Almost anyone who can ride a horse to them is a god.

Down at Atlantic City the other day I asked one of those tatterdemalion chair pushers to speed up. "Can't do it boss. They'll nab me for speedin'," he replied. And he pointed to a confrere who had just spent a session in goal for hitting the high spots. There's a life for those of us approaching gouty isolation—joy riding in a wheel chair.

The shuffling, rachitic chair pushers are outcasts blown to the seaside from all corners of the world. They seem to find a place to hide for, like waiters, no one ever sees a chair pusher's face. Many are those who have seen far better days and have drifted to this rather lowly calling through drink or drugs.

I am told that next season there is to be a great revival of stars of a few years ago or even further back. They are needed. Theater goers have grown a little tired of that stardom encompassed in a lustrous leg and a prop smile. Many of the old timers—such as David Warfield, John Drew, William Gillette, Joe Weber and Lew Fields—are difficult to sign on the dotted line. They have all the money they need and know all about fame. William Collier is an actor seen too little hereabouts. Also George M. Cohan. They, too, are well heeled.

Cohan is seldom seen in the Broadway haunts these days. When he comes to town he has a hideaway in the Hotel Astor but rarely visits the cafes. Most of his time is spent in the country. He more than any other actor has heard the din of the Broadway tom-toms. But the roar apparently no longer interests him. His hair today is almost snow white and yet it seems but yesterday his enthusiastic press clip sheet was hearalding, "Boys, I'm on my first million!"

HASKINS' LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Paring Down Our Currency.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—It would be difficult to find any one not interested in money. What every one really means by the expression of such an interest relates to the commodities and services which money will buy, but, nevertheless, the shape, size, and appearance of the tokens themselves have a primary fascination. So then the action of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in ordering a reduction in the size of American paper money is going to keep a lot of people curious until the new currency makes its appearance.

Unlike the currency of European countries, the paper money of the United States has always followed almost exactly the same dimensions. For a brief period, many years ago, fractional paper money was issued, but those shinplasters, as they were called, now can be found only in the hands of collectors. The new bills will, at first, give our currency a little of European variety, for only the one dollar bill will be reduced in size.

When this work is under way, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will begin on higher denominations. Eventually all but the national bank notes will be reduced in size. The latter will not be reduced because the smaller note will not provide sufficient space for the name of the issuing bank and the appearance of the name and signatures of the officers is essential under teh law.

The present standard size of all American currency is 7 7-16 by 3 1-8 inches. The new one dollar notes will be 6 1-8 by 2 5-8 inches. That is, the new notes will be 1 5-16 inches shorter and 1-2 inch narrower. Ultimately all of the money will be reduced to this size.

The notable difference in the physical aspect of United States and European paper money is the variety in the European issues.

French Notes Vary in Size.

The French 5-franc note—approximately equivalent to our dollar in normal value—measures only 4 7-8 inches long but is the same width as our dollar bill, that is, 3 1-8 inches. This gives it more nearly a square appearance. The 50-franc note is 7 4-8 inches long and 4 7-8 inches wide. The 100 franc note is 7 1-8 inches long and 4 1-2 inches wide. The 100-franc note is 9 1-8 inches long and 5 1-8 inches wide. The latter, it will be seen, is quite a fair-sized sheet of paper.

The French notes are beautifully engraved but on a flimsier paper than ours. Each has a curious watermark. On each note is what appears to be a plain round white blank. When held to the light a watermark is revealed. It is the emblematic woman's head, wearing the tricolor cap of the republic. The reverse side of these notes bears a highly artistic design in colors instead of the rather dull even green of American money. It is a rather difficult thing to imagine a lavender $5 bill, but for Paris the color schemes employed seem quite in keeping.

The British 10-shilling note is a little fellow, 5 3-8 inches by 3 1-8 inches. The 1-pound note is 5 7-8 inches by 3 1-4 inches and the 5-pound note is 8 1-4 inches by 5 1-8 inches. The British notes of denominations higher than 5 pounds are the same size. They are much simpler in design than the French, especially those of 5 pounds and over. In fact, at first glance, they look like just a few lines of printing on very flimsy paper. As a matter of fact the paper is quite durable, difficult to tear and not so brittle as that used in the United States. Thus it stands much folding and creasing without the texture cracking. On account of the large size all of the larger denomination notes of both France and England have to be folded to fit in a wallet or pocket book.

The Italian currency follows the same general scheme; in fact, all the European currencies do. The advantage of this system is that a man may know in many cases by the size and shape of a note what denomination it is without looking at the figures.

A similar idea of differentiation at a glance, excepting in the matter of size, will be adopted in the new American currency. All $5 bills, whether greenbacks or Federal Reserve notes, will bear the same portrait and adornment. All $10 bills, whether silver certificates, gold certificates, Federal Reserve notes, or what not, will have the same picture on them and the same reverse design. This will be followed throughout, a different designs being definitely allocated to a definite denomination. This will displace from our currency many a portrait, for under present practice quite a number of men have been honored. Washington and Lincoln, of course, are sure of their places—probably one being used for the $5 and the other for the $10 bills.

Economy the Object.

The government's major purpose in bringing about this change is one of economy. The estimates show that there will be a saving of one-third in the cost of production. One-third less of the highly expensive and distinctive paper, will be required and one third less ink, and the shipping weight will be reduced by a third. A 50 per cent saving will be effected in the actual process. Notes are printed in large sheets and afterwards cut into single notes. The size bill now in use can be printed 8 to the sheet. The new size will make 12 to the sheet.

What the lengthened life of the smaller notes will be, as the result of less folding, creasing, and cracking, must be determined by experience.

FOGO FILES FOR ANOTHER TERM AS MAYOR

D. A. Bunting Will Oppose Executive in August 9 Race.

OTHERS QUALIFY

Candidates' Entry Time Limit Expires Late Friday Night.

Referring to accomplishments of the present administration and asserting that he will "stand upon its record of service," Mayor W. L. Fogo climaxed last night's council meeting with the announcement that he will seek re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries on August 9.

He said he would file his petition with the election board officials today.

The mayor's announcement came as the solons were preparing to adjourn after a two-hours conference. Prefacing his actual declaration, Fogo pointed out that council and city officials had worked in harmony during this period he had vetoed only one the administration and that during measure sent to his desk by the solons.

He concluded his remarks with the assertion that "anyone else who desires to file petitions should do so by Friday night."

Ten candidates, all Republicans, have lined up for the primary derby.

Other petitions are expected as the time limit for filing of petitions draws near.

The present mayor will have at least one opponent for the Republican nomination. D. A. Bunting, of Riverside avenue, was among the first to declare his candidacy.

Nine other petitions have been filed to date, including Clarence Scott and Wilbert Dales, for city treasurer; Raymond Knepper, for city solicitor; Clyde Baker, president of council; Fred Heldman and John Reil, councilmen-at-large; C. C. Heitman, first ward; Charles Peters, second ward; Ted Swearingen, third ward.

Until today, there have been no Democratic petitions. However, it is expected that practically a full slate will be prepared at a meeting of local party leaders which will be held on Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms in city hall.

PUSH PLANS FOR ROAD REPAIRING

Resolution authorizing the resurfacing of the Lisbon road from the city limits to a point a short distance from the county bridge becomes a law without the signature of Mayor W. L. Fogo.

The measure failed to get the mayor's signature, however, only because of what the chief executive termed objectionable wording in several places.

Mayor Fogo asserts that he is anxious to have the work done as soon as possible and announces that every effort will be made to push the operations which will be largely under the supervision of Service-Safety Director George Ashley.

MORE TRUCKS AT 'NARROWS'

Improvement Project Being Rushed by State.

Increased efforts in the grading of the "Narrows" of the River Road is forecast in the purchase of five additional Ford dump trucks which are to be delivered there by N. E. Ellis on order of the State Highway department.

Work has been going forward rapidly since started this spring. The grading was completed up to the Pennsylvania overhead bridge near the Children's Home, and the fill at this end of the bridge made.

Another cut back through the "Narrows" was started recently and the shovel is now several hundred feet along the job.

When the grading is completed a surface such as that on the road up to Port Homer, is to be placed.

Conference With Hineman Planned by Solons.

City council last night began preparations for a conference with A. W. Hineman, water system contractor; tabled the telephone franchise ordinance and instructed the phone company to bring one in; ordered supplementary appropriations and fund transfers, authorized repairs to the city hall tower, and discussed streets, sewers and lights in a two-hour conference during which a large amount of legislative business was transacted.

Clerk George Hardman read a letter from Contractor Hineman in which the latter acknowledged receipt of the city communication stating that an amicable adjustment was still desired. Hardman then was instructed to notify Hineman that city officials, including all members of council, would hold a conference in the future in the auditor's office here at which time differences with Hineman would be discussed and, if possible, means of effecting an adjustment reached.

An ordinance to grant the telephone company a franchise was read to solons but, failing to meet with general approval, was tabled. The lawmakers finally reached an agreement that the company be asked to bring in an ordinance for the city's approval and that such action be taken by June 20.

Supplementary appropriation to the tire department was approved as an emergency measure, as were transfers from the service to the general and library funds, the latter being depleted.

City Solicitor S. C. Luccock was instructed, in accordance with requirements, to defend the city in the Sarah Thomas damage suit, the latter having filed a $10,000 claim against the city for injuries she is alleged to have received when she fell on a sidewalk in Fifth street.

Ordinances providing equipment for police and fire department employes were passed as emergencies. The employes are already equipped but the legislation was enacted in order that city books may meet requirements of state examiners.

Nicholson brought attention of council to the fact that Eighteenth street was badly washed out as a result of recent heavy rains and the solons discussed possible methods for repairs. It was agreed that ashes or other loose material would fail to serve the purpose.

Director Ashley was instructed to have stones removed from the sidewalk in Buckeye avenue near Eleventh. According to councilmen, property owners had placed the stones there to turn water away from their properties.

Heldman suggested the improvement of the old breaker in McQueen's Run Hollow and pointed to the possibility of another washout menace in the event the city is visited by heavy rains similar to those of last fall. Officials agreed that the repair of the breaker is necessary.

To Service Director Ashley was assigned the task of disposing of the city hall tower problem. Bricks from the tower fell off last week and the possibility of more descending into Fifth street below has prompted city officials to hasten action. It was the consensus of opinion that Ashley should engage the services of a competent mechanic or contractor who would inspect the tower and report back to city officials with recommendations as to the best means of repairing.

Director Ashley and City Engineer McGill were instructed to confer with Pennsylvania Railroad officials in Cleveland this week in regard to obtaining a right of way for the Seventeenth street sewer beneath the railroad tracks at Seventeenth street.

A light at Fifth and Washington street was recommended by Baker. Solons decided to move a light in Clover and Twelfth street further south in order that the light would cover a greater area.

SCHOLARSHIP IS DECLINED

Miss Dora Lewis, of Clark avenue, whose application for one of the two Wooster scholarships available here through the will of the late William McCullough, has declined the scholarship.

In notifying city council of her action, Miss Lewis explained that the amount of the scholarship would not be sufficient to warrant acceptance. The other scholarship also passed into the hands of the county commissioners for lack of candidates.

but it is expected a substantial saving will result. The cost of new engraved plates need not be considered. Plates are constantly wearing out and new ones being engraved. As they wear out, they can be engraved in the new size. Most of the machinery can be readjusted by the skilled mechanicians of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at relatively slight cost. The saving in storage space, not only to the government but to the banks, will be no small item. The demands of the American public for currency have increased so substantially that extensive additions to the Bureau's plant were imminent. In 1917 deliveries by the Bureau amounted to 128,672,045 sheets, while in 1926 this figure had risen to 227,566,949 sheets. The Bureau not only has been working to full capacity, but certain sections have been compelled to work double shifts.

WILL VOTE ON LIGHT LEVY

One-half Mill to be Asked for Five-year Period.

Wellsville citizens will vote again at the general election on a half-mill levy, sought by the city to provide funds with which to finance its electrical illumination system.

The fund is necessary, city officials point out, to maintain the system that has been placed in operation throughout the entire city within recent months.

Citizens voted on the half-mill levy once before, approved it substantially.

At athe next election, however, the levy will be placed on the ballots with a request that it be approved for a five-year period, instead of just a year, in order to avoid recurrence of legislation yearly that would be necessary to maintain the source of revenue.

LOVE INTEREST IS ELEMENT IN LEVINE EPIC

Record Flight Marks Climax of Romantic Life.

DAUGHTER PROUD

Levines, Typical Jewish Family, Prove Sportsmanship.

By Alexander C. Herman.

BELLE HARBOR, New York, June 8.—Love interest, the one element missing in the Lindbergh epic, is contained aplenty in the life of Charles A. Levine. His record flight with Clarence D. Chamberlin to Germany marked the climax of a romantic life dreamed of by so many—and lived by so few. No matter what decorations abroad or receptions at home, the kiss that will be his when his wife meets him in Berlin and the hugs when his daughter, Eloise, gets her arms around his neck will eclipse all other plaudits.

The Levines are a typical Jewish family with all its depth of devotion, love and sensitiveness for feelings. That is why he hopped off so hastily, with scarcely any preparation, to answer aspersions regarding his sportsmanship, born of controversy with Bertaud, originally slated for the trip.

That is why, to spare his wife's feelings, he had to fool her rather cruelly at the departure. But she has forgiven him proudly, and his daughter's happiness knows no bounds. With aviator's helmet in hand and on head she bounces about her home, the proudest youngster in the land. "My daddy has flown across the Atlantic," she says, "Clear across the ocean." And, if any other youngster dare belittle this feat, he had better watch out. For Eloise is no mean scrapper.

As a matter of fact, Eloise assures us that she is a good flyer herself, having been up three times.

Her last trip almost ended in tragedy when the landing gear of the Columbia snapped after the child had christened it. But Chamberlin, who guided the father to safety across the Atlantic, did as well by the child. In a remarkable landing, he returned her safe to her parents.

While the youngster is effervescent, her mother is suppressed. Still showing marks of her emotional strain, she can but smile through tears. Within earshot of the Levine home roars the "Dark Sea." "It used to frighten me terrifically," says the wife quietly, "but no more."

She soon will be with her husband in Berlin for she is not accustomed to being away from him long.

A School-Day Romance That Continues.

Theirs was a schoolday romance that has lost none of its charm in after life.

But school interests, aside from his sweetheart, were not of Charles' primary concern. He always was tinkering around with things mechanical. At fifteen he owned a motorcycle. Some of the money earned tending stable at a race track helped pay for it.

But the machine was too slow. He got an auto. And then began hankering for something faster. One day he got a chance to go up in one of the old Moissant company airplanes, which were novelties in those days, even on Long Island. He was king that day and resolved to have more of it.

When Grace A. Nova finished high school, Charles decided that it was time to get married. She was 18, he was 19. To avoid family objections or suggestions the youngsters eloped to Atlantic City and were married.

Faced with the problem of making a living, the young man went into the junk business. His wife was his secretary. Together they made it a go.

But his mechanical interest and speed deviltries never abated. He would race along the speedway at an 80-mile-an-hour clip in a trick auto without windshields or running board.

He would swim out so far that the life guards were driven ragged chasing him. Taking chances gave him a thrill in sport and business.

As with increased affluence he took greater interest in sports, he helped Christy Mathewson get control of the Boston Braves, and he helped many others. In turn his wife helped him in his activities, and the Levine family was as happy as any hereabouts.

He is only 30.

A few days before his trip, Mrs. Levine heard the men talking about provisions. She suggested that the sandwiches should be toasted, for toast, she reasoned, takes longer to stale than ordinary bread. But she didn't realize that the suggestions were for her husband.

Now that she does she is happy she made it. And so is Eloise, who promises to care for her baby sister, Ardith, while mother fetches father home. "Maybe that helped him get across," Mrs. Levine says, "that and Mr. Chamberlin."

I'm Most Grateful Every Month

Here's glorious news for long-suffering womankind! To every woman who periodically has suffered pain. Menstruation need no longer be painful. And it is Science that is speaking!

Specialists have developed a tiny tablet called midol. It's a simple thing, utterly harmless to a girl of fourteen, but it brings relief in five to seven minutes. And is effective twelve hours or longer!

Midol is NOT a narcotic. It has no effect whatever on heart or nervous system. It acts directly on those organs affected by menstruation. They function normally, as they should, but the pain is banished. Complete relief—yes, perfect comfort—follows midol.

Your druggist has midol for 50 cents, in a slim aluminum box to tuck in your purse.

FEDERAL INQUIRIES INVOLVE AIDE ON OCEAN PLANE

LEVINE'S AIR MAIL CAUSES INVESTIGATION

Contractual Relations With War Department Also Probed.

POSTMASTER HIT

Stamps on 200 Letters Valued at $1,000 by Collectors.

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Federal investigation involving Charles A. Levine, who accompanied Clarence D. Chamberlin on his historic flight to Berlin, proceeded here today from two sources, the postoffice department and the department of justice.

Postal officials are investigating Levine's carrying a packet of air mail from New York to Germany, while justice officials are continuing their study of Levine's contractual relations with the war department, out of which he is reputed to have made enormous profits.

Beyond asserting that his agents were investigating the salvage case, Attorney General Sargent had nothing to say today.

Postmaster General New, however, said that Levine was unauthorized to carry air mail to Germany, and Postmaster Fred Sealy, at Hempstead, L. I., violated postal regulations in carrying the postal cancellation stamp to Mitchel Field to cancel the stamps. These stamps are expected to have a collector's value of $1,000, being the first air mail stamps to cross the Atlantic.

Sought Air Mail Contract.

Levine has been in frequent difficulties with the postoffice department, starting over a bid Levine's company submitted for the New York-Chicago air mail contract months ago. Although his bid was the lowest submitted, Postmaster General New threw it out and awarded the contract to Col. Paul Henderson's company, after Levine was said to have approached Henderson with a proposition to sell the contract. While not actionable under the law, New considered this to be "sharp practice" and refused to accept Levine's bid. The fact that Levine's relations with the war department were also under investigation by the department of justice figured in the rejection.

Whether Levine's connivance with Postmaster Sealy to carry the first air mail to Europe is actionable under the law is, too, a question. According to postal authorities, there were more than 200 letters in the packet, mostly addressed to Levine himself at various European capitals. The philatelic value of the stamps is incalculable, but postal officials said Levine would have little difficulty in obtaining high prices for them from collectors in years to come.

Cabinet Discusses Question.

Levine's actions, not only in this instance, but his relations with the air department, formed the subject of a cabinet discussion yesterday. Although cabinet members were disinclined to discuss the matter, it was evident that the discussion related to what recognition, if any, the government will give Levine for his part in the Berlin flight. It is no secret that Levine is not popular among offcials here.

Chamberlin, who piloted the Bellanca plane, is in no way involved in these matters. Officials from President Coolidge down have nothing but praise for his daring and skill in negotiating the epochal flight, and he will receive all the homage an admiring government can bestow. Levine's status, however, is another matter.

Levine Hints Trip Back to America In Bellanca Plane

BERLIN, June 8.—"Our plans have not been determined," said Clarence Chamberlin today, when asked concerning reports that he and Charles A. Levine would fly back to New York in their Bellanca plane.

"I would like to fly back to America," was Levine's comment.

L. B. Miller Makes 6,726-mile Auto Trip Within Week

Lacking one minute of one week, L. B. Miller, San Francisco automobile accessory dealer, arrived in Los Angeles, yesterday, completing his 6,726-mile endurance drive from coast to coast and return and, incidentally, breaking the trans-continental record.

Word of Miller's arrival in California was contained in a telegram received last night by H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who arranged for his trip from Minerva, through East Liverpool, to Crafton, Pa. Miller's plans called for completion of the run in 163 hours, but he was delayed for about five hours.

He lowered his time from Los Angeles to New York by more than three hours. He did not follow the Lincoln highway on the return trip detouring over the National trails from Greensburg west.

Youngstown Man Takes Poison.

AKRON, O., June 8.—Howard Harden, 44, of Youngstown, is in a serious condition at a local hospital following an attempt to commit suicide by drinking poison, according to police.

New York-Germany Flyers Haven't Time To go Shopping

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the trans-Atlantic flyers, were in a predicament today owing to the fact that they had no baggage when they arrived in Berlin.

"I have nothing except what is on my back," Chamberlin told the International News Service. "I guess I ought to go shopping but it is likely I will not have time and will have to go to the banquet tonight just as I am."

As he spoke Chamberlin was dressed in his aviator's jacket and trousers.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 8.—Violent upheavals in a small number of the market specialties, with occasional flare-ups in the popular motor stocks, constituted the chief feature of the early trading today.

Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil joined the active list in the mystery-specialties, and sold in huge volume around 17, compared with yesterday's price of 12. New York, Ontaro & Western, a speculative railroad stock, held the center of the stage in that section of the market, while Chrysler motor continued the vigorous advance which started late in yesterday's session. Pittsburgh Coal, Certainteed Products and Texas Pacific Land Trust sold higher.

With the exception of Atlantic Refining, which jumped 5 1-2 points to 119 1-2, the oil list was again reactionary, as the result of reaching of the "new peak" in crude oil production and the slashing of gasoline prices in various parts of the country. Market leaders in the industrials and rails, like U. S. Steel and New York Central, were under moderate selling pressure, and declined fractionally.

Conservatism in the speculative district is largely based on the uninterrupted expansion of brokers' loans, a factor which sooner or later will dictate a halt in the wild speculation in specialty stocks. Prices of many of these shares have reached a level which can be justified only on momentous future developments in the properties, and not on current or prospective earnings of the companies.

Commodity markets were steady, with cotton up 10 to 15 points and grain prices fractionally higher. Call money 4½ per cent.

LINDBERGH'S CRUISER MAKES FAST VOYAGE

Ocean Flyer in Home-stretch of Trip to Washington.

EATS WITH CREW

Memphis Should Enter Chesapeake Bay on Saturday Morning.

ABOARD U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 8.—Captain Lackey of the Memphis announced today that President Coolidge will not be kept waiting for the arrival of Colonel Lindbergh, the hero of the first continent to continent flight.

The Memphis will arrive at Cape Henry at 6 p. m. Friday night, if not earlier.

"We are making 22 knots an hour and are bringing Lindbergh home as we promised, on time," said Captain Lackey.

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS, June 8. — (By Radio). — Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh is in the homestretch of his homeward journey today. The Memphis has encountered fine weather throughout the voyage from Cherbourg and has made excellent time, averaging 23 knots an hour. If the present schedule is maintained the cruiser should enter Chesapeake Bay Saturday morning.

Lindbergh has the run of the ship and is having the time of his life. He is enjoying every minute of the voyage and is a popular young idol with every man on board from the commander down to the humblest jackie.

Evidence of his popularity with the crew was shown by the keen rivalry among the men as to which table should have the honor of his presence when it became known that he wanted to eat with the crew.

Lindbergh has inspected the ship and especially the two scout planes on board. He climbed into the cockpit of one of them and the smile of contentment upon his face showed his pleasure over getting once more in contact with an airplane.

His Heart in Aviation.

The young airman has spent much time with Vice Admiral Burrage discussing the possibility of regular trans-ocean airplane service. Lindbergh was particularly anxious to get the vice admiral's views upon the feasibility of establishing commercial air bases at sea so that airplanes could refuel or take refuge if forced down by mechanical trouble, storms or exhaustion of fuel.

It is evident from Lindbergh's whole conversation that all his heart is in his life work—aviation. He is always studying his subject and seeking a fresh viewpoint upon the problems of flying.

Lindbergh refuses to discuss his future plans, but whatever they are they will deal with flying. For a week or two after his arrival his time will be taken up completely receiving honors from the American people. When the ovations and fetes are over he will be ready to settle down to work.

Even out in the Atlantic there are evidences of the universal interest in the daring young flyer. The steamship Bremen changed her course so that she could come within 1,600 feet of the Memphis to give the passengers a view of Lindbergh. The youthful avaitor was out upon the main deck when the Bremen passed and saluted him.

Celebration Plans Grow.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Like a snowball on a downgrade, the capital's celebration of "Lindbergh Day" next Saturday grew steadily in proportions today.

There is now no question but that the Atlantic flyer will receive next Saturday the greatest reception ever accorded any visitor to the capital in history. Presidents and potentiates might well envy the welcome that will be extended to him.

Business houses in the capital generally will close at 12:30 o'clock Saturday, giving thousands of employes an opportunity to participate in the celebration. All government employes will be released at noon, and to these thousands will be added other thousands of visitors, atracted from all parts of the country, assuring Lindbergh a welcoming audience probably greater than at any inaugural.

Program for Day.

The cruiser Memphis, with Lindbergh aboard, is due to dock at Washington navy yard at noon. He will be met there and conducted at once to the peace monument where a parade will start that promises to be more imposing than that of any inauguration day, the parade will be limited strictly to government troops. It will swing into Pennsylvania avenue amid lanes of spectators, and proceed to the base of the towering Washington monument where President Coolidge will receive the young airman and pin upon his breast the first distinguished flying cross ever conferred.

The flyer and his mother then will be taken to the temporary White House for rest. A cabinet dinner will follow, and a gorgeous fireworks display at night will conclude the day's celebration.

Speaker Longworth today appointed the following committee to greet Lindbergh upon his arival at the navy yard here:

Republicans — Britten, Illinois; James, Michigan, Ramseyer, Iowa; Bacon, New York, Wyatt, Pennsylvania.

Democrats—Evans, Montana; Moore, Virginia; Busby, Mississippi; Cole, Maryland, and Bloom, New York.

Police Busy as Pickpockets Get Rotarians' Money

OSTEND, Belgium, June 8. — Pickpockets, attracted here from all over Europe by the crowds attending the international convention of Rotarians, kept the police active today.

D. J. Eubank, of Shreveport, La., reported that his wallet had been stolen. It was recovered later but 400 francs were missing from it. An Ohio delegate, whose identity was not revealed, lost three pairs of trousers during raids by thieves.

Germans Greet Flyers

the crowds made it impossible for the flyers to make much progress in Ambassador Schurman's car.

The police held back huge throngs who insisted upon getting as close as possible to the aviators and shouting their throaty "hochs."

At the entrance to the presidential palace there was a crowd of 3,000 and at the approach of the two Americans they broke through the lines holding up the ambassador's car for several minutes.

Two steel-helmeted reichswehr soldiers, standing on guard at the entrance to the palace, snapped to attention and saluted as Chamberlin, laughing and smiling, acknowledged all the greetings while Levine looked straight ahead, apparently somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

President Lauds Achievement.

President Hindenburg, with Secretary Meiser, was awaiting the guests just inside the palace doors and greeted them cordially as Ambassador Schurman introduced them. The president extended his felicitation to the flyers and lauded their achievement.

The two flyers were probably the most informally dressed persons ever received in presidential audience in Germany. Levine wore a striped business suit and Chamberlin was attired in a flying jacket and plus-fours, the same garb he had worn across the Atlantic.

President Hindenburg gave each of the flyers his autographed photograph, in a silver frame.

The two aviators spent half an hour with the president and on leaving the palace were again besieged by the crowds.

The president displayed great interest in their flight and questioned them at length. He expressed the hope that their "audacious deed would be a forecast of further rapprochement between two great peoples."

Honorary Entertainments.

Tonight Ambassador Schurman will give a formal dinner at the embassy in honor of the airmen. Chancellor Marx and other prominent Germans have been invited.

Foreign Secretary Stresemann is expected to entertain the Americans at a formal breakfast tomorrow morning and on Friday they will be the guests of the city or Berlin at a reception at the city hall.

Honorary entertainments piled up so fast that there is danger of a conflict of dates. The American club planned a dinner and dance for the visitors at the Adlon hotel Friday night. Herr Wilhelm Koch, minister of transport in the Marx cabinet, sent out invitations for a dinner in their honor for the same evening. If both functions are held the Americans will divide their time between the two affairs.

Many Gifts of Pilsner.

Officials of the Lufthansa company —Germany's great commercial air transport enterprise — will entertain the fliers at a dinner Saturday evening.

In between these numerous honorary social events the Americans will be sightseeing. Both expressed a desire to visit Potsdam and see the palace of the former kaiser.

In addition to the numerous congratulatory messages, gifts of all kinds are being received at the embassy. The printed report that both Chamberlin and Levine had expressed a preference for Pilsner beer led to numerous gifts of this beverage. It is evident that the Americans will not be thirsty during their visit to Germany.

The high interest of the German people in the flight and the men who made it was evidenced by the crowds which gathered close to the American embassy and struggled to get a view of the Americans when they went abroad in the streets. They were cheered wherever they went.

Hub Store Named In Bankruptcy Suit Filed in Cleveland

A petition of involuntary bankruptcy was filed yesterday in federal court at Cleveland against Mrs. Sadie E. Freeman, doing business as The Hub Clothing store in the Diamond, by three creditors, all of Pittsburgh, who claim she is indebted to them for merchandise totaling $636, for which she is unable to pay.

Ohioan, Ill, Shoots His Wife and Then Turns Gun on Self

CLEVELAND, June 8.—Frank Schmidt, 47, is dead, while his wife, Eva, 44, was recovering from a bullet wound today, following the husband's attempt to kill his wife late yesterday. Despondent over ill-health, Schmidt shot his wife in the shoulder, and then turned the gun on himself.

BANDITS FLEE WITH $50,000

CHICAGO, June 8.—Two bandits today held up Alvin H. Long, jewelry salesman, and robbed him of diamonds which he told police were worth $50,000.

MOSCOW STORMS OVER MURDER OF AMBASSADOR

Heated Demands for Declaration of War Against Poland.

PRESS BITTER

Sharp Note Handed Polish Envoy on Woikoff Death.

MOSCOW, June 8.—A storm of indignation has broken throughout Russia as the result of the assassination of the Russian minister, M. Woikoff, in Warsaw.

The foreign office is using its efforts to hold public indignation in check and is disregarding some more or less heated demands for an immediate declaration of war upon Poland.

The Russian Press blames Great Britain for the attack and is far more bitter towards the British than towards the Polish people or the assassin. Peace hangs upon the edge of a precipice and the "assassin's hands were directed by another," according to some newspapers.

Guard Polish Embassy.

Mounted police are guarding the Polish embassy which has been closed.

Occasional street cries against Poland are heard.

Soviet Russia has notified Poland that she will hold that nation to strict accountability for the assassination of the Russian minister.

M. Litvinoff has handed a sharp note to the Polish minister here and declared that Russia will reserve the right to re-open the question of responsibility for the assassination as soon as detailed information is received.

The Russian note declares "this unprecedented crime is linked with a whole series of outrages against Soviet envoys abroad which have created a situation which menaces world peace. The raids at Peking, London, and the siege at Shanghai have all unloosened terrorist activities of a group of reactionaries, who in their blind hatred against the working class have stooped to political murders."

France Suggests Pact With America To "Outlaw" War

WASHINGTON, June 8. — France has made overtrures to the United States as to the desirability of negotiating a treaty between the two countries, definitely "outlawing" war, it was disclosed at the state department today.

Through Ambassador Herrick at Paris, Foreign Minister Briand has addressed an informal inquiry to the state department calculated to elicit a reply as to whether the Washington government desires to discuss such a treaty. The suggestion was originally advanced by M. Briand in a speech some weeks ago.

While not desirous of appearing to reject such overtrures, President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are said to consider such negotiations unnecessary in view of the fact there is now in existence between France and the United States the Bryan arbitration treaty which provides justiciable settlement for almost every conceivable dispute that might arise.

Fire Hits Section Of Racing Plant at Bowie, Md., Track

BOWIE, Md., June 8.—Fire early today almost destroyed the racing plant at the Bowie track.

The grandstand, judges' stand, stables and outbuildings were virtually wiped out. Few horses are quartered here at this season of the year, and so far is known none were lost.

Lack of fire fighting equipment hampered efforts to control the conflagration. The track is about half way between Baltimore and Washington, several miles back from the main pike.

Carroll in Prison

roll, New York theatrical producer, made the trip from Greenville, S. C., to Atlanta without ill results and his condition when he arrived at the federal prison was "entirely favorable," the department of justice was advised today by prison physicians.

After receiving this assurance, the department made public the reports of physicians who examined Carroll in Greenville, all agreed that to prolong his stay in Greenville would increase his despondency and might injure his health permanently. This advice caused Attorney General Sargent to order Carroll's removal to Atlanta prison, where he will be confined in the hospital.

Extra Session

islation with the president. He suggested that Mr. Coolidge instruct Secretary of War Davis, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the president of the Mississippi River Flood commission to submit flood control recommendations to congress.

Jones suggested that the Mississippi levees be repaired at once and a spillway be built at New Orleans. The states should help bear the expenses, he said.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CAPITAL'S GREATEST EVENT— WELCOME TO RETURNING 'LINDY'

WASHINGTON, June 8. — To be "treated like royalty" was considered the superlative of swell treatment—once.

When you'd treated anybody "like royalty," you'd gone the limit.

There wasn't any more.

But after Washington's finished treating Charlie Lindbergh—

Why tush, tush, tush!

Compared with the way the national government's laying itself out to treat that boy, the expression "treated like royalty" will sound like "H'lo, when d'ya git in?" without looking up from your work.

I'VE seen the capital receive the Prince of Wales and the Crown Prince of Sweden and the Crown Prince of Japan in the last two or three years. They're royalty.

Or, if you insist on actual crowned heads—the King of Belgium and the Queen of Rumania.

None of those receptions were a patch on what's framed up for Lindy.

I've seen a couple of presidential inaugurations and Washington wasn't lit up in anticipation—or realization—of either, or both of 'em put together, to hold a candle to what it is now.

Why, there was a World Series here in 1924 and another in 1925 and neither of them threw this burg into the state of excitement it's in over Charlie's coming.

TO supply details of the preparations they're making for Lindy, to describe the decorations they're fixing up for him, to summarize the program and to give the various lines of march is no part of my job. Numberless miles of telegraph wires have ticketty-tick-tick-ticked all this information to every corner of this fair land and eke have countless loud speakers squawked it into the air.

But maybe it isn't so generally known that the number of arrangement committees and sub-committees had reached 47 ten days in advance of Lindbergh's coming and more were being formed all the time.

John Hays Hammond, as chairman of the citizens or co-ordinating committee, has the charming responsibility of seeing that these outfits' plans don't clash, and you can take it from me that Secretary Hoover, in the midst of superintending the Mississippi river floods, had an easy time of it compared with that old mining engineer's.

ASIDE from Lindy, the thing will be a show in itself.

The railroads are standing by for the biggest crowd of excursionists they ever handled.

The hotels are booked up to their bathrooms and corridors.

Folks with windows looking on Dupont Circle, where President Coolidge will receive Charlie at the temporary White House, are figuring on getting moderately rich, renting 'em out.

Every official "big bug" in Washington — generals, admirals, cabinet members, everybody else, from the president on down—will be on display.

There'll be troops and bluejackets on the ground and airplanes overhead.

It'll be the greatest jamboree this town ever saw.

New York may outdo Washington in numbers, but it can't equal it in concentrated notabilities.

Coolidge, Kellogg, Mellon, two Davises, Sargent, New, Work, Wilbur, Jardine, Hoover, Summerall, MacNider, LeJeune, Eberle!—just a few samples. That's the kind of people we'll have here.

Columbia Flyers Prepare to Leave Berlin Saturday

BERLIN, June 8. — Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine announced today they will leave Berlin Saturday. They did not disclose their destination but said they would return to Berlin to meet their wives who are due here next week.

JUDGE OVERMYER GOES TO LISBON

Judge A. W. Overmyer, Freemont, Sandusky county, will come to Lisbon next Monday morning where he will preside over common pleas court No. 2 for two weeks.

First of 21 cases against the city of Salem, growing out of a typhoid fever epidemic in the north county city several years ago, will be heard by Judge W. F. Lones next week. These actions, seeking damages because of an alleged impure water supply, were filed by Attorneys Hart and Koehler, Alliance.

Widow and Youth Held After Man's Body Is Found on Fence

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Police investigating the death of Angelo Furne, 26, Columbus, here today are holding his widow, Charlene, 19, and Paul Cagot, 19, 101 First avenue, Cleveland.

Furne's lifeless body was found hanging across a fence with a bullet wound through the left shoulder, shortly after midnight by police who were called to investigate an automobile crash.

According to police, the three are thought to have been occupants of a coupe which was wrecked when it struck a house. When police arrived, Furne, his wife and Cagot, police say, ran from a nearby house, the officers in pursuit. Witnesses declare many shots were fired, but police deny that they shot. Mrs. Furne and Cagot were captured, and when police returned to the street, they reported, Furne's body was discovered.

President Calles' Wife Dies; Funeral In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—The body of Senora Calles, wife of the president, will lie in state today for a few hours in Chapultepec castle and then will be interred in Dolores cemetery just outside of Mexico City.

Members of the cabinet, high government officials and diplomats were at the railroad station to meet the body on its arrival and an escort of soldiers and police was lined up. Thousands gathered along the route of the funeral procession to pay their tribute.

Government business has been suspended. &

"The Temptress," at American, is Graphic Story.

Greta Garbo, a glittering, gorgeous creature—but with a talent more gorgeous and glittering than she—this is the exotic charmer of "The Temptress," Mosmopolitan's new filmization of Ibanez's gigantic drama of loves, hates and the stark wilderness of South America.

The Swedish star's dramatic moments approach the sweep of power of a Duse of a Modjeska; perhaps in a measure they suggest the late Sarah Bernhardt—and it seems strange that such intense dramatic power should go with so beautiful a creature as the exotic beauty of the strange romance now playing at the American theatre.

It is a graphic story that runs the gamut of the Paris cafes, the Buenos Aires pleasure temples and the stark fastnesses of the Andes where determined men battle against the gigantic forces of nature. Ibanez, the author of "The Four Horsemen," has told a tale the sheer power of which beggars decription.

DIVORCE CASES FILED IN COURT

Five Couples Married at New Cumberland Figure in Actions.

The fifth divorce case and one alimony action within the last week of couples married at New Cumberland, W. Va., have just been filed in common pleas court.

Alimony is sought in the petition filed by Attorney H. W. Hammond of Columbiana in behalf of Miriam Allen against her husband LeRoy Allen, now residing at 235 Spring street, Youngstown. This couple were married at New Cumberland May 23, 1925, and separated April 1st last.

Gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty have been charged against the defendant, under the latter charge it being held the defendant struck and beat the plaintiff. Restoration to the plaintiff's maiden name, Rachel Williams is also sought.

$25,000 DAMAGE CASE DECIDED

The $25,000 damage case filed in common pleas court July 15, 1924 by Catherine Little against Guy Snyder came to an abrupt ending when it was called to trial before Judge Lones.

The case had been regularly assigned for trial, and although the defendant was in court, the plaintiff could not be located. Snyder through his counsel demanded that the case be tried, and a jury was impaneled and sworn, and the trial proceeded. The case was submitted to the jury on the evidence and the instructions of the court, and a verdict was returned in favor of the plaintiff.

LISBON STREETS TO BE IMPROVED

The first streets to be improved are those in the western part of the corporation, and work will proceed eastward. The majority of the streets to be improved are those crossing Washington and Lincoln Way from north to south. The contract will not be completed until early fall it is said.

Second Industrial Baseball Circuit May Be Organized Here

Backers to Discuss Plans for League at Parley Friday Night

Several Industrial Concerns as Well as Various Sections of District Expected to be Represented; Will Promote Local Baseball Talent.

Plans proposing the launching of a second industrial baseball league, composed of clubs from the city, Chester, Newell and Wellsville will be discussed at a gathering of players and others interested in the project on Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Simms Motor Sales company rooms in Dresden avenue.

Representatives from the following districts and teams are expected to attend the conference: Golden Star Dairy, Pleasant Heights, West End, East End, Potters Supply, Sherwood, Chester, Newell, Wellsville, Northside and Simms Indians.

While plans for the assembly of the league proper are still indefinite, pending the confab of promoters, the latter express themselves as confident that sufficient playing material can be recruited to permit the formation of a six or eight-club loop, the principal idea being to foster local sandlot baseball talent.

Practicability of the proposed project will be discussed in all its phases at the Friday night session.

Game Rally By Workmen Ties Count

But Heimies Score in 9th to Capture Contest.

After one of the most brilliant rallies that the Recreation league has seen to date, in which the Workingmen's Store, trailing the Heimies for seven innings, tied it up at 7 to 7, the Workies went out in the ninth and presented the league leaders with their eighth straight win as a result of a couple of bad bobbles in the outfield. The final count was 8 to 7.

However, if there were any award for gameness and lasting qualities last night's losers would get the decision of all three judges. Strong in all departments, the Workingmen have lost consistently by single run or two-run margins, during the entire first half.

The pace setters played airtight ball for the first seven frames, a fine defense keeping potential scorers off the bases. It appeared to be another easy victory when the Workingmen went to the plate in the eighth.

At this juncture they landed on Howard for six hits and scored seven runs to knot the count, the big feature of the inning being "Doc" Smalley's home run to left field that scored two ahead of him and tied the count.

In the ninth Elmer English was safe on an outfield error, reaching second before he stopped. Paul English and Bricelin flied out, but a muff on Widdlood's pop fly back of second base enabled English to reach home with the deciding tally.

The Roselawns were "on" last night as they tangled with the Laughlin, Newell, aggregation, and Charley Kidd's outfit got the better of an 8 to 1 contest.

Kidd, getting good support in the pinches, let the visitors down with four safe drives. The Roselawns counted three in the opening frame and two more in the third. They scored three more in the seventh to make it decisive.

The Newell contingent scored its only run in the third.

Ruth Hits 18th; Gehrig 14th; Thomas Beaten.

By Lee Conklin.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The New York Yankees were firmly intrenched in first place today with a lead of two games as a result of some terrific home run hitting yesterday in the first game of the "crucial" series with the Chicago White Sox. The score was 4 to 1 and four of the five runs were homers, Babe Ruth getting his 18th and Lou Gehrig his 14th and Clancy and Collins also hitting for the circuit.

Alphonse Thomas, sensational young White Sox hurler, came to town leading the league in pitching and boasting a winning streak of five straight, but he has never beaten the Yankees and the jinx reasserted itself. During a lapse of less than two minutes, in which Ruth and Gehrig hit successive homers, the game went up the spout.

Ruth is now four days and three games ahead of his 1921 record.

Pat Clancy, who had gotten five consecutive hits the day before, got three more before he was stopped, but his mates could do nothing with Waite Hoyt, the New York pitcher.

Andy High walloped two homers as the sprightly Braves beat the Cardinals, 12 to 5. The beaneaters knocked Jimmy Ring out of the picture.

Hornsby and Terry hit homers but the bases were as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard at the time and the Giants lost a 9 to 6 slugfest to the Pirates. It was Lee Meadows' eighth victory of the season.

Pitchers were knocked out of the box with great abandon as the Cubs took a see-saw contest from Brooklyn, 7 to 6.

The Reds stretched their great winning streak to three games as Jakie May subdued the Phillies, 5 to 1.

A four run rally by Detroit in the ninth, featured by Gehringer's homer with two on, just fell short and the Tigers lost to the Red Sox, 6 to 5.

The Browns got nineteen hits, including a blow which pitcher Milt Gaston landed on a spectator's jaw for "riding" him, but lost to the Athletics, 11 to 9. The police put Gaston out and five Philadelphia pitchers finally succeeded in putting the Browns out.

Washington got off to a six run lead against Cleveland but barely staggered to the wire with a 10 to 8 victory.

LAUGHLIN WINS FROM BILLIARDS

Newell Clouts Timely to Cop 5 to 1 Decision.

Playing errorless ball and profiting by Howell's wildness while hitting timely, Laughlin defeated the American Billiards in a City Industrial league contest at Columbian park last evening, 5 to 1.

A muff by Zorzie, after Parsons had been retired in the first inning paved the way for a trip of runs. Had he caught this ball a close contest would doubtless have resulted.

Howell, passed four and hit two, allowing seven scattered hits. In the second and third he retired his opponents in a row. Had he caught Ranaldi's high infield fly in the fourth with two gone another run would have been prevented.

He wavered after this failure and allowed Ashe to double, scoring another run, and put two men on the bags by passes before Finley fouled to Talbott.

Ashe was steady all the way for Laughlin. He had terrific speed and a fast break. He used a slow ball also. He walked two and hit one, but only the first of these, Moore, scored on him. He did this as the first man up in the first. He regularly turned back his opponents after the opening period without scoring. He retired the Americans in order in the second and fourth, fanning all in the latter and two in the former.

Twice the Americans had two men left on the bags—in the fifth and sixth. With two gone in the former period Howell walked and Moore was hit, but Ashe by a beautiful pick-up of C. Strobel's drive threw him out at first.

With two away in the sixth Amos singled over Grim's head. Haught repeated the same blow, but Zorzie flew to Digman.

Ranaldi made the longest hit of the game, a four bagger to left at the outset of the sixth. He had previously singled, thus swatting .500 for the day.

Crawford had a 1.000 mark at bat and no field chances. He released a sarifice fly in the first, walked in the fourth, subsequently scoring, singled to middle in the fifth and doubled to left in the seventh.

CORDS LOSE CLOSE GAME

Drop 3 to 2 Contest to Wellsville Nine.

The Wellsville Nash Motors hung up their second consecutive victory in two days at Chester last night, downing the Superior Cords by a score of 3 to 2, the Cords, as a result of the defeat, slipping back into second place behind Laughlin.

Manager Riley called in his reserves in the seventh, sending Greene to bat for Reese after Cook had grounded out. Greene made good with a single over second but he was caught stealing.

Rector then was sent to swat for Vanaman. He flew to J. Myers and the defeat stood.

Neither side scored for three innings so well did G. Myers and Stein go on the hilltop for their respective teams. In the fourth Shipley was safe on Conner's wild heave to Wilde. He was forced at second by Hancock, Stein to L. McMath. Kibble sacrificed, Stein to Wilde. C. Wagner tripled to right, scoring Hancock. Flint walked. G. Wagner singled to center, C. Wagner counting. Pollock forced G. Wagner at second, L. McMath making the put out.

In their half of the fourth Chester made one run. Conners walked and stole second. Wilde went out, Hancock to Flint. P. Cebula singled to left, scoring Conners. Cook singled only to have Reese strike out with both runners on the bags.

G. Myers went around in the fifth with Wellsville third run. He doubled to center. C. Evans then supplanted Stein on the hilltop. He scored on J. Evans' error in center in handling C. Coleman's fly. After J. Myers' retirement, Shipley flew to L. McMath and Kibble was thrown out at first by C. Evans.

Chester made their second and final run in the sixth. Conners singled over second after L. McMath had flown to C. Coleman. He purloined second. Wilde flew to Kibble. P. Cebula, as before, drove in Conners with a single to left. He was caught stealing, Pollock to Coleman.

Coleman accepted six chances at second for Wellsville and Kibble four at third. Pollock had three assists behind the bat and a put out.

Conners had a perfect day at bat while P. Cebula batted .667 for the day for Chester.

JOE WELLS ENTERED AT ALLEGHENY

Annual Invitation Tourney Gets Under Way Friday.

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Play begins tomorrow in the annual invitation tournament of the Allegheny Country club, Sewickley Heights, one of the oldest tournaments in the United States, it being the thirty-third annual event. The play opens with the qualifying round of 36 holes medal play, 18 holes in the morning and the final 18 holes in the afternoon.

On Friday morning the elimination rounds will get under way and the finals will be reached Saturday afternoon. With the fine field entered some low scores are looked for. The course never was in better condition than it is at present. Among the out of town entrants are Robert L. Wintringer, Steubenville, O., and Joseph M. Wells, East Liverpool, O., both fine players. Wells qualified for the open championship on Monday, but withdrew to make room for some of the pros who were crowded out.

Richard C. Long, one of the starters, has played in 24 successive Allegheny Country club tournaments. He holds a record in this respect. The tourney is one of the most popular golf events on the local golf calendar.

HAGEN AND ENGLISH IN TANGLE

Visiting Golfers Didn't Like His Plan of Substituting.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 8—It was the general understanding today that Walter Hagen and the visiting British delegation will contrive to bear up bravely without too much of each other's society during the national open championship next week, following a general disagreement at the Ryder cup matches at Worcester. This British versus America series is popularly supposed to engender international good feeling but the story is that it ended with several mashie niblicks being sunk from off the green and none from the heels only because the boys managed to restrain themselves.

According to information available today, the series resulted in a flare-back to the Hagen-Mitchell controversy of the last British golf season, it being claimed on that occasion that Hagen purposely was late in arriving for the match in order to discompose Abe. Later, as he was leaving the country, Hagen aired a few views on the subject of British golf, just by way of pouring oil on the troubled flames.

However, everything was supposed to be serene again when the professionals of both countries convened at Worcester for the international team matches. And then the fun began!

Ted Ray, the British captain, announced his line-up at an early moment. Hagen was pleased to defer his decision and, after he had reached it wanted to make a few alterations. The British objected and a few harsh syllables were exchanged on the subject of sportsmanship. Hagen finally let the foursome arrangement go, as read, but he still was a man with plenty of ideas ideas and tendency to use some of them.

Al Watrous had declared himself out of the series because of an injured finger and Al Espinosa thereupon was nominated for one of the singles. But Watrous changed his mind, so Hagen changed his team, Espinosa changed his cothes and Ray changed his disposition.

The latter felt that somebody had slipped over what is vulgarly known as a fast one on him and din't hesitate to say so. International fellowship was having a field day but calm finally prevailed once more and the match went on.

However, mutual recriminations seemed to be the vogue, for after their defeat, the British were openly critical of what they termed Hagen's jugglery of positions in the singles team.

The Grab Bag

June 8, 1927.

Product of One Local Industry in Lindbergh Plane

Product of one East Liverpool industry was used in the "Spirit of St. Louis," the monoplane in which Captain Charles Lindbergh, recently conquered the Atlantic ocean in a non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Turnbuckles, used in bracing the wings of the craft, were made by Standard Products company, of Corry, Pa. Steel for these turnbuckles was turned out at the plant of the National Drawn Steel company, East End.

The St. Louis backers of the Lindbergh flight recently advised the Corry concern that their equipment had been used in the aircraft. This same information was conveyed to Robert H. Perry, official of the National Drawn Steel company, upon a recent visit to the Corry plant.

Youth of the Atlas

BY MARSHALL TAYLOR HALL
AUTHOR OF "THE VALLEY OF STONE" AND "RIDDLE OF THE CREEK" ETC.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

The sing-song of the Moslem prayer began to drone through the window into Larry's ears. Subconsciously he noted that Benna had dropped asleep, and was, of course, unaware of the hour or even the occasion.

He heard the voice of the man outside droning on, but something in the manner of his saying the words caught Larry's ear and he listened closely. No doubt of it, his message was come at last!

"Under the cushions is a bar. Use it to pry the window loose. Pass out through the east gate of the kasbah, saying when you are stopped, 'The Group.' At the Gate of the Burning, which is the only exit from the village, you must escape as best you can. You may have to fight your way through, remembering that a goodly thrust now and then will be forthcoming in your behalf. Once outside, hurry southward, where you will come to that which you seek and one who shall be nameless bids me tell you that you are now entering the valley which holds the Temple, and that henceforth you must summon your utmost powers as a wizard to combat the evils that will beset you. Do not leave this room until after the acha, the time of prayer after dark."

Larry spoke softly.

"And if I remain here, or am recaptured and brought back?"

"I shall do what I can to aid you, but you probably will have to face the Marabout of Adrar and your life and that of Allal Abdi will be forfeit. The holy man suspects that Allal's rise to power under the new order of things will doom the marabouts, and for that reason he has ordered the youth's death, and yours, also. The hour of prayer ends. I hasten away."

Larry drew a deep breath, then crossed softly to where Benna lay on the cushions, her face calm and peaceful in sleep, her lips parted slightly. He dropped down beside her gently, fearing lest he waken her, and thus he sat for a long time, feasting his eyes on her beauty, drinking in the delicate contour of her face, aching with the longing that was in him to clasp her close and taste once more of those vivid, fragrant lips.

After a time she stirred restlessly and in her movements she lay lightly against him, her head resting on his arm. Soon her breathing became deep again and he knew she slept soundly once more. Carefully, cautiously, he lowered his head and touched his lips in a caress as light as the fingers of fog on the mountain peaks, to her smooth, white forehead. He saw her face change in her sleep, a half-smile lighting it, and, as had happened once before, she whispered his name—"Larry."

Darkness found them thus and when the call from the muezzin floated through the night, bidding all to the prayer after dark, he rose softly and went to the window. He hoped there might possibly be further word from the kaid, who, without a doubt, was in league with Omar ben Medjad or Bou Hamara. But he heard only the somt murmurs of the acha, out in the gloom, and when at last silence fell again he walked back to Benna and touched her lightly on the shoulder.

She was awake instantly, regarding him with eyes that gleamed starlike in the gray gloom. He whispered:

"I have received a message, Little White Flower. It said that beneath these cushions a bar is hidden, sufficiently strong for me to pry loose the window."

She rose quickly and scattering the cushions he found a short, thick piece of iron. Lifting it he went to the window and inserted it between the bars, prying with all the strength of his powerful, well conditioned muscles. Under the strain his shoulders hunched and his biceps bulged in great knots, then there came a tearing, ripping clatter and the frame, its bars intact, came loose and fell to the floor with a crash. Carefully, ears attuned to the sounds of the night without, he listened. Then he heard what apparently was only an echo of the night, yet he distinguished words:

"The east gate of the kasbah, then fight your way through the Gate of the Burning."

He knew the kaid had returned to make sure the pair was making a try for freedom. He turned and motioned for the girl to join him and catching her in his arms he lifted her toward the opening. The contact of her soft, warm body thrilled him, as it ever did, and he mastered an almost overpowering desire to hold her thus at least long enough to drink, once, of her lips. Subconsciously he realized that she was yielding in his arms, ready to turn and yield to him further. Miserable, his mind chaotic, he braced himself and helped her through the window. An instant later he followed.

A glance at the stars and he knew which way was east; now he caught her hand and they moved forward rapidly across the court. Quickly they rounded the end of the kasbah and faced a small gate, where a soldier with levelled lance stood guard. To him Larry said:

"The Group!"

On the words the guard swept his lance aside and pointed toward the outside. Still clinging to Benna's hand, Larry hurried through, pausing only long enough to gain his bearings; then he turned north, in which direction he knew the Gate of the Burning lay and after a time they came to it. A knot of soldiers, lances resting against the wall were there. The gate, Larry imagined, had been repaired. At least, it was again closed tightly.

He saw the kaid, the captain of a hundred who had winked at him, approach. The officer said:

"The pass word?"

"The Group!" Larry said evenly, his heart pounding.

The kaid motioned for him to proceed, but before Larry and Benna could reach the gate the man of the evil visage joined them, crying sharply:

"Kaid el-mia, what would you? Know you not that the rules forbid anyone leaving the karia after the acha?"

Larry knew by the man's garb and bearing that he was nothing less than a kaid el-raha, captain of a thousand, therefore the other kaid's superior.

"But they had the password," the minor kaid said.

"Which is null after the acha, fool, save for entrance and exit at the kasbah. Ha, it runs in my mind that here is the pair we imprisoned today. Come to the light, that I may see your face."

Now the wink which the kaid-el-mia threw at Larry was significant and he saw the fellow touch his sword silently, as though signalling. Larry sensed that the time for action had come. With a single motion he whipped out the sword of Beni Akmed and presented its tip at the other's throat, it needle-like point almost grazing the leathery skin.

"I have a special dispensation of a nature granted to all wizards to go and come as I please, spawn of filth, offspring of a thousand worms," he said, harsh menace in his voice. "Bid your guards open the gate and permit me to depart, or by tomorrow's dawn they are liable to choose a new captain of a thousand."

"Wizard or no," said the other, stubbornly, his face blanching at the thrust of the needle-point at his throat. "I am bade to hold you, and hold you I shall until one who is greater than I arrives on the morrow to judge you. If I die by your black magic, it is as Allah wills, but give the order, I shall not."

"Then, kaid," Larry cried, his voice hot, his every nerve cool, "you are prepared to abide by the consequences?"

"Ai, though they be death itself."

"You are brave, but likewise you are a fool," snapped Larry, not having it in his heart to kill deliberately one of such courage, and his sword swung in a wide arc the while he leaped for the gate. He called to Benna, and she, her own sword out, came to his side. With a yell, the evil-faced kaid barked a swift command and the guard closed in for the attack.

COMEDY WINNER AT CERAMIC

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em" is Paramount Success.

Paramount's current production "Love 'em and Leave 'em," now at the Ceramic theatre, goes over with a big bang. We recommend it as an example of what the modern movie should be. No trick camera work, nothing pretentious, no night clubs, no mobs; just a simple story transferred to the screen with good taste by Director Frank Tuttle, enacted with admirable restraint by Evelyn Brent, Lawrence Gray and Louise Brooks, and photographed with telling effect by George Webber. That's—"Love 'em and Leave 'em."

Adapted from the Weaver-Abbott stage success, it seems bound to duplicate or even exceed past records. Opening in a New York City department store and alternating between it, Central Park and a typical boarding house, this story of two sisters —common enough as stories go,—becomes a thing of absorbing interest.

Mame Walsh loves Bill but refuses to marry him till he makes more money. A vacation away from her sweetheart shows how empty life really is, so back she goes to give Bill a belated "Yes" only to find that her younger sister, Janie, has been flirting with Bill to such an extent that she's beaten her to it. Mame takes the news hard but determines to use Janie's philosophy as her own;—she's going to "love 'em and leave 'em."

and can't run up costly bills
There must be, first a good base—foundation. Then must come a cushion of sand. On top of this the toughest surface to be found—one that can protect the base from all traffic and weather conditions.
Paving brick, being vitrified, is the toughest, densest wearing surface man makes. This surface can't soften under heat; can't undergo chemical change. It can't be damaged by absorbing water and freezing. Moreover, it is built with shock-absorbing resilience. Workmen are surer of a good job in laying this surface—since brick comes from the factory in finished form, tested, ready to put down.
These are reasons why brick is not only the highest-value pavement to be had—but the cheapest of all, as well!
"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.
